KATTELMAN GETS 5 YEARS IN PRISON, IS FINED $1000

Former Stock Broker Sentenced by U. S. Judge Davis on Pleas of Guilty of Mail Fraud and Perjury.

OTHER FEDERAL CHARGES SUSPENDED

District Attorney to Drop Income Tax and Bankruptcy Cases—State Indictments Still Pending Against Him.

Harold J. Katteman, bankrupt broker, pleaded guilty today to charges of mail fraud, perjury and violation of the Securities Exchange Act, and was sentenced by United States District Judge Charles B. Davis to a five-year prison term, with $1000 fine.

The Attorney-General's office will designate the institution to which Katteman will be sent. Katteman asked that he be not sent to any prison now containing persons whom he had helped the Government convict, in mail fraud cases. His lawyer, Patrick H. Cullen, told the court that Katteman had helped the Postoffice Department in the conviction of a large number of persons.

Four Concurrent Maximums. Katteman's plea of guilty was his fourth in two of the four indictments against him by Federal grand juries. Judge Davis imposed the maximum prison term, five years, on each count, but provided that the terms should run concurrently, making the actual time five years. The $1000 fine was imposed on one of the counts charging perjury.

The former broker's decision to plead guilty came when he was about to return to jail, on a sentence imposed by Judge George H. Moore for contempt of court in failing to turn over $39,206 assets of his bankrupt business. Katteman had pleaded that he had paid the money to his wife and his sister-in-law, but Judge Moore did not credit him.

Katteman spent about eight months of 1936 in jail, and was released on bond after appealing the contempt case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. That court, March 2, ordered Judge Moore's order, and directed that Katteman surrender to the United States Marshal and be returned to jail. The surrender was made today, and the defendant, with his lawyer, then entered the plea of guilty.

Other Charges to Be Dropped. United States District Attorney Harry C. Blanton announced, after the plea was made, that he was striking out, with leave to reinstate, the indictments and counts charging Katteman with violating the income tax laws, and with concealment of assets in bankruptcy.

The prosecutor and the defense lawyer discussed the case after the plea, and before the reinstatement. The defendant, in receiving sentence, stood facing the court with hands behind him. He was neatly dressed in a dark gray suit, and in his early forties, and his reddish brown hair is thinning.

District Attorney Blanton told Katteman that monthly installment plan of selling stocks, and said that he had made many misrepresentations to customers in this connection. Blanton said Katteman had represented that he would hold in collateral put up with him by customers, but that instead he had sold such collateral.

Present Liabilities $390,000. Blanton said claims against the Katteman concern amounted to $390,000. To offset these, he named securities and other assets reaching a total of $100,000, but said $22,000 of this total was real estate, to which Katteman's claim was uncertain, as it was claimed by his relatives.

The basis for the perjury charge was that Katteman had said that he had not sold the stocks, and records which he later produced, saying a relative had had them.

Cullen, in his argument for Katteman, stressed his services in the conviction of others, and said the records and records in question in the perjury matter were not of consequence in the case. This was denied by the prosecutor, who said they were of vital importance. He said Katteman had endeavored to Wave of Selling, With Steel, Copper, Rubber and Rail Shares Leading Downswing.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The stock market took cognizance of President Roosevelt's criticism of high prices of many commodities today by a wave of selling which forced prices of shares down by from $1 to $5 in a few minutes.

Steel, copper, rubber and rails led the downswing and were joined by every division of the market. So heavy was trading that the floor quotations by as much as four minutes at times.

The bond market was not so quick in its reaction. United States Government bonds which had dropped in the morning only to rally moderately later, continued at about the same level. Corporation issues were generally lower throughout the morning session.

The recovery of the Federal issues was accentuated in the last 15 minutes of trading, and in heavier volume some got back as much as $10 per $1000 face value bond from their lows of the day.

In the New York Commodity Exchange copper futures dropped more than 1/4 cent a pound, and rubber futures, which had rallied from a previous recession, again slipped lower. On the Chicago board May corn futures reached the highest point in 13 years, $1.25 a bushel.

Cotton futures sold off by from $1.20 to $1.40 a bale.

ONE-DAY STRIKE OF 462,000 COAL MINERS SETTLED

Work Is to Be Resumed Monday Under Agreement for New Wage and Hour Contract.

PAY INCREASES AND OVERTIME

50 to 70 Cents a Day and 9 Cents a Ton More for Cutting and Loading Provided.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 2.—Agreement between the United Mine Workers and Appalachian operators this afternoon prepared the way for resumption Monday of suspended work in soft coal fields from Pennsylvania westward. Tomorrow is a mine holiday.

The bituminous industry in which 462,000 men are engaged, was shut down today following expiration of the miners' contract and failure of negotiations for a new wage agreement after six weeks of conferences.

Today's agreement on a new wage and hour contract was reached at a meeting of a committee of eight miners and eight operators and was quickly ratified by the full Appalachian joint wage conference.

Pay Increases Granted. The agreement calls for the following pay increases for the miners: Fifty cents a day for those paid by the day rate; nine cents a ton on the combined cutting and loading rate for those paid by the ton; 70 cents a day for loading machine operators, 10 percent for yardage and dead work, with time and one-half for overtime. These were the miners' final demands.

The overtime pay proposal caused the most trouble, the operators agreeing more readily to pay increases.

John L. Lewis, president of the miners' union, announced the agreement after the committee meeting. The agreement will extend to April 1, 1938, and provides for negotiations on the next contract to begin March 14, 1939, a month later than the conferences usually commence.

The current conference convened Feb. 17 and took numerous recesses.

Joint Commission Provided. A new agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint commission of miners and operators to study mechanized mining and to make recommendations for the benefit of those who draw up the next agreement.

The operators originally demanded wage increases averaging 15 percent, a cut in the work week from 35 to 30 hours, two weeks' vacation with pay and a guarantee of 200 days' work each year.

Demands of Miners. The operators originally sought an increase in the work week from 35 to 40 hours, with no change in wage rates. The miners finally reduced their demands to the following:

The old contract expired at midnight March 31. Technically the tie-up started yesterday, but the men would have been idle anyway as the anniversary of the eight-hour day was observed.

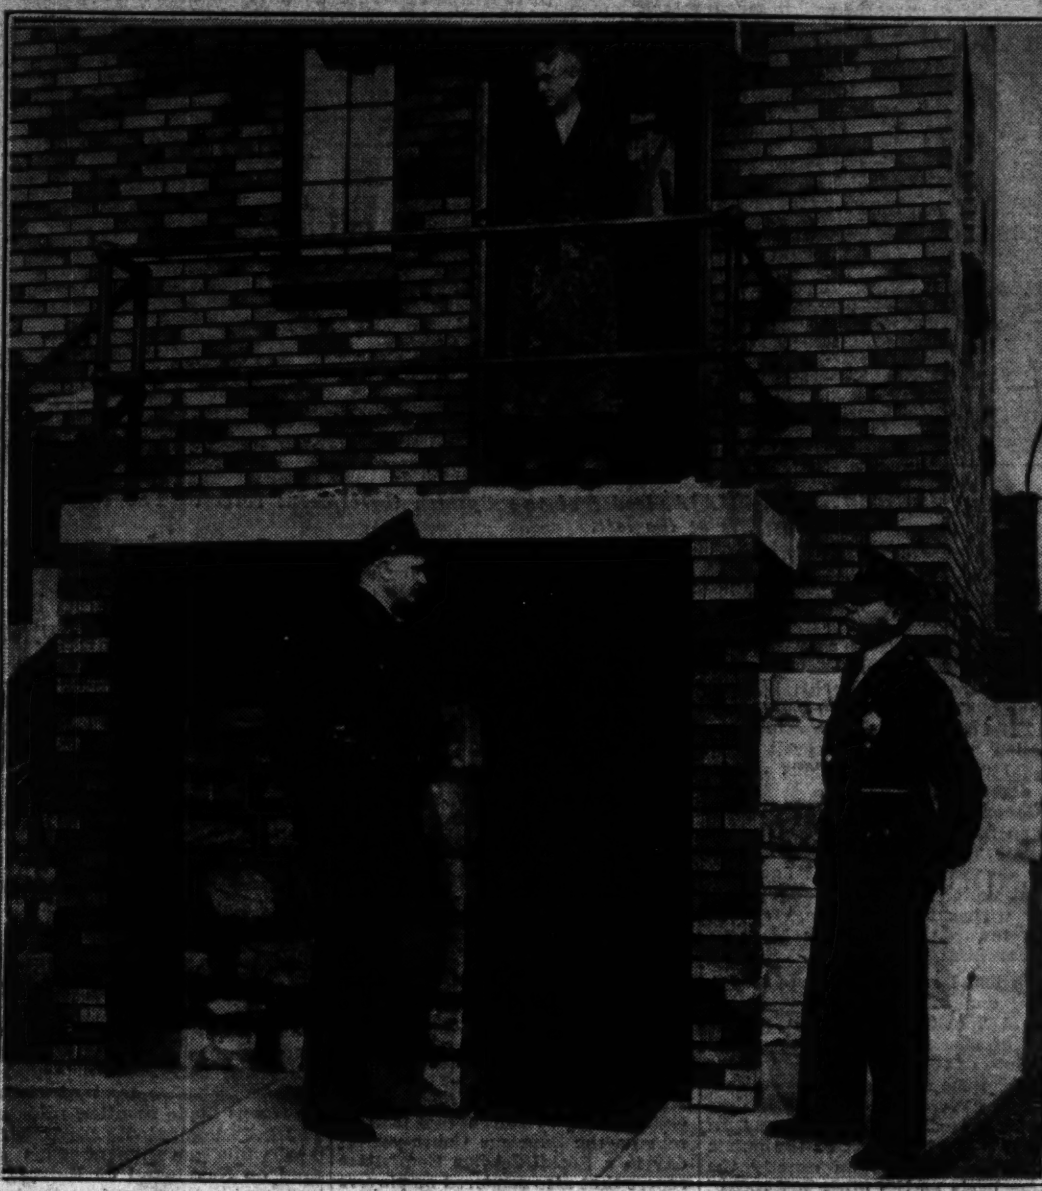

The negotiations here affected directly only the mines in the Appalachian region, ranging from Central Pennsylvania to Northern Tennessee, but agreements for all other mines worked by the United Mine Workers are based on the Appalachian contract.

20,000 or More United Mine Workers Idle in Illinois. Most mines in the nearby Illinois coal field, stronghold of the Progressive miners, were operating today pending negotiations for a new contract. Work was not resumed at two Progressive mines, one in Belleville and one in Collinsville, but were to be open again Monday.

The United Electric Coal Co. mine near Freeburg, under contract with the U. M. W. A., remained closed and work will be suspended there until a new contract is signed.

While about 6000 Progressive miners were at work, 20,000 or more United Mine Workers remained idle in Illinois. W. J. Jenkins of St. Louis, president of the Consolidated Coal Co. and the Illinois Coal Operators' Association, said the situation was not a strike but a suspension of work during contract negotiations.

Contracts of both the Progressive Miners and the United Mine Workers expired Wednesday midnight. The mines were closed yesterday in observance of the annual holiday commemorating establishment of the eight-hour day.

Scene of Attempt on Candidate Remmers

STANDING at the kitchen door of his home, 226 Woodbourne drive, OLIVER T. REMMERS, Republican nominee for Mayor, at the spot where three bullets struck and a crude bomb was hurled last night. The first bullet struck the right side of the door, beside the lower window pane. The second went through the lower left side of the door. The third glanced off the brick wall, just to the left of the door. The bomb did not explode, but shattered the window pane beside which the candidate is standing.

WHAT ABOUT MAYOR'S HORSE AT PUBLIC CRIB?

Discharged Stable Foreman Says It Was There a Year — Dickmann Silent.

Edward Schaefer, 4944 Walsh street, a discharged city employee, called at the Post-Dispatch office yesterday and made a statement to the public that Mayor Dickmann's horse, Big Boy, had been fed and cared for at the expense of the city for more than a year.

Park Department employee, Schaefer said, had been required to construct a box stall in the city stables in Forest Park for occupancy by the beautiful guided horse, a sorrel, 16 hands high. From January, 1936, until about a month ago, he asserted, the Mayor's mount had been kept there, being fed from supplies purchased by the city for city-owned animals.

"I know the horse was fed from materials furnished by the city because the feeding was under my charge and I have on occasions fed the horse myself," said Schaefer, who was stable foreman until Feb. 1.

"A Park Department employee, carried on the city payroll as a chauffeur, cared for and exercised the Mayor's horse."

Adams Pardo, who succeeded Schaefer as stable foreman, said, when questioned, that the Mayor's horse had been at the city stables "last year," but was removed to the private Missouri Stables "about three months ago." He would not say what he meant by "last year."

What the Mayor Says. Mayor Dickmann, when asked about the matter by a reporter took the "I ain't sayin'" attitude of Zeke Canova of radio fame.

Said the Mayor: "He's at the Missouri Stables now, that's all I'll say." Pressed as to the horse's whereabouts through the horse's heated reply, "I'm not saying a thing about that. You ask Louie."

J. W. Loane Jr., a personal friend of Mayor Dickmann, when seen at his tailoring establishment at 807 North Sixth street, expressed surprise that the Mayor had referred the inquiry to him. Big Boy was stabled through 1936, but said he had seen it several times at the Missouri Stables during the year.

Keep $38 a Month. At the Missouri Stables, near the St. Louis University stadium, on the south side of Forest Park, an attendant said the Mayor's horse had been brought in there a month ago for "exercise, after which the Mayor intended to ride him again."

WOMAN LIKELY TO BE MINISTER TO NORWAY

President Indicates He Will Appoint Mrs. J. Borden Harriman.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Roosevelt today indicated he intends to appoint Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, New York and Washington social leader, Minister to Norway.

By an indirect answer to a question concerning such an appointment at his press conference, the President gave the impression that he already had asked the formal consent of the Norwegian Government to name Mrs. Harriman.

Mrs. Harriman, if she is appointed, would succeed Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. of Philadelphia, who reported to be under consideration for another diplomatic post.

She would be the United States' second woman envoy. The first was Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, who resigned as Minister to Denmark last September after her marriage to a captain in the Danish Royal Life Guards.

Mrs. Harriman is a member of the Democratic National Committee for the District of Columbia. She has been prominent in philanthropic work. Her husband, a New York banker, died in 1914.

Three years ago reports in Washington were that she would be named Minister to a European country. She is an ardent administration supporter and made numerous speeches during the last campaign.

Several weeks ago she publicly endorsed President Roosevelt's Supreme Court proposals, declaring they were "the least painful and least radical alternative to a delay that might stretch into years."

A seeming attempt to assassinate or intimidate Oliver T. Remmers, Republican nominee for Mayor, who has been denouncing alleged underworld connections of the Democratic party in his vigorous campaign speeches, was made at 11:35 o'clock last night at his home, 226 Woodbourne drive.

Two pistol shots were fired into the house, close to Remmers; a third bullet hit the brick wall, and a crude bomb was hurled at the house.

Had the bomb exploded close to Remmers it would have maimed him, in the opinion of Assistant Chief of Detectives Jerry O'Connell. The bomb and the first two bullets came within two feet of striking Remmers, but the bomb, which broke a window pane in the kitchen door, was stopped by a taut curtain and it fell back harmlessly on a concrete porch.

The first two bullets pierced the door as the candidate approached it. He was hurrying through the lighted kitchen after a rock was thrown at the door to attract attention.

No Suggestion on Motive. Remmers, who had returned home a quarter of an hour earlier, after delivering four campaign speeches, said to reporters today that he had no idea of the motive for the attack. He was unwilling to say he thought it was connected with his repeated charges that underworld elements were supporting Mayor Dickmann and the rest of the Democratic ticket.

Slight damage was done to the house, but Remmers and his family were badly frightened.

A $1000 reward for arrest and conviction of any person or persons connected with the attempted assassination of Remmers was offered today by the Remmers-for-Mayor Club, Chairman Fred W. Faye of the Republican City Committee announced.

City detectives were assigned to accompany Remmers to and from his office and on his political rounds until after the election next Tuesday. Police will guard the residence at night. Remmers did not ask for the guards, but his wife and police officials insisted on having them.

When two campaign supporters drove the Republican mayoral candidate home after the evening's meetings, no one was in the neighborhood of the house, which is a

HEAVY DAMAGE IN SHELLING OF MADRID

Another Column Consolidates Positions Near El Soldado in Movement Against Rebel-Held Mines at Penarroya.

By the Associated Press. JAEN, Spain, April 2.—Seventy persons were killed and many more wounded during what Government sources said was a "terrific bombing" by insurgent planes last night. Many of the victims, the war minister declared, were women and children residing in the provincial capital east of the Cordoba battle region.

The planes dropped 30 bombs, wrecking many buildings. Townsfolk worked all day to dig bodies from the wreckage. Scarcely a person in the town escaped the loss of a relative or friend.

MADRID, April 2.—A column of Government militia battered its way forward today in heavy fighting on the southern front in an attempt to cut the insurgent communication between Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano's Cordoba headquarters and his insurgent army.

The town of Ovejo, flanked by mountainous country 16 miles north of Cordoba, was expected to fall early today to the drive from the Government stronghold, Pucallanca, about 14 miles farther north.

A five-mile advance southwest from Ovejo would cut the main highway running northwest from Cordoba and isolate that provincial capital and chief base of supplies from the bulk of the insurgent forces commanded by Gen. Queipo de Llano, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's chief aid.

The insurgent forces already had been thrown back from Pucallanca in one of the most decisive Government victories of the war.

Advance on Coal Fields. While one column moved on Ovejo, another large body of Government troops, helped by bombing planes and aerial machine gunners, consolidated new positions south of El Soldado in the steady pressure toward Penarroya, where the insurgents dominate rich coal fields.

Penarroya, about 46 miles from Cordoba on the northwestern route, is the farthest removed of three civilly grouped insurgent centers. Belmes and Pucallanca de Teruel, on the same road, are the others.

These positions were bombed while another squadron of Government planes bombed and machine gunned an insurgent garrison of civil guards besieged for weeks in the sanctuary, Virgen de la Cabeza. The flyers dropped leaflets urging surrender.

Batteries Shelling Madrid. Insurgent artillery batteries late today subjected Madrid to one of the most severe shelling in weeks. Large shells fell into various streets and public squares, causing a large number of casualties and unestimated damage.

Explosions occurred approximately every 10 minutes for several hours in various parts of the city as the projectiles ripped into buildings.

While beleaguered Madrid rejoiced in a belief that government successes far from the Madrid siege lines had relieved the threat of the eastern Basque front at a heavy cost of insurgent lives.

An insurgent attempt to offset recent major reverses, notably in Cordoba and Guadalajara Provinces, was thought to have inspired the strong offensive in the Basque country of Northern Spain.

The fighting spread out along a broad front south and west of the middle of Guipuzcoa Province, as the rebels moved tank, aviation and cavalry units against the Basque troops. At some points positions changed hands several times.

Insurgent bombers cruised over the hilly terrain at the rear of the government forces in repeated bombings of Ochandiano, 13 miles south of the Bay of Biscay coast, and other key points. They were challenged by machine-gunning gov-

ADVISES AGAINST LETTING POLITICS GET INTO COURT

Walter F. Dodd, Chicago Attorney, Says Constitution Has Been Interpreted in Broad Terms.

BURKE TELLS OF NEW RELIEF FUND

President Will Ask for at Least $1,000,000,000 and It Will Be Used in Court Fight, He Says.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A Chicago lawyer, Walter F. Dodd, today read into the record of the hearings of the Senate Judiciary Committee a ringing defense of the Supreme Court, past and present.

Dodd is the first witness appearing in opposition to President Roosevelt's plan to remake the court who has not been in agreement with the fundamental position of the administration that a change in constitutional interpretation is essential to validate laws broadening the power of the Federal Government. The other opposition witnesses, and there have been a procession of them for two weeks, have disagreed with the method chosen by the President to achieve this end—that is enlargement of the court.

The Constitution, Dodd said, confers national powers in broad terms, and the court, he added, "has construed such powers broadly."

"Without such construction," he said, "we would not today have the broad national control of banking; the extension of admiralty jurisdiction to all navigable waters; the control of interstate railroad rates and of other transactions affecting interstate commerce; the expansion of the bankruptcy power; the broad Federal powers of monetary control."

Wide Discretion in Court. "This development, did not stop with Chief Justice Marshall. Chief Justice Taney did much to develop such power, and its expansion will be found, represented by opinions of Hughes, VanDevanter and other present members of the court. Broad and flexible language, either in a Constitution or a statute, necessarily leaves a wide discretion in the court and such discretion is necessary to a Federal system in a changing world."

"But language, no matter how broadly construed, has its limitations, and the national Government, after all, is a Government of delegated powers. It has certain granted powers and the fact that its powers were intended to be limited is emphasized by the tenth amendment."

"Let us remember," said Dodd, "that when we make our court dependent upon the political branches of Government we have surrendered not merely one of the essential principles of our Government, but all of them, and that when we have surrendered them to the present chief executive we have surrendered them to his successors as well."

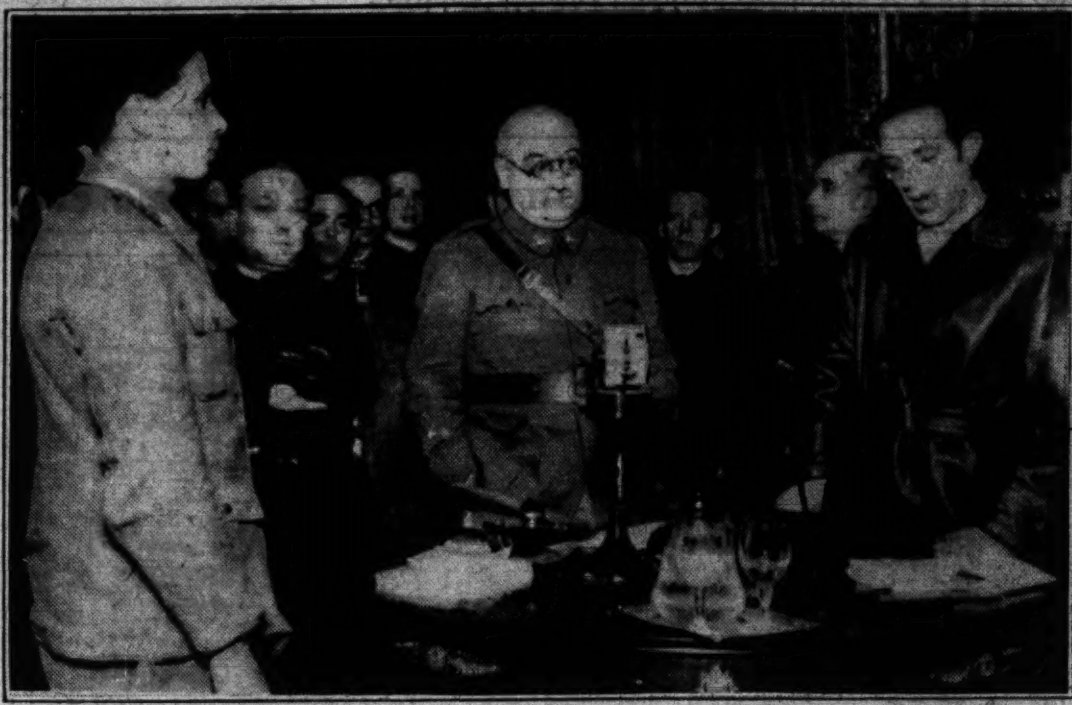

Way to Discredited Court. "The present plan, if once successfully used by an executive to accomplish his purpose, will continue to be employed, and, if it is used, the highest court of this country will be, and should be, discredited. And if the courts may be controlled in this manner as to public issues, they must cease to be trusted as impartial arbiters of private rights."

As other witnesses have done, Dodd challenged President Roosevelt's quotation of the "general welfare clause" in his radio address to the nation of March 9. The President, Dodd implied, deliberately misquoted the clause as a "political trick" to make it seem that it gave to Congress "independent powers."

Agrees with Dean Smith. In the course of his cross-examination Dodd referred to the method of constitutional amendment put forward by Dean Young B. Smith of the Columbia University law school when he appeared before the committee. Smith suggested that Congress could provide not only that an amendment should be ratified by conventions in the States, but also that Congress could specify a uniform election date in all the States to name delegates to these conventions.

"I have serious doubts that Congress has such a power," Senator McGill (Dem.), of Kansas, declared. The witness said he disagreed. He held the view that Congress had the power to specify an election date. The plan was put forward by Dean Smith to show how the amendment process might be speeded up and to refute the argument of the Roosevelt forces that it would require years for the adoption of an amendment enlarging the powers of Congress.

Canon Stokes Witness at Afternoon Session

The Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of the Washington Cathedral, told the committee at the afternoon session that the Roosevelt bill would "constitute a serious threat to democracy."

Canon Stokes described himself as an independent Democrat and a liberal "who believes intensely in our democratic form of government under a written Constitution and wishes to oppose any tendencies towards Fascism or Marxian Communism."

He listed seven objections to the plan, one of which was that it would "inevitably result in a new line of cleavage within the court" because of feeling that would result between the old and new Justices.

Noting references to them as "wet nurses," he said it would be difficult for the court or the public to "treat them as on exactly the same basis as the other members."

Furthermore, the canon argued, the new Justices would find it difficult to exhibit absolute impartiality.

"They would be inclined," he said, "either to feel bound to support 'New Deal' legislation just as far as their consciences would permit, or to prove their independence by opposing it."

Stokes proposed the submission of a constitutional amendment for compulsory retirement of all Justices at 75 years of age and a second amendment to fix the Supreme Court membership at nine.

Tells of New Relief Fund. Senator Burke (Dem.), of Nebraska, a committee member who has been most vehement in his opposition to the court plan, started the committee late yesterday when he charged that the President would shortly send to Congress a request for a new relief appropriation of between $1,000,000,000 and $1,500,000,000 and the relief fund, according to Burke, would be used to help put over the court proposal.

The Nebraska Senator said that he had been informed only two hours before by "a very responsible official of this Government" that the fund would be so used. This "official," Burke said, asked him if he did not realize the "futility of trying to fight $1,500,000,000."

Burke's statement immediately drew a challenge from Senator O'Mahoney (Dem.), of Wyoming, who has thus far been considered as neutral toward the court proposal. O'Mahoney demanded that Burke make public the name of the "official" declaring that the Nebraska had questioned the integrity of the entire Senate. Burke refused, saying "there is no merit in emulating the ostrich in order not to see a condition that exists." And adding that he would not "be deterred from bringing out into the open every influence that will be brought to bear."

"Bring it out then!" O'Mahoney shouted, hammering on the committee table. "Don't hit at it! Who was the man?"

Argument Taken Up Again. Senator Hatch (Dem.), New Mexico, who was presiding, rapped for order and the two Senators finally were silent. But when the session was over they took up the argument again and spectators stayed behind to listen to this informal and somewhat heated debate.

The witness on the stand at the time of the outbreak was John T. Flynn, newspaper columnist, who told the committee that it was a common belief that the President wanted his court plan adopted in order to have a new NRA validated. And the NRA, Flynn said, marked a surrender of "sovereign power" by the Government to private industrial groups.

Norris Advocates Direct Vote in General Election. Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, advocated today that the people vote directly on proposed constitutional changes in the next general election after submission of an amendment.

"Simplification and speeding of the amending process should help materially to solve social and economic problems which lie behind the dispute over the courts," he said.

ernment pursuit ships and beaten into retreat after each attack. The Basque defenders were reported holding their lines, including a spearhead within 30 miles of the former insurgent capital, Burgos, from Santander to the north on the Biscay coast.

An insurgent cavalry unit which moved ahead of infantrymen was cut off and surrounded in the town of Gorbax.

Gen. Jose Miaja's counter-offensive in Guadalupe Province, about 50 miles northeast of Madrid, continued slowly along both sides of the Aragon highway. The central front commander spent the day with his militiamen there.

About 35 miles west of Madrid, his troops made scouting raids into insurgent-dominated Avila Province while government guns still fired on Navalperal de Pinarens, an insurgent outpost, under attack for days.

Closer to the capital, along the Coruna highway to the northwest, government planes scattered leaflets over the besiegers, pleading with them to desert to the Madrid-Valencia forces.

Cordoba Bombed by Loyalists; Heavy Loss of Life.

SEVILLE, April 2.—Government planes were reported today to have bombed Cordoba, chief supply base of Gen. Francisco Franco's southern army, inflicting a heavy toll of death and injuries. Insurgent reports said buildings damaged included a military hospital.

The bombing was the first direct assault against the provincial capital in the current fighting.

POLICE USE TEAR GAS IN RAID ON UNION HEADQUARTERS

Arrest 48 as Two Plants Closed by Strikes at Albert Lea, Minn., Reopen Under Guard.

ALBERT LEA, Minn., April 2.—Police and county authorities used tear gas in a raid on union headquarters today to arrest Joseph Voorhees, union organizer, and 47 others as two plants of the American Gas Machine Co. closed by strikes reopened under police guard. Charges against the 48 were not announced.

In St. Paul, it was announced that Gov. Elmer A. Benson and Lieutenant-Colonel J. E. Nelson, assistant Adjutant General, had left for Albert Lea to determine whether State militia were necessary to help clear up the strike situation.

The strikers sought union recognition.

Grand jury action followed testimony that McKinlay bribed a juror, Gustave Anderson, with cash and the promise of a job. Zintak was acquitted in a second trial.

KIRKSVILLE BOMB INQUIRY AWAITS MAYOR'S RECOVERY

Official Improving But Doctor Says It Will Be Necessary to Amputate Leg.

By the Associated Press. KIRKSVILLE, Mo., April 2.—Marvin B. Casteel, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, said last night the investigation into the motor car bomb explosion that injured Mayor Gail A. Jacobs was at a standstill until the Mayor recovered sufficiently to assist investigators.

Jacobs' condition continued to improve, but doctors said it would be necessary to amputate his left leg, which was broken in 15 places by the explosion that occurred when he attempted to start his automobile at his home Tuesday.

Casteel said officers had discovered the theory that a disgruntled coal hauler placed a bomb in the car. The City Council recently prohibited coal haulers from parking their trucks on the public squares to sell their coal.

Mayor Jacobs told reporters he could "not think of a thing anyone has against me."

REBELS ADVANCE IN NORTH IN DRIVE AGAINST BILBAO

Gen. Mola's Army Takes Four Mountains and Is Within 20 Miles of Basque Capital.

By the Associated Press. VITORIA, Spain, April 2.—The northern insurgent army commanded by Gen. Emilio Mola moved farther today into the wall of mountains protecting the Basque capital, Bilbao. Heavy losses by the defenders were reported.

The mass offensive reached points within 20 miles of Bilbao, where Gen. Mola, one of Gen. Francisco Franco's right-hand men, hopes to crush the Basque allies of the Madrid-Valencia Government.

Four peaks of the Cantabrian mountain range south and southeast of the Biscay coast city were wrested from stubborn defenders. It was reported—Mounts Gorbea, San Adrian, Curruceta and Murrumendi. Hundreds of prisoners and great quantities of arms and munitions were abandoned to the insurgent offensive.

The Government forces counter-attacked in attempts to regain ground lost when Gen. Mola's men attacked their lines two days ago. Despite rainstorms which made operations difficult, Gen. Mola's men were said to have met successfully the Government counter-thrusts and to have forced the Government troops to fall back in disorder to rearguard positions near Bilbao.

Rebels Fly in Fog

Gen. Mola's army, during the heavy mists that overhung the mountains, landed the opposing lines. This attack was carried on without opposition from the air, adverse conditions apparently having grounded Government pilots.

The advance on Bilbao cleared Government troops out of Alava province, lying south of the Biscay coastline province of Vizcaya, of which Bilbao is the capital. A field headquarters of the northern advance.

The Vitoria front was considered cleared of Government forces for the first time.

Great effort was required of Gen. Mola's four brigades to storm and capture the four peaks from which they dominated vast sections of the enemy lines.

The town of Gorbax, on the summit of the 5000-foot peak of that name, was taken by surprise. The other three were occupied shortly afterward. Most of the prisoners, as well as the stores of war supplies, were taken in the capture of Mt. Murrumendi.

A hundred peasants and their families, driven in fear from their homes in the Cantabrian Mountains and lowlands, fled southward through Gen. Mola's lines.

Government Dead Put at 100.

First reports of the offensive placed the Government dead at 100 and the number of prisoners at 500. The drive was executed by two columns. Strategists mapped the lines of approach to converge on Bilbao from the south for a full force attack against the city. The campaign was designed carefully with the objective of wiping out Government strength just as Gen. Mola did at Irun and San Sebastian last summer.

The insurgent general staff announced its forces on the Guadalupe front, northeast of Madrid, had pushed their line ahead to "important" positions, putting Madrid troops to flight.

On the Cordoba front, in the south, the insurgents said Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano's army repulsed an attack by Government troops trying to escape siege at Fozoblanco.

ROOSEVELT DECLARES RISE IN PRICE OF STEEL AND COPPER IS EXCESSIVE

Says Government Should Cut Outlay for Durable Goods and Stimulate Expenditures for Consumers' Articles.

CLARK-TRUMAN DEBATE ON COURT SUGGESTED

Senators Indicate, However, They Will Decline Invitation to Meet in City.

By RAYMOND T. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Using his semi-weekly press conference as a rostrum, President Roosevelt today announced that the economic situation of the country required the Government to cut down its expenditures for products such as steel, copper and concrete going into durable goods and to increase the general expenditures for consumers' goods.

The unexpected announcement came in answer to an inquiry about his conference yesterday with several Congressmen who wanted the Public Works program continued on a large scale. At this conference the President said that he had no objection to continuation of the P W A for two years provided no new money was appropriated for it and that it would merely carry out past commitments.

To reporters, the President said there was no reason why he should not give a dissertation in words of one syllable on the present economic situation.

Danger Sign, He Says.

Everyone who had reviewed the economic situation was agreed, he said, that the present increase in the production and price of durable goods had been much more rapid than the consumption of consumer goods. Experience in the past for the last 30 or 40 years had demonstrated, he added, that this was a danger sign, particularly when the curve of production of durable goods rose above consumer goods production. A depression did not always result from such a situation but there had always been a falling off of both productions in the past.

This condition, the President continued, meant that the Government should let up on its purchases of durable goods and see what could be done about increasing the consumption of consumer goods, because there should be more expenditures at the bottom and less at the top.

Specifies Large Price Increase.

The President observed that during the last few years the Government had bought more than $250,000,000 worth of steel and a large percentage of the concrete produced in this country. The net result had been, he said, that the price of these products had greatly increased and that the time had come for the Public Works Administration to slow down on the construction of steel bridges and great permanent structures.

Taking up the subject of copper, the President said that everyone a profit on copper at 5 and 6 cents knew that some mines could make a profit at 8 and 9 cents a pound. Despite these production costs, the copper is now selling for 17 cents a pound, and according to the President, the price of all copper products, including consumer goods, is going up.

Public Works Program.

Although the PWA work will be held down to a minimum, the President said that the Government would continue its plan to spend about $500,000,000 annually for public works. The change would come, he explained, through the spending

PROBABLE ENVOY

MRS. J. BORDEN HARRIMAN

REMMERS SHOT AT IN HOME; BOMB THROWN AT DOOR

Mrs. Remmers, her husband and their 19-year-old son, Douglas, home from college on a holiday, were chatting in the breakfast room, adjoining the kitchen at the back of the house, when a small rock struck the kitchen door. Remmers strode to the kitchen door, intending to open it. He passed a narrow window beside the door through which he could have been seen from outside.

A Crash of Glass.
"Just as I got to the door," he related to reporters, "there was a crash—it must have been the bomb, striking the glass. I dropped into a chair beneath the window, crouching low, in case something else followed. Then the shots were fired. My son said there were three of them, but I couldn't tell."

"I didn't have any knee action left, but I beat it for the telephone, stooping as I went through the kitchen. In my excitement I couldn't remember the police number and had to look in the front of the book for it. (He used to be president of the Police Board.) My wife and son dropped to the floor of the breakfast room."

"We didn't unlock the kitchen door until police arrived. They came pretty quickly, but my wife thought it was an hour before they got here. My daughter, Fernia, who was in bed upstairs, heard a car motor racing outside after the attack and heard a man in front of the house say, 'Get going.'"

"I can't account for the attack. Some fool may have decided he didn't want me around. I intend to keep up the same kind of campaign I have been making until the election next Tuesday."

If Remmers had moved a few inches farther north, one bullet would have struck his leg, while if he had been two feet farther north another would have hit him near the heart.

Rock Found in Driveway.
While conversing with reporters, Remmers spied on the gravel drive back of the kitchen a flinty rock several inches long, with the mark of a quarry drill. He found that one end of it fitted perfectly into a dent on the south side of the kitchen door, next to the window. Investigators concluded that it was thrown deliberately to attract attention.

Police, after an examination of the premises, told Remmers that the curtain may have dislocated or extinguished the bomb fuse, preventing a detonation, but the curtain was not marked. Fragments of the window glass flew some distance away.

The bomb was a piece of heavy tin pipe, 14 inches long and an inch in diameter, containing black sporting powder, sufficient to fill two shotgun shells, and eight machine-shop bolts and nuts. One end was mashed shut. Protruding from the other end was the fuse, which had been ignited but had gone out, leaving a length of about an inch outside the pipe and two inches inside.

The fuse was a piece of dandle wick, coated with candle grease. It was stuffed in with a wad of cotton. Attached to the pipe was a piece of trough-shaped metal. This and the pipe together might have been an icebox drain or a device for supplying water to chickens. The bomb was wrapped in an old shirt and a piece of white toweling.

Bomb to Be Examined.
First policemen to reach the house threw the bomb into a vacant lot to the north. Detective-Sergeant Emmett Morrison, head of the bombing squad, kept it in his automobile over night, and, with experts at the Midland Chemical Works, opened it this morning.

Assistant Chief of Detectives O'Connell said to reporters that, had the bomb exploded, it would have made "a big noise," but that the blast probably would not have caused serious damage in itself. However, he pointed out that the bolts and nuts, propelled forcibly, could have done serious injury to a person nearby.

Evidently the person firing the shots was moving from the back of the house to the drive on the north side. He had to fire at an upward angle, as the yard is about six feet lower than the kitchen floor. What seemed to be the first bullet went through the north side of the door and struck high on the glass-like tile wall of the west side of the kitchen. The tile was shattered and the bullet, which was steel-jacketed, from a .32-caliber automatic pistol, fell to the floor.

The second bullet came closer to

TWO FIRMS SIGN WITH CIO UNIONS AND END LOCKOUTS

Johnston Tin Foil & Metal Co. Grants 8-Hour Day and 40-Hour Week With Wage Increases.

The Johnston Tin Foil and Metal Co. plant at 6106 South Broadway was reopened today under an agreement with union employees, who had been locked out since March 16. The management had shut down in anticipation of a sit-down strike by a CIO union.

The union, United Electrical and Radio Workers of America, claims a majority of the 229 shop employees who returned to their jobs this morning. The company manufactures tin food containers and metal for radios.

Negotiations between Hyman G. Stein, company attorney, and William Senter, CIO organizer, were concluded last night. An agreement for 15 months was signed, recognizing the union as collective bargaining agent for its members, establishing an eight-hour day, 40-hour week and minimum wages of 30 cents an hour for women and 40 cents for men. Woman employees, who had been receiving 30 cents an hour or more, were given an increase of 5 cents an hour, and men whose scale exceeded the 40-cent minimum, received a 10 per cent increase. There was no previous union agreement with the company.

Another labor dispute was settled yesterday when the Adler Metal Products Co., 3662 Park avenue, makers of steel filing cabinets, signed an agreement with its 54 shop employees who are members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, affiliated with the CIO. The agreement provided for a wage increase of 2 1/2 per cent, according to John Doherty, union organizer. The men, locked out on March 13, returned to work today.

A. F. of L. Cabinet Makers in 25 Shops Get Wage Increase.

Seven hundred union cabinet makers, employed in 25 cabinet and fixture shops, received a wage increase from 75 cents to 82 1/2 cents an hour under an agreement which became effective yesterday.

The agreement, for one year, is between the St. Louis Cabinet Manufacturers' Association and the Cabinet Makers' Union, affiliated with the Carpenters' District Council and the A. F. of L.

Shoe Factory at Union, Mo., Closed by Strike.
The factory of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. at Union, Mo., was closed today by a strike of 750 workers, who demanded a 15 per cent wage increase. Union, county seat of Franklin County, is 50 miles southwest of St. Louis on United States Highway No. 50.

The walkout became general yesterday and a committee of workers met with Luke E. Hart, president of the Hamilton-Brown Co., who told the committee the company could not grant the increase.

Hart recalled that there had been an upward adjustment of wages throughout the plant on Jan. 1. The strikers, who belong to no union, later held a mass meeting and voted to invite union organizers to take charge of the situation. Sentiment at the meeting was reported to have been favorable to CIO organization.

Wages at the shoe factory, based on piece work rates, have averaged $13.45 a week since Jan. 1, it was stated at Union. The shoe factory, Union's most important manufacturing plant, makes women's shoes.

Remmers, penetrating the lower part of the south side of the outer door. It was imbedded in the wood of a swinging door leading into the living room, about 18 inches above the floor. The third bullet struck the vitrified brick wall immediately south of the door, close to the porch floor. Police found an empty cartridge in the yard.

Clayton policemen were among the first to arrive in response to the radio summons. Woodbourne drive being close to the St. Louis-Clayton boundary line.

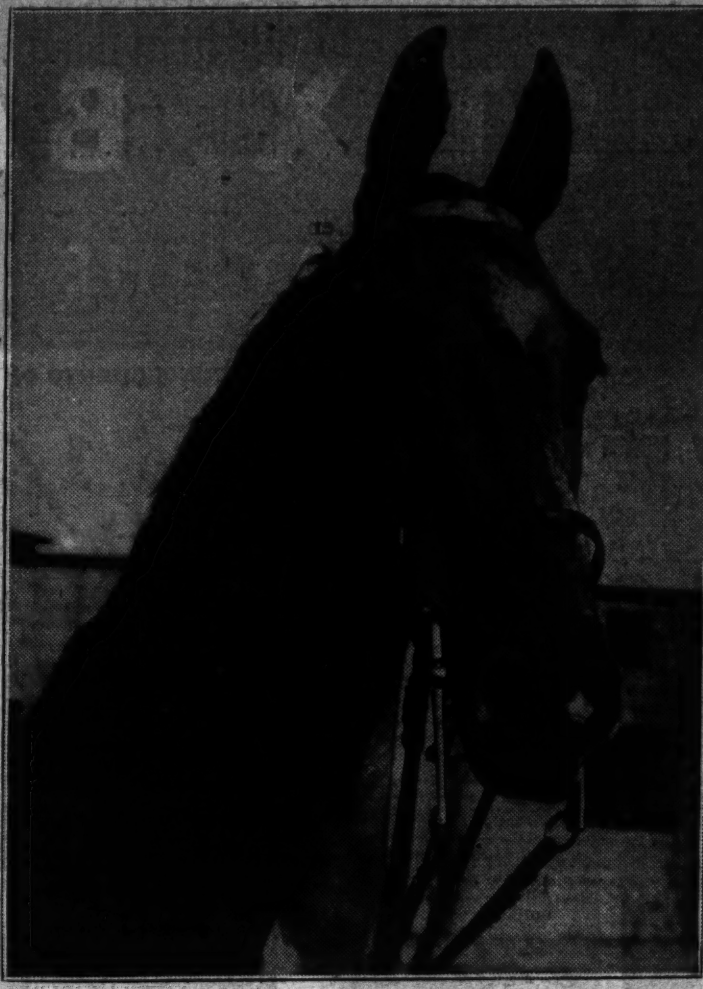

As Remmers was on the way home from his last address of the evening, at Southwest Turner Hall, Ohio avenue and Potomac street, he noticed that another automobile ran parallel to the one in which he was riding, for half a block. He did not recall where this was and did not notice the occupants. After the attack on his house, he thought there may have been some significance in this incident. The Republican Speakers' Committee has been having him ride in different cars from time to time during the campaign, as a precaution.

Remmers delivered his prepared speech at the evening's first meeting, in the Eighteenth Ward, at Dodder Hall, Twentieth and Dodder streets. In it he talked about what he called sinister political influences affecting the city, including the influence of "Bo" Brown and "Gully" Owen, proprietors of a racing news service. He also spoke at Crunden Library, Fourteenth street and Cass avenue, in the Fourth Ward, and at St. Cecilia's Hall, Louisiana avenue and Eichelberger street.

Tonight he will speak at Swedish Hall, 1159 South Kingshighway, and Cabanne Library, Union boulevard and Cabanne avenue.

Harry Rosecan, former prosecuting attorney, a Republican, offered $100 reward today for arrest and conviction of Remmers' assailants.

REGISTRATION FRAUD INQUIRY TO BE MADE

Reports of Canvassers to Be Submitted to Circuit Attorney Miller.

Special canvassers for the Board of Election Commissioners have discovered several instances of apparently fraudulent registrations which will be referred to Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller for further investigation, Chairman William H. Woodward of the board told reporters this afternoon.

Woodward declined to go into details, except to say that some of the cases were in the Sixth Ward, in the downtown district, where some of the most flagrant frauds were found in last year's exposure by the Post-Dispatch of election and registration frauds.

"I don't think it's wise to give the location of the places suspected now, because that would defeat the purpose of the investigation," he said. "The cases will be referred to the Circuit Attorney and if he wants to make a statement later, after he has had an opportunity to investigate, that is up to him."

BRADFORD SHINKLE JR. ASKS FOR CHANGE OF VENUE

Application Affects Four Suits Totalling $70,000 for Injuries in Auto Collision.

Applications for changes of venue in four damage suits, totaling $70,000, against Bradford Shinkle Jr., 35 Portland place, as the result of an automobile collision in Forest Park last Nov. 1, were filed in Shinkle's behalf in Circuit Court today. Presiding Judge M. C. Baron said he would pass on the application Monday.

Shinkle, who is facing charges of manslaughter and felonious wounding as the result of another automobile collision and is defendant in other civil suits for a total of $85,000, growing out of the other collision alleged in the applications that "the inhabitants of St. Louis and the surrounding metropolitan area are unduly prejudiced against him and asked that the cases be transferred to another circuit outside of St. Louis or St. Louis County."

The suits, in which Shinkle seeks a change of venue, were filed by Miss Melba Peterson, 5322 Robin avenue, for $45,000; Miss Peterson's fiancée, Anthony Herzog, 4829A Natural Bridge avenue, $5,000; Thomas Withington, who resides near Jefferson Barracks, and Miss Wilma Gunther, $10,000 each. All were in Withington's car in the collision. Miss Peterson recently underwent an operation for the removal of her right eye as a result of her injuries.

time," but declined to say when the animal had been there previously. The transaction was a private one he contended, adding that he would not open his records without the approval of the Mayor.

Park Commissioner Joseph J. Mestres, Democratic Committeeman of the Seventh Ward, said he demoted Schaefer Feb. 1 and dismissed him six weeks later for "the good of the service." Schaefer, a Democrat, got his job in the big political turnover of 1933.

At the Comptroller's office, it was said that if the Mayor's horse was kept at Forest Park, the city never had received any pay from the Mayor for its keep. In any case no blame attaches to the horse, which is a splendid animal.

ZION CITY TABERNACLE BURNS; $600,000 LOSS

Overseer Voliva of Illinois Religious Community Thinks Fire Was Incendiary.

By the Associated Press.
ZION, Ill., April 2.—Explosions and fire destroyed the 35-year-old Shiloh Temple and Radio Station WCBZ today at a loss estimated at between $600,000 and $750,000.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Apostolic Church which operates the temple, said he hadn't "any doubt the fire was intentionally started."

Voliva and Edward N. Jaeger, chief engineer of the radio station, said they heard several explosions. Jaeger said he was in the station and smelled smoke. He looked out a window and saw the roof of the tabernacle rising, he said, and flames leaping out. He declared several explosions were clearly audible.

Voliva, who said he and an attendant were driving past the tabernacle, saw smoke coming from several windows and heard the explosions. He sounded the alarm. Known for his belief the world is flat and for his former strict control over affairs of the city, the overseer said the tabernacle, built in 1902, was valued at between $500,000 and $600,000 and the radio station at $150,000. An organ he valued at $30,000 was destroyed also.

The tabernacle, originally seating about 8000 persons, was three stories high. In recent years Voliva had reduced the size of the auditorium and built in about a dozen classrooms.

"I saw smoke coming from many different places," he said. "I went in and discovered flames in rooms as far apart as 200 feet. The building was steam heated and new boilers had recently been installed. The basement was concrete. There is no question but that the fire was of incendiary origin."

Zion's two pieces of fire fighting equipment were joined by one from nearby Waukegan. They were handicapped by lack of water pressure and were forced to draw water from a small lagoon, which was soon pumped dry.

The tabernacle was the scene of an annual Passion Play, the most recent performance of which was last Sunday.

straightened out his business matters, but had been prevented from doing so by his commitment to jail. The Kattelman firm, which had offices in the Central National Bank Building, was closed in June, 1935, when the Securities Exchange Commission filed an injunction suit alleging that it was an insolvent business. A schedule of assets and liabilities, filed later by Kattelman, indicated that the concern owed $355,489 to more than 500 customers.

PAIR FOUND GUILTY IN MANN ACT CASE

Helen Schrader and Leroy Brown Convicted of Taking Girl to "Valley."

Helen Schrader and Leroy Edward Brown were found guilty of violation of the Mann Act by taking 18-year-old Clara Hajek across the State line from St. Louis to a house in the "Valley" vice district of East St. Louis, by a jury in United States District Judge George H. Moore's court today.

Sentencing of the two defendants and Charles Lindell Broyles, son of a St. Louis policeman, who pleaded guilty of the same charges and testified against them, was deferred until 10 a. m. Monday.

Maximum penalty on the first count on which they were convicted, transporting the girl on June 19, 1936, is five years in the penitentiary and a $5000 fine, and that on the second count on which they were convicted, conspiracy, by a maximum of two years' imprisonment and a $5000 fine. Another count, that of transporting the girl on June 11, 1936, was dismissed as the Schrader woman before the case went to the jury yesterday afternoon, and the jury found Brown not guilty on it.

The Hajek girl, who formerly worked as a domestic in a Waterman avenue home, testified yesterday that Broyles and Brown, with whom she had been in the habit of going to taverns, persuaded her to go to East St. Louis and remain in a house conducted by Helen Schrader. In 12 days at the resort, she received $300 of which she gave $150 to the Schrader woman and $80 to Broyles, she testified. A brother who traced her there forced her to leave. Broyles testified that he and Brown took not only Clara Hajek, but two other girls to the resort.

WOLFF'S ... 7th & Olive

WOLFF'S SCORE ANOTHER Bulls-eye

with the sensational new GULFWEIGHT SUITS

Made Only by HART SCHAFFNER & MARX

GULFWEIGHT SUITS were first introduced only last Spring—and were an immediate success! St. Louis men found them ideal for our "warm-one-day, cold-the-next" weather... They're the only suits we know that assure maximum comfort and style from early Spring until late Fall! The secret of their comfort lies in their construction, and the materials from which they are made. Fabrics are woven from blended wools with "thermostatic" qualities. Padding, pipings and linings are reduced to a minimum. Imported Belgian linens are used in coat lapels. Vests are streamlined. The entire suit weighs only 48 ounces!

Gulfweight Suits are flawlessly tailored of the favored fabrics for Spring... Blue Ridge Crashes, Worsted Flannels, Gabardines and Triple Test Worsteds. Try them on tomorrow and they'll sell them themselves... give you more comfort and style—for more months in the year—than any other suit you can wear!

RESUME OF STRIKE SITUATION IN THE ST. LOUIS DISTRICT

4000 Employees in Six Industries, and 107 Firms Involved—All but One in CIO Unions.

Four thousand St. Louis workers are on strike at 107 firms, including 100 furniture moving companies, in six industries ranging from underwear manufacturing to railway coach building. Three strikes involving 170 workers are in progress in East St. Louis.

The St. Louis strikes, with one exception, are sponsored by the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization. The exception is the strike of union furniture movers, who are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. In East St. Louis the craft unions of the A. F. of L. are conducting the strikes, having taken the lead over the rival CIO in the organizing campaign.

St. Louis strikers are grouped as follows:
Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co., 2000 employees. The walk-out began March 8, when members of the United Electrical and Radio Workers' Union demanded recognition, a closed shop and a 50-cent hourly minimum wage.

Policeman Warning W P A Strikers in Oakland, Cal.

NO ONE was hurt, but there were some tense moments yesterday as WPA strikers spread in the San Francisco Bay area. Several minor clashes with the police were reported.

About 200 stay-in strikers are holding the company's motor plant at 2018 Washington avenue.

St. Louis Car Co., 9000 North Broadway, 900 men. Members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers reported the company refused to recognize the union, and the strike was called last Tuesday. Furniture movers, 300 men employed by 100 firms which failed to sign a new working agreement calling for a wage increase from 70 to 95 cents an hour. The strike started yesterday.

Garment industry, 450 employees of three firms. Employees of the National Underwear Corporation, 239 South Boyle avenue, walked out Feb. 3 for better wages and hours. The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union took charge of the strike. The union on March 24, called a strike at the Solomon Dress Co., 1608 Washington avenue, in its campaign to organize the cotton garment industry, and on March 30 declared a strike at the Lang-Kohn Manufacturing Co., 1706 Washington avenue, the only non-union silk dress factory in the city, in protest against the alleged use of industrial spies.

Howard's Cleaners, Inc., 2515 North Grand boulevard, 125 employees went on strike March 10, seeking recognition of the Cleaners and Dry House Workers' Union. Seventy-two branch stores of the company have been picketed.

Meeker Bros. Iron Co., 424 South Seventh street, 150 men began a stay-in strike last Wednesday for recognition of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

A lockout of 225 employees of the Johnston Tin Foil and Metal Co., 6106 South Broadway, ended today when the plant was reopened under an agreement with the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America, granting the employees recognition of their union and a wage increase. The management closed the plant on March 16 in anticipation of a sit-down strike.

East St. Louis Strikes. The East St. Louis strikes began on March 11, when 45 members of craft unions quit work at the Allied Mills, Inc., demanding union recognition. On March 19, strikes were declared at several East St. Louis stores in an organization campaign for the Retail Clerks' Union. Quick settlements followed, except at the Western Auto Store, where recognition is demanded for five clerks. A strike of 120 men began March 25 at the American Asphalt Roofing Corporation, in East St. Louis, for recognition of craft unions.

The wide-spread General Motors strike affected St. Louis during part of January and February, when 4000 employees of the local Chevrolet-Fisher Body plant were idle, due to the strike of the United Automobile Workers of America. The strike was settled Feb. 11, and was followed by two brief sit-down strikes.

Union employees of the Meier & Pohlmann Furniture Co., 1400 Palm street, held two factories of the company for 31 days, until yesterday, when the company recognized the union and granted wage and hour demands to the 225 employees. Fifty-four employees of the Adler Metals Products Co., 2682 Park avenue, who were locked out March 12, returned to work yesterday, under a union agreement at higher wages.

Local strikes may reach greater proportions within the next two weeks as a result of the efforts of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, of the CIO group, to organize the cotton garment industry. Mayer Perlestein, regional director of the union estimates that there are 4000 cotton garment workers in the district. The Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, a CIO unit, is seeking agreements with five foundries in St. Louis and on the East Side, but so far there has been no threat to strike.

A meeting of the 1800 employees of the Century Electric Co. has been called for 2 p. m. Sunday at Carpenters' Hall, Grand boulevard and Cosma avenue to discuss a strike. It was announced today, Century employees, organized by the United Electrical and Radio Workers, have requested a conference with the company on collective bargaining.

GEORGE F. WANGELIN FUNERAL Services Tomorrow for Belleville Merchant Who Died at 76. Funeral services for George F. Wangelin, retired merchant, who died yesterday of heart disease at his home, 1301 East B street, Belleville, will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the home, with burial in Walnut Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Wangelin, 75 years old, was treasurer of the St. Clair Township school district from 1907 until 1922. He retired after selling his confectionery store about 10 years ago. His wife and a daughter survive.

MARTIN, IN CITY, GIVES HIS REPLY TO GREEN

CIO Not Out to Destroy A. F. L., but to Build Strong Union, He Says.

Walter Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, in a talk here last night, said the purpose of the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization was not to destroy the American Federation of Labor, but to form an organization of workers powerful enough to deal with employers generally.

Martin spoke at a mass meeting at 5414A Union boulevard, sponsored by the United Automobile Workers, affiliated with the CIO, in the campaign to organize garage mechanics in opposition to the Machineists' Union, an A. F. of L. union, which is also organizing garage workers. About 500 mechanics attended the meeting.

"Movement of Workers." Characterizing the CIO as "the most important and potent organization of labor this nation has ever seen," the automobile workers' leader said the rapid growth of the CIO was due to its being "a movement of workers, not of leaders."

"There are 40,000,000 workers in the United States and the American Federation of Labor has enrolled but 3,000,000—we have almost that many already," Martin declared. Martin's statement that the CIO was not out to destroy the A. F. of L. was apparently in answer to President William Green of the Federation, who, in a speech before iron workers' organizers here last Saturday, charged that the CIO leaders were bent on "tearing labor asunder."

"We have no chip on our shoulder," Martin asserted, "and we have no quarrel with Bill Green except because he is blind to the need of forming unions along industrial lines."

Card Membership. Taking up another point in Green's talk here, Martin agreed with the A. F. of L. leader that the strength of a union cannot be based on its list of "card members."

"We say that paper jurisdiction over workers does not count, organization is what counts," Martin stated. The speaker defended the sit-down strike. "The purpose of any strike is to stop production. The sit-down strike does that," Martin said. "If the automobile workers had seized a plant and started manufacturing automobiles, that would be unlawful seizure," he added.

Martin, who departed for his Detroit headquarters following the meeting, addressed members of the Progressive Miners yesterday afternoon at Gillespie, Ill. Although the Progressive Miners are rivals of the United Mine Workers, headed by Lewis, the Progressives donated $1000 to the recent automobile workers' strike here.

RELIEF COMMITTEE YIELDS TO STRIKERS

Agrees to Accept Applications for Aid; Chairman Calls "Principle Wrong."

Applications for relief by strikers were accepted today at the intake station of the St. Louis Relief Administration. 2300 Louis street, after the relief committee had voted to change its policy against furnishing public relief to strikers.

On announcement of the committee's decision late yesterday, about 42 strikers who had remained overnight in a back sitting room at the relief station with the avowed intention of staying there until their demands were met left the building. After terminating their demonstration, they borrowed brooms and swept out the room they had occupied.

Action of the committee in reversing its policy was due entirely to a telegram from Wallace Crossley, State Relief Administrator, asking that aid be extended needy strikers and pointing out that "the State draws no lines as to the causes responsible for destitution," according to William C. Connett, chairman of the committee.

"The committee feels as strongly as ever that affording public relief to strikers is wrong in principle and unsound in operations," Connett said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "but Crossley's order left us no discretion in the matter."

Connett, who said that the vote to change the relief policy was "not unanimous" and came after a lively discussion, pointed out that the State Relief Administrator is furnished funds by the Legislature and may stipulate the conditions under which relief money may be expended.

Although the State furnishes 60 per cent and the city 40 per cent of relief funds for use here the money now being disbursed for actual relief comes entirely from State funds, Connett said. The city's share is used to pay administrative expenses, he explained.

Connett said that the State has been requested for $60,000 for relief in March and April but had allocated $333,000. It was estimated this sum would take care of the present local relief load of about 55,000 persons until April 12. What effect an influx of strikers may have on this schedule remains to be determined.

"We will keep on until the money runs out," Connett said, "with no discrimination. Applicants will be treated on a basis of need no matter who they are."

State Relief Administrator Crossley, who was notified by telegram by the committee that "we will hereafter give relief on the basis of individual need to the extent that funds are furnished us," said at Jefferson City today he would be unable to determine his course of action until he learned what funds might be made available.

100 WPA STRIKERS ARRESTED OVER 3 DAYS IN NEW YORK

1000 Workers in 90 Relief Stations Engage in Sympathy Sit-Down for 3 Hours.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Demonstrations by WPA technical and white-collar workers against staff and pay cuts continued yesterday throughout the city, with the strikers saying 8000 persons were out. Twelve more sit-down strikers were arrested, making a three-day total of about 100.

A thousand WPA workers in 90 of the 105 municipal relief food and clothing distribution depots engaged in a three-hour sympathetic strike.

The federation of architects, engineers, chemists and technicians sponsoring the main strike wired President Roosevelt urging him to "keep your campaign promises" and demanded Federal Administrator Harry Hopkins rescind the reduction order.

JAILER ILL, HIS WIFE LEADS SEARCH FOR 8 FUGITIVES

Kentucky Woman Directs Search After Prisoners Make Escape.

PRESTONSBURG, Ky., April 2.—Because her husband was sick, Mrs. B. L. Sturgill, 44-year-old wife of the Floyd County jailer, directed a posse yesterday after eight prisoners escaped from the county jail.

Three of the fugitives are back in jail today and Mrs. Sturgill, mother of eight children, was confident that the other five would be rounded up soon.

Sturgill was ill in bed when the prisoners overpowered the deputy jailer and escaped. Unable to obtain help immediately, Mrs. Sturgill grabbed a rifle, jumped into her automobile and set out alone in pursuit. Later she returned to the jail, organized a posse and drove its members to the hills.

MARTIN TO ASK FLINT STRIKERS TO GO BACK TO WORK

On Way From Detroit After Gen. Motors Demands That U A W A 'Live Up to Agreement.'

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., April 2.—General Motors demanded today that the United Automobile Workers of America live up to the agreement which ended the recent general strike, and Homer Martin, head of the union, went to Flint with other union leaders to ask strikers to return to work in Chevrolet plants there.

"Agreements not lived up to are no agreements," William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president of General Motors, declared in a communication to Martin, with whom he conferred today on the new strikes.

The communication listed 30 sit-down strikes that have occurred in General Motors plants, he said, during the three weeks that the agreement has been in force.

"Demand is heavy," Knudsen said,
"that responsible authorities of the union take the necessary steps to see to it that its obligations are observed by its members, and stop-

Corporation executives said the strikers violated the agreement, which stated that "there shall be no suspension or stoppages of work until every effort has been exhausted to adjust them through the regular grievance procedure and in no case without the approval of the international officers of the union."

The latest strike, which was called last night, closed all units of the Chevrolet Motor Co. at Flint, throwing 14,780 men out of work. It was called after two departments had been closed by a strike earlier in the day. All the workers left the plants, instead of sitting down.

The new General Motors strikes and other automotive labor conflicts, especially that in the Chrysler Corporation's Detroit factories, brought idleness to approximately 120,000 Michigan wage-earners—the largest number since the widespread General Motors shutdown.

Resumption of negotiations between Walter P. Chrysler and John L. Lewis, for the settlement of the Chrysler strike, was deferred today until tomorrow.

Gov. Frank Murphy announced the postponement before he left Detroit for Lansing. He explained that Lewis had been detained in the East by negotiations between his United Mine Workers and the bituminous coal operators. Chrysler was reported to be engaged with company affairs.

Murphy said he would confer today with other representatives of the Chrysler Corporation and the U A W A, but it was considered unlikely that any settlement of the strike, which began March 8, could be reached without Lewis and Chrysler. The negotiations have been deadlocked on the issue of sole recognition.

Yellow Truck Agreement.
The United Automobile Workers announced that the local managements of the Yellow Truck & Coach plant at Pontiac had agreed to abide by any understanding on employment reached at the conference between Martin and Knudsen at Detroit. The company is not a General Motors unit, but General Motors has an interest in it.

The union said the Yellow Truck management also had agreed to minimum wage scales of 75 cents an hour for men and 65 cents for women after six months of employment, and had consented to meet once a week with a committee of employees on grievances, or at any time an emergency arose. Two thousand strikers marched out of the plant this morning.

The strikes which closed several General Motors units in Flint and Pontiac developed within a 24-hour period beginning Wednesday night.
Approximately 30,000 General Motors employees were out of work in the two cities.

The Fisher Body plant No. 2, which produces Chevrolet bodies,
also was closed.

This Fisher factory, with 1100 employees, was occupied by sit-down strikers during the 44-day strike early this year. It was the scene of a riot Jan. 11 which resulted in the stationing of most of the Michigan National Guard in Flint.

A truce was reached last night in the strike which closed the Fisher Body plant at Pontiac. Its 6000 employees are to return to work Monday. E. R. Leeder, plant manager, and Phil Hill, union leader, who effected the truce, said differences would be negotiated under the terms of the March 12 agreement.

The plant supplies bodies to the Pontiac Motor Co., another General Motors subsidiary. Eighteen hundred workmen on its final assembly line also were idle.

The chief cause of the strikes was reported to be union dissatisfaction with the operation of the shop steward system set up by the previous strike settlement. The stewards are appointed by the union to deal with plant managers.

Ed Hall, U A W A vice-president, said the strikes were "a protest against the plant managers' refusal to recognize and deal with their committees as provided in the General Motors agreement."

Charges against Robert Travis, U A W A organizer, and two other union men, Henry Kraus and Roy Reuther, growing out of a riot at the Fisher No. 2 plant in Flint Jan.
11, were dismissed by Municipal Judge Edwin D. Mallory yesterday.

The "Golden Fleece" -1937 version!

BACK in the misty days of history, a chap named Jason set sail to capture the most prized trophy of his time—"The Golden Fleece". To hi-jack this 14-carat bit of sheep's wool, he spent more money than Washington needs to balance the budget. It was quite a party.

Today, history is repeating itself. Again, Sheep is King! Wool—the staple white kind—is back on a "Golden Fleece" basis. And is almost as hard to get. Fabric costs are up. Everything that goes into the making of clothes is up. And most retail prices are up!

But all this excitement has so far cost Bond customers not one cent extra. True, we spent more for Spring woollens. But not so much more that we have to ask you to pay more. Our volume can take care of that. And we propose to hold to this policy as long as we can. Right now, it is reaping rich rewards for both of us. We don't raise prices—and we make a lot of new friends. You don't have to pay more for your clothes—and you save money!

This 1937 version of the "Golden Fleece" is writing a new chapter in clothing history. It is the most important step toward giving you better value—more for your money—in our 29 years of business.

SAYS SECRET BALLOT WOULD PREVENT FRAUD

Senator Rozier Argues for His Proposal Before Senate Committee.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—Senator Rozier of Perryville told the Senate Elections Committee yesterday that his proposed constitutional amendment for a secret, unmarked ballot should be supported by Democrats and Republicans alike because it would prevent fraud in primary elections, no less than in general elections.

The measure would prevent any employee of the State or Federal Government from serving as a precinct official.

"If W. P. A. foremen serving as election judges can tell their men how to vote in a general election, they can do the same in a primary if someone high up gives them orders," Rozier declared.

Members of the committee voiced objection to the bill on the ground that it would make the contest of elections extremely difficult, since the voter's individual ballot could not be identified. Rozier countered the argument by asserting that contests are frequently filed and settled in Eastern states where the ballot is secret.

"In any contested election in Missouri under our present law or in states with laws like the one proposed, the final test is the word of the voter," Rozier said. "For an accurate check in any case all the voters in a contested precinct must testify as to how they marked their ballots."

Conceding that there might be slightly greater difficulty in a contest, he said: "The people of Missouri, however, have the right to decide between a ballot that makes for an easy contest and a ballot which would make fraud difficult." Several representatives of the Missouri League of Women Voters appeared before the committee in support of Rozier's proposal, which would be submitted to the voters at the next general election. A somewhat similar measure was defeated in the House several weeks ago.

ALTON MARRIAGE LICENSES KEPT SECRET BY CLERK

Persons Would Go Elsewhere If There Were Publicity, Official's Deputy Explains.

Lists of persons who obtain marriage licenses at Alton are not and will not be supplied to the public by the deputy clerk of Madison County, Mrs. Lillian M. McGowan, on the ground that "couples would go elsewhere to secure a license" unless secrecy is preserved, she told a Post-Dispatch reporter today. For many years, Alton newspapers have been unable to get daily lists of marriage licenses issued, a routine procedure for most newspapers, because of the refusal of deputies to open the nominally public record. Reports by those who officiate at marriage ceremonies also are made to the deputy clerk, who sends on the returns to the County Clerk, now Norbert Hotz, at Edwardsville. Hotz supported the stand his subordinate has taken in the matter.

LETTERS ON COURT FROM PRESIDENT AND WHEELER

ROOSEVELT ARGUES FOR NATIONAL ACTION

Montana Senator Repeats His View That Judiciary Program Would Impair Independence of Bench.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Letters bearing on the Supreme Court controversy from President Roosevelt and Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, were read last night at a celebration of the fiftieth birthday of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Neither the President nor Wheeler was present.

Mr. Roosevelt again contended that a liberal interpretation of the Constitution is necessary to permit Federal action on changing problems. The Montana Senator suggested that, if the President's proposal to reorganize the Court is adopted, the Court's independence will be impaired. He lashed out also at Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation to bring the Interstate Commerce Commission and other independent Federal agencies within presidential jurisdiction.

The President's letter follows:

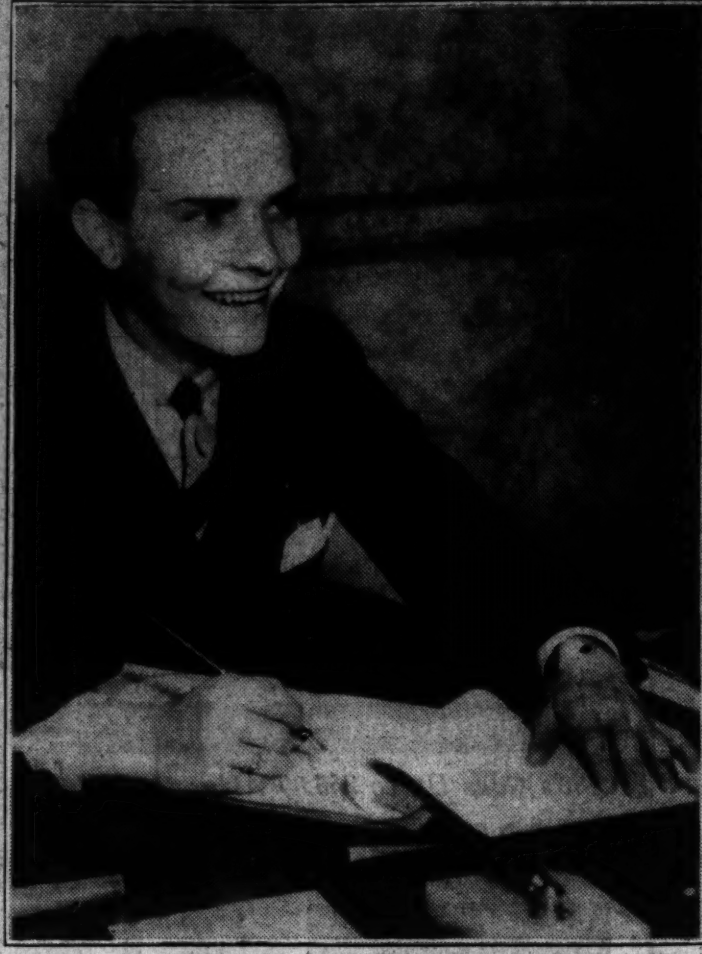

"When one takes account of the good work done by the Interstate Commerce Commission since its creation 50 years ago, one smiles at the dire predictions by certain obviously selfish interests when the law providing for the regulation of interstate commerce was enacted. The president of a great Eastern railroad declared the law would depreciate the Western farm lands by one-half. On the Pacific Coast another magnate predicted a panic. This prophecy was re-echoed by another railroad president in the Middle West and, not to be outdone by his brother prophets, yet another great railroad executive foresaw the ruin of our foreign and domestic commerce.

"Those were the opinions of hold-overs from the old 'public-be-damned' days — economic fossils which, like the poor, are always with us. Of course, none of these dire prophecies was fulfilled. On the contrary, the railroads and the country went forward to happier and more prosperous times.

"The program for the semi-centennial exercises of the commission is a full one and its mere perusal shows its diversified usefulness in the 50 years during which it has been functioning. I want to congratulate the present members of the commission on the performance of duties which have fallen to them in difficult times. With singular ability and foresight they have met the problems which have confronted them. Their opportunity for constructive service is as great today as when Grover Cleveland named the first Interstate Commerce Commission in the spring of 1887.

"I am reliably informed that when the founding fathers created that social, economic and political system of government, which they hoped would be a permanent charter of liberties, they were wholly ignorant of the terms 'railroads' and 'automobiles,' for the very good reason that the first did not come into existence until half a century later and the second were not manufactured until over a century later. The Interstate Commerce Commission is, indeed, fortunate that interpretations of our charter of liberties have allowed it to function during the past half century, through recognition of the fact that an obviously national need can be met only through obviously national action."

Wheeler on Independent Bodies. Senator Minton (Dem.), Indiana, read the address of Senator

Wheeler, who was out of the city. Its thrust at the President's court legislation came in the midst of a discussion of the Interstate Commerce Commission's independence. Wheeler related that Joseph B. Eastman, the former Coordinator of Transportation, had said the President appoints the commission's members but otherwise has no more legal control over its acts than over the deliberations of the Supreme Court. "Mr. Eastman may still be of the same opinion," the Senator observed, "but if certain pending proposals are adopted, I fear he might be forced to find himself another and more striking analogy than that of the Supreme Court." Wheeler, chairman of the Senate's Interstate Commerce Committee and of its current rail finance investigation, also declared: "I am unalterably opposed to diminishing the independent, bipartisan character of the Interstate Commerce Commission, or of the similar independent agencies by placing them under executive domination, either indirectly as has been the case, or directly as in a pending proposal."

Rayburn Attacks Rate Decision. The Supreme Court received mention in another address, by Representative Rayburn of Texas, the Democratic leader.

He declared the Court's opinion in the celebrated O'Fallon case forbade the commission, in effect, to find how much capital is really employed by the railroads. "This opinion," he continued, "had the unfortunate result of striking down in a moment the effort through an entire generation to work out a rule which would protect the investors on the one hand and the users of railway service on the other."

Congress, Rayburn asserted, fell back on experienced gained in 40 years of rail regulation and wrote a new rate-making rule into the emergency transportation act of 1933.

In prescribing rates under the new rule, he said, the commission is required to consider the movement of the traffic under such rates, the need of the country for an adequate transportation system, and the needs of the carriers for revenue.

Rayburn also made a reference to the Interstate Commerce Commission's independence, saying: "I do not believe that anything is contemplated which would interfere with this independence of the Interstate Commerce Commission."

Commissioner Balthasar H. Meyer, who presided, related the commission's history and remarked:

"This is the structure which 50 years of experience has created. Shall it continue? The answer to this momentous question must be given by you who honor us this evening with your presence on the speakers' platform and by your associates in both houses of the Congress.

"And when you come to consider the answer, I believe you will, before reaching your conclusion, hear those who have a right to be heard, sift and weigh, and balance all the evidence as you and your predecessors have done for these 50 years."

FOR WRITTEN OPINION IN BALLOT BOX CASE

Counsel for Judge Joynt Asks Supreme Court to Explain Its Decision.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—A written opinion of the Supreme Court, explaining its decision in the riverfront bond election ballot box case, is asked for in a motion filed in behalf of Circuit Judge John W. Joynt of St. Louis.

State Representative, John D. Taylor, who was one of the counsel for the five dummy plaintiffs objecting to the opening of the ballot boxes for the grand jury's fraud investigation, filed the motion in behalf of Judge Joynt late yesterday afternoon.

The Supreme Court last week upheld Judge Joynt in granting the motion of Taylor's clients, and refusing to permit the grand jury to open the ballot boxes. It did not file a written opinion, and thus neither Judge Joynt nor Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller was informed as to the grounds for the court's decision.

Taylor, in his motion, seeks to obtain an opinion passing on the different legal points raised in the case. One of these, a technical point not bearing on the merits of the case, was the contention of Taylor and his associates that the Supreme Court cannot, by a writ of mandamus, compel a court to exercise a judicial function in a particular manner. The Circuit Attorney's petition, denied by the court, was for a writ of mandamus which would require Judge Joynt to rule in the State's favor in the ballot box matter.

If the Supreme Court decided the case on that point alone, the other points would still remain to be decided if the matter were taken before the court again, by some other proceeding than a mandamus petition. The other points were: (1) that there was no grand jury inquiry pending one year after the election, and that the statute requiring the destruction of ballots at that time would prevent their use; (2) that the general election laws governing the opening of ballot boxes should prevail, instead of the special law under which the Circuit Attorney proceeded; and (3) that the constitutional provision authorizing the opening of persons to office, and not to bond elections.

FARM HANDS' STRIKE CAUSES A MELLON TO CANCEL FOXHUNT

Neighboring Land Owners Back Workers in Demands on Richard K. Mellon of Andrew.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 2.—Richard K. Mellon, 32-year-old sportsman and banker, decided to abandon the Rolling Rock fox hunt and steeplechase at his farm near Lagomer, Pa., after 30 laborers quit last night, demanding a 20-cent-an-hour increase in wages over the present 30-cent-an-hour rate.

The Sun-Telegraph said Mellon acted after the Loyalhanna Valley farmers supported the workers in their demands and threatened to bar the hunters from their farms. The Mellon farm comprises about 12,000 acres and the chase is held over 240 surrounding farms totaling 16,000 acres.

Mellon is a nephew of Andrew Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury.

A strike of farm hands also is in progress at the summer estate of Charles M. Schwab, steel man, at Loretto, Pa., which is not far from the Mellon farm. Ten farm hands "sitting down" in the potato storage cellar which they had equipped with radio and a gas burner. Blair C. Seede, the estate manager, was in New York conferring with Schwab on what to do about meeting their demands for an increase in pay from 27½ to 40 cents an hour.

MODEL'S FATHER BEATEN BY POLICE, LAWYER CHARGES

Attorney Hired by Family Asserts "Third Degree" Was Used—Officer Denies Violence.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 2.—An attorney who said he was employed by the Gedeon family charged today that police had subjected Joseph Gedeon to "terrible physical violence" while questioning him about the killing last Saturday night of his estranged wife, their daughter, Veronica, and a roomer.

The attorney, Peter L. F. Sabatino, said that unless Gedeon, who was formally charged with owning a pistol without a permit and placed in jail last night, was arraigned promptly in felony court, he would apply for a writ of habeas corpus this morning.

Gedeon was ordered held in $10,000 bail today, but bond later was reduced to $10,000. He appeared in Magistrate Michael Ford's court with bruises showing on the right side of his face. Policemen said he had walked into an iron gate in the jail last night.

"Police are just hounding this old man," Sabatino told the Magistrate. "They are barking up the wrong tree."

Assistant District Attorney Ray Leo asked for $15,000 bail, and said: "I understand this man is the principal suspect in the Gedeon triple murder."

A hearing was set for tomorrow.

Sabatino's request that four physicians be permitted to examine Gedeon was granted by Magistrate Ford.

Sabatino entered the case last night at the bidding, he said, of Gedeon's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kudner.

Police had questioned Gedeon, 54-year-old upholsterer, for 38 hours, checking his alibi on the night of the crime.

Pistol Not Involved in Killings.

Police had said that the revolver, found in a search of Gedeon's living quarters, had no connection with the killing of the artist's model, her mother and the roomer in their Beekman Hill apartment.

Sabatino went late last night to the police station where Gedeon had been held and asked if he had been arraigned on the charge of illegal possession of the pistol.

Told that there had been no arraignment, he said:

"The family of Mr. Gedeon wishes to co-operate with the police, but the police have been hounding this old man for nothing. He has been subjected to a third degree and terrible physical violence. I saw him at 7:45 o'clock last (Thursday) night upstairs in the police station with members of his family. He told me he had received a terrible beating. I opened his shirt and saw evidence of physical violence."

Officer Denies Violence Was Used.

Acting Lieut. Walter Culline, one of those in charge of questioning Gedeon, denied any personal violence had been used.

"Not a hand was laid on him and Mr. Sabatino said nothing of the sort to us," he said.

A search will be made in city sewers and plumbing of the house in which the killings occurred for the sharp, slender weapon with which Frank Byrnes, 35, the roomer, was stabbed to death as he lay in his bed.

Gedeon, who had been questioned at the East Fifty-first street police station, was taken from there to the East Thirty-fifth street station where he admitted owning the pistol.

Detective Joseph Hennessy of the homicide squad, found the pistol, he said, in a pile of horsehair used by Gedeon in his upholstering business.

Hennessy asked Gedeon why he had hidden the pistol, an old model revolver with two loaded shells in it.

Gedeon replied, the detective said, that he had been expecting a friend to make a call on him and had "put it away so nothing could happen."

Gedeon, during the questioning, was vague in his answers but exclaimed time and again:

"I wouldn't kill my own family!"

Miss Mary Bagby, 16 years old, died early today at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, of a fractured skull suffered Monday in an automobile accident on State Highway 15, near her home at Mascoutah, Ill. She never regained consciousness.

An automobile in which she was riding with five other persons was crowded off the road while attempting to pass another machine and ran into a ditch. She was thrown 30 feet.

The driver of the car, Ben Koek, 18, O'Fallon, Ill., and the other passenger, were bruised. Miss Bagby was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bagby.

FIVE TICKETS ON BALLOT FOR ELECTION TUESDAY

Only Element of Newness Is Citizens' Non-Partisan List With Allen for Mayor.

EXPECTED TO DRAW FROM REPUBLICANS

Who's Who of Candidates of Three Parties Outside the Democratic and the Republican.

Three tickets besides those of the Democratic and Republican parties will appear on the five-column ballot in next Tuesday's city election.

The Socialist and Socialist-Labor tickets are headed by men who have been candidates of those parties before, and appeal chiefly to voters regularly aligned with those groups. Most of those who will vote for them would not, in any case, vote for the major party nominees.

The only element of newness, or of possible uncertainty in its effect on the outcome, is the Citizens' Non-Partisan ticket, in the fifth column of the ballot, headed by William A. Allen for Mayor.

Such votes as Allen and his ticket receive will be largely votes which otherwise would go to the major parties. On the theory that the Allen vote will be a protest vote against Mayor Dickmann's administration, which would go to the Republican ticket if Allen were not running, Republicans figure that they are likely to be the losers by the presence of the Non-Partisan ticket on the ballot.

No one, however, filed any objection with the Election Board, in the three-day period which the Board allowed after its tentative decision to give the Non-Partisan ticket a place on the ballot, without the filing of supporting petitions. For lack of such objection, the Board's action stood.

Allen, a lawyer and tax consultant, was chosen as the Non-Partisan ticket candidate by the executive body of the Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee. He is 53 years old, owns his home at 5758 Waterman boulevard, and has an office in the Cotton belt building. His campaign issue is law enforcement—particularly, he explains, enforcement of the laws for personal property taxation, as a step toward tax equalization.

The executive body of the Non-Partisan Committee named also the Non-Partisan ticket candidate for Comptroller, Louis F. Koenig, 1825A Wyoming street, credit manager and auditor; and four candidates for Aldermen. These are: Seventh Ward, J. K. Woods, 1605 Missouri avenue, broker; Thirteenth, A. H. deBusche, 3722 Tholoan avenue, coffee and tea dealer; Seventeenth, E. N. Bryant, 3225 Pine boulevard, Negro printer; and Twenty-fifth, Edwin H. Epstein, 5621 Pershing avenue, treasurer of Court-Usher Printing Co.

The Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee was organized to oppose the river-front bond issue proposal in the special election of Sept. 10, 1935. Since the bond issue election, in which widespread frauds occurred, and which was officially returned as giving the bond issue 7800 more than the required two-thirds majority, the committee has remained in existence. In the 1936 primary and election, it had challengers and watchers at the polls. The committee opposed a bond issue readjustment and increase proposal on which a vote was taken in connection with the primary, and which was beaten. In the election, some of its members supported Otto C. Botz, Non-Partisan candidate for Governor.

George E. Duemler, lawyer, is Socialist party candidate for Mayor, as he was in 1933. Last November he was the party's candidate for Governor. He is 35 years old, and lives at 5231 Winona avenue. He has served as attorney for members of the American Workers' Union, arrested in relief demonstrations here, and for Joe Morris, organizer of the striking tiff miners in the Washington County fields.

George Kovaka, structural engineer, of 5014 Winona avenue, who was on the November ticket with Duemler, for Lieutenant-Governor, is now the nominee for Comptroller. There is a full list of 14 nominees for the Board of Aldermen. These are: First Ward, Mary Saunders; Third, James Houston; Fifth, Clarence Mueller; Seventh, Era Hunter; Ninth, John William Smith; Eleventh, Mary Dostalek; Thirteenth, Anna Cessak; Fifteenth, Doris B. Preisler; Seventeenth, James Mann; Nineteenth, Joe Morris; Twenty-first, Frank Eligh; Twenty-third, Edith Hall; Twenty-fifth, David Thayer Burbank; and Twenty-seventh, Boyd Wamack.

Morris, Nineteenth Ward candidate, is the American Workers' Union organizer in the tiff miners' strike, previously mentioned. Burbank, Twenty-fifth Ward candidate, is the grandson of the late Federal Judge Amos Thayer. He is carrying on a damage suit against the Police Board and a city detective, for an alleged beating inflicted more

GRAND JURY REPORTS
WORK TO JUDGE JOYNT

'Legal Difficulties' Prevented Riverfront Vote Inquiry; Body Is Discharged.

The February term grand jury, chosen by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt, submitted its final report to him today and was discharged. A new grand jury, to be impaneled Monday by Circuit Judge Frank C. O'Malley, will serve for the next two months.

Judge Joynt's grand jury, instructed by him to investigate fraud in the riverfront bond issue election of September, 1935, explained in its report that this instruction was not complied with "because of legal difficulties which confronted the Circuit Attorney in attempting to get the ballot boxes before the election."

The "legal difficulties" was Judge Joynt's ruling, in a suit brought by dummy plaintiffs, in which he refused to issue subpoenas for Fifth Ward ballot boxes which had been requested by the jury.

Wants Sound Proof Doors. The bulk of the jury's five-page report was devoted to its routine inspection of City Buildings. Conditions in the City Sanitarium and the House of Detention were criticized, as they have been by previous grand juries. A new suggestion of this jury was that the doors of the grand jury room in the Municipal Court Building be made sound-proof "so that eavesdroppers, if such there be, cannot hear what is done in the grand jury room."

The report made no reference to the jury's refusal, on two occasions, to indict Bradford Shinkle Jr., 35 Portland place, driver of an automobile which killed a city employee and injured another in a Lindell boulevard collision last February. Following the refusal of the jury to indict, the Circuit Attorney's office issued warrants charging Shinkle with manslaughter and felonious wounding.

For Electrifying Locomotives. On the subject of smoke abatement, which the jury had been instructed to consider, the report suggested an ordinance requiring electrification of all railroad locomotives entering the city. The grand jury had been informed, the report said, that "a gas monopoly" prevented St. Louis from obtaining natural gas, which would "effectively rid" St. Louis of smoke.

One of the jurors, E. J. Wallace, a coal dealer, who absented himself from the jury's final session after he had been refused permission to resign from the jury because of his disgust with its refusal to return indictments in several cases, including Shinkle's, did not meet in the grand jury room today with the others, but waited for them in Judge Joynt's courtroom where the report was submitted.

Ben Gutman, 3903 Holly Hills avenue, president of the Ben Gutman Garage, Inc., was foreman of the jury, which returned 16 indictments, and 13 no-trial bills.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR NUN

Sister Mary Adalberta of Order of Notre Dame Dies. Funeral services for Sister Mary Adalberta, a member of the order of Sisters of Notre Dame, who died Wednesday of cancer at Villa Genou, on Columbia Bottom road, Baden Station, will be held tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. at the convent, with burial there.

Born in Jefferson City, Sister Adalberta, who was 56 years old, had been a member of the order for more than 30 years. She had been instructor in music in convents in Effingham, Ill., and Jefferson City. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Rose Rethel, of Jefferson City, and Miss Agnes Goetz, of St. Louis.

$300,000 LUMP ALIMONY

Largest Such Sum on Record in Chicago Paid by Manufacturer. CHICAGO, April 2.—A lump sum alimony settlement of $300,000, one of the largest on record here, was given yesterday by Oliver N. Caldwell, retired manufacturer, to Gertrude Barreto Caldwell.

The alimony check was paid in the Court of Superior Judge John C. Lewis, who granted Mrs. Caldwell a divorce on her complaint charging drunkenness. Caldwell did not contest the suit and the alimony was stipulated.

than three years ago, on the occasion of a demonstration in front of the downtown office building where the Austrian Consulate was situated. The local Socialists were protesting against the suppression of the workers' uprising in Vienna.

Wamack, in the Twenty-seventh Ward, is a 1910 organizer. Mrs. Preisler, in the Fifteenth, is educational director of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, and is the wife of Dr. Paul W. Preisler, Non-partisan candidate for the Board of Education. Mrs. Saunders, in the First Ward, is the wife of Ralph Saunders, chairman of the Labor Committee of the Missouri Socialist party.

Socialist-Labor Candidates. On the Socialist-Labor ticket, fourth on the ballot, only two names appear. William W. Cox, nominee for Mayor, is a decorator, living at 4178 Flad avenue. He has run on his party ticket for various posts since he was the presidential nominee in 1920. Theodore Bank, of 4908 Euclid terrace is the nominee for Comptroller.

THREE-WAY FIGHT FOR MAYORALTY IN UNIVERSITY CITY

Eugene D. Ruth Jr. and M. C. Fogerty, Backed by Campaign Groups, Ignore R. D. Moore.

NOMINEES AND THEIR PLATFORMS

Police Chief Ward Again in Race for Marshal—Aldermanic Candidates and Their Backing.

The University City political campaign is nearing its close with principal interest centered in the race for Mayor, which, to apply the expression of one candidate, has generated "more heat than light." The election will be held Tuesday.

The three candidates, former Mayor Eugene D. Ruth Jr., Alderman Matt C. Fogerty of the Third Ward and Roger D. Moore, attorney, are waging active campaigns, with Ruth and Fogerty backed by campaign organizations having imposing membership lists. In addition Fogerty has the endorsement of Mayor David L. Millar, who decided not to seek a third term.

Meetings on behalf of one candidate or another have been held almost nightly. Jobholders, jobseek-ers, their families and any other voters interested enough to attend have listened to recitation of charges and counter charges relating, respectively, to Millar's administration of the last four years and to Ruth's seven-year tenure before his defeat by Millar in 1933.

Moore's Line of Attack.
Meantime, Moore, virtually ignored by his opponents, has trained his guns on both of them, charging that either, if elected, would "pack every city office with his loudest tub-thumpers," and himself promising civil service requirements for all appointive jobs.

Moore's challenge to the others to debate was rejected by Fogerty because such an arrangement "would generate more heat than light," and by Ruth who charged that Moore's suggestion that Mayor Millar act as debate referee was evidence that Moore was in the race simply to split the "independent" vote for Ruth and enable Fogerty to win.
This was emphatically denied by Moore.

Fogerty, a retail grocer residing with his wife and six children at 6840 Barker avenue, was elected Alderman in 1932 with the endorsement of the Civic Voters' League and the following year supported Millar in his successful campaign for Mayor. The cries heard then are being repeated by partisans now—that whether Fogerty or Ruth is elected, "machine politics" will be entrenched.

Fogerty's Platform.
Fogerty's platform promises a continuation of the type of government in effect during the last four years—strict economy, keeping of the tax rate "at the lowest possible point consistent with maintenance of the city's credit and proper conduct of services," completion of the Rock Island boulevard project, completion of the River des Peres improvement with Federal funds already allocated and extension of municipal services to newly developing parts of the city.

The administration, Fogerty says, will co-operate and assist in establishment of a public library, but will not "obligate the city for excessive maintenance charges without a vote of the people." His campaign organization is headed by C.
W. Allison, with Dr. L. H. Rentrow as secretary and former Circuit
Judge J. Hugo Grimm, former St.
Louis City Counselor, Julius T.
Muench, former Circuit Judge
Thomas Bond, Dr. Oliver Abel,
George F. Martin and George A.
Manda as members of the Executive Committee.

Ruth Points to Record.
Ruth, a member of the bar and president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, has pointed in his campaign to the achievements of his earlier administration, which included purchase of the present City Hall, extension of the park system and other improvements. His platform calls for immediate steps to create a public library, reduction of taxes, which he says is possible because of municipal golf course and swimming pool revenues; speedier improvement of River des Peres with available Federal funds, extension of the street lighting system and a study by a committee of citizens with a view of changing the city's government to the commission, managerial or special charter form. Ruth's campaign chairman is Edward Schilling and his indorsees include William H.
Allen, former Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals; former Prosecuting Attorney Harry W. Caslen, Alfred Fairbank, Edwin B. Meisner, Gale F. Johnston and C. E. Williams.

Marshal Ward Up Again.
One of the most active of Ruth's opponents is Chief of Police George F. Ward, who is himself seeking re-election as Marshal, an office he has held since 1920. In 1932 the Ruth administration ousted Ward from his $3000-a-year job as Police Commissioner, following a political controversy, and paid him only $1 a year in his elected capacity as

BILL FOR FOUR-YEAR TERM FOR MAYORS AND ALDERMEN

Officials of Cities of Third Class in State Would Be Affected; House Passes Measure.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—Elective officials including Mayors and Aldermen of cities of the third class would have their terms lengthened from two to four years under a bill passed by the House and reported to the Senate yesterday with the recommendation it be passed.

Chairman George Clayton, Hannibal, of the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee, made the report following committee approval given George Spencer, Columbia city attorney and representative of the Missouri Association of Municipalities, said the measure would allow a great saving in election costs and promote continuity and efficiency in government.

The same committee approved Allen McReynolds' bill making amendments to an existing law permitting residents of Joplin and Springfield to vote on a change to the city manager form of government, after circulation of petitions.

AUTOPSY CASTS NEW DOUBT ON INDIANA WOMAN'S DEATH

"Hole Similar to Bullet Wound" Found; State Police Officer Holds to Suicide Theory.

By the Associated Press.
NEW CASTLE, Ind., April 2.—Capt. Matt Leach of the State Police maintained today his theory that the death of Miss Mable Sutton, 28 years old, former Cadmus school teacher, was a suicide, although it became known the autopsy report said a "hole similar to a bullet wound" had been found and that the fingertips on the right hand had been cut away.

Leach said, "The autopsy was made some time ago and if there were any bullet holes between the ribs or any fingerprints missing, why wasn't that fact made known at the time?"

The autopsy disclosure was made when Coroner Elmer H. Bentley filed a verdict of "death from unknown causes." Miss Sutton's charred body was found in a woods near here 10 days ago.

Marshal. When the Fogarty group got control Ward was restored to his remunerative position. Ward is opposed for re-election by John P. Mannion.

The Fogarty organization also is supporting Aldermen A. J. Haverstick, First Ward, and R. C. Seibert, Third Ward, for re-election. Haverstick is opposed by Dr. A. O. Oment, a former Alderman, and Dr. Seibert by Norman Sutton and Mark Donovan. Alderman Herman Barken of the Second Ward, who has frequently been at odds with the administration, is running independently for re-election against John J. Page.

Collector William S. Steele is opposed for re-election.

Optimist Club Election.
Norman Reinhardt was elected president of the Optimist Club of St. Louis yesterday. Other officers were: Harry R. Stocker, vice-president; Edgar Walsh, secretary; Herbert F. Briner, treasurer, and Ernest C. Beger, sergeant-at-arms.

BILL AGAINST STATE CARS KILLED IN SENATE

Sponsor Gets Favorable Action
In House by Threat to 'Tell'
On Members Using Autos.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—A threat by Senator Raymond E. Cox of Audrain County to say in a radio speech that St. Louis Democratic Representatives had opposed his bill to prevent private use of State automobiles caused the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments to reverse itself abruptly and approve the bill last night.

The committee, headed by William Warren Burke of St. Louis, killed the measure several weeks ago. One of the bill's sponsors in the House succeeded in getting it referred back to the committee, and Cox's adroitly applied pressure brought it out of the committee again, this time with a favorable report.

Yesterday morning Cox told Burke he had proof that Burke and Representatives Edward J. (Jelly Roll) Hogan and Maurice Schechter, also of St. Louis, had used a State car regularly during January and February for their week-end trips to St. Louis. He threatened to divulge this in his radio talk, scheduled to be delivered over a St. Louis station, but Burke didn't wait to see whether the Senator would carry out the threat.

Cox told the correspondent that during the first two months of the session Burke, Hogan and Schechter lived in the same rooming house as he, with the result that he could observe their comings and goings conveniently. The car they used, he said, was one belonging to the State Highway Department.

Burke's only comment on the sudden about-face which his committee made was that it was merely a matter of "professional courtesy."

Senate Committee Kills Bill.
A few hours before the House committee approved the bill the Senate Elections Committee voted to kill the measure, which is with a minor exception, the only legislation that Cox has introduced this session. He is serving his first term in the Senate, and his campaign was conducted entirely on a platform of "no pleasure cars for State employees to go joyriding in."

His comment on the committee's action was: "That's an inhumanitarian way to treat me." Annoyed and resentful, he was, nevertheless, undaunted, declaring he would attempt to take up the bill in the Senate over the adverse committee report.

Cox indicated that he was not hopeful that he could force the bill through the Senate after the committee had disapproved it, nor did he express confidence that the House would vote favorably on the measure. But the people of the State would welcome a chance to vote for an economy in government and adopt the amendment five to one, he predicted.

Will Try Initiative Petition.
"I'll circulate initiative petitions to put the amendment on the ballot in the next general election," he said. "It only takes 5 per cent of the voters in nine congressional districts, and I can do it, even if I have to spend two or three thousand dollars of my own money."

The proposal is in the form of a resolution submitting to the voters a constitutional amendment which would prevent the State from buying any passenger automobiles except for use by the Governor and the highway patrol. At request of Cox, it was introduced in the House by Representatives Suggett, Edwards of Mexico and Eppie M. Jennings of Toy.

Cox will ask for a roll call on the Senate vote to take up his bill over the unfavorable report, he said. If any Senators whose terms expire next year vote against the bill, Cox said he would campaign to prevent their re-election.

He has declared that about 500 State automobiles would be sold if his proposal became law, estimating the saving to the State at more than $500,000. In getting information to support the measure, he has undertaken an arduous job of ferreting out misuse of the State automobiles. To the Elections Committee he said that one morning he was out at the penitentiary at "sunup" checking up on the mileage of prison officials' cars.

NEW YORK ARCHITECT AND ARTIST WED BY CONTRACT
Neither of Them Church Members; Crowd Watches Them Have Marriage Acknowledged.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 2.—Peter J. Bittermann Jr., architect, and Eleanor Andrus, artist, were wed by contract yesterday. A crowd gathered around them when they went to Supreme Court to have their marriage document acknowledged.

Bittermann, 39 years old, said he and Miss Andrus, 30, "thought it was the only logical form of marriage." Sperry Butler, attorney who acted as a witness, explained that neither of the parties was a church member so the legal contract seemed to them more desirable than a religious ceremony.

MAXIMUM TRADE-IN ST. LOUIS DAY ON 1937 PHILCO, ZENITH, GRUNOW, RCA VICTOR, G-E, SPARTON RADIOS!

TOOTH ANNIVERSARY OF MEDICAL SOCIETY

Special Programs Monday and Tuesday and Centennial Dinner Wednesday.

The St. Louis Medical Society will observe its 100th anniversary Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening. Special programs reviewing the history of the society will be presented the first two nights at the organization's building, 3839 Lindell boulevard, and a centennial dinner will be given Wednesday evening at Hotel Jefferson.

A re-enactment of the first meeting will be presented Monday night. It was dramatized by Dr. Arthur Froese from the minutes. Dr. Archer O'Reilly will describe the history of the society and Dr. Malvern O'Clonon will speak on "Aims and Accomplishments of Medical Societies and Ours in Particular."

The following night Dr. Major G. Seelig, surgeon, will speak on "Medical Progress in the last 100 years." Dr. Arthur O'Reilly will discuss the medical library, and the women's auxiliary will present a play, "Mushrooms Coming Up." Speakers at Dinner.

Speakers at the dinner Wednesday night will include Dr. Robert E. Schuster, the Rev. Dr. Martin O'Malley and Charles M. Hay, special assistant United States Attorney-General. Dancing will follow.

Seven physicians met on Christmas day, 1837, to discuss the need for a medical society in St. Louis.

Two weeks later, at "early candle light," according to the minutes, a constitution was adopted and officers were chosen.

Dr. Bernard G. Farrar was elected president, Dr. Hardage Lane, vice-president; Dr. B. B. Brown, recording secretary; Dr. J. Johnson, corresponding secretary, and Dr. Y. D. Bolling, treasurer. There were 20 members. On Jan. 25, 1837, the Medical Society of Missouri at St. Louis was incorporated.

In its early days the society met in six different places and on one occasion a meeting was postponed "because the hall was too cold," according to the minutes.

In 1869 the organization entered into an agreement with the Public School Library providing that each physician should acquire a life membership in the library. The money thus collected was used to purchase medical books and journals and the society used the assembly room of the Board of Public Schools for its meetings.

Library Organized. When the Public School Library became the Public Library, the physicians surrendered their claims to the medical books and periodicals. Then in 1899 an independent organization, the St. Louis Medical Library Association, was formed and when it established quarters at 3825 Fine street, the medical society created an auditorium there for its meetings. In 1913 the society acquired the property and assets of the library association.

In 1922 when it became necessary for the society to acquire a fire-proof building for its growing library and a larger meeting place, a lot at 3839 Lindell boulevard was purchased for $22,500. The money was contributed by 45 members. An additional $100,000 was raised through contributions and that was used in beginning construction of the present building in May, 1923.

At the suggestion of Dr. William M. McPheters, the St. Louis society called a convention which formed the Missouri State Medical Association. To avoid confusion over the names, the parent group changed its name to the St. Louis Medical Society.

Three members of the local society became presidents of the American Medical Association, Dr. Charles A. Pope, Dr. John T. Hodgen and Dr. Ellisha H. Gregory. In 1922, through the efforts of the society, a new high school in North St. Louis was named for Dr. William Beaumont, noted surgeon. When the society was young, Dr. Beaumont, an army officer, had been an honorary member from Cape Girardeau. He became famous for his discoveries on the laws of digestion.

Today the organization has over 1100 members and its library contains about 30,000 volumes.

ENDORSED FOR GAME POST. E. Sydney Stephens Favored by Sportsman's Organization. Special to the Post-Dispatch. POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., April 2.—E. Sydney Stephens, president of the Restoration and Conservation Federation of Missouri, was inducted for a place on the new bipartisan Game and Fish Commission by the Southeast Missouri Sportsman's Association at a meeting Wednesday night.

Stephens, according to Will W. Horton, president of the Isaac Walton League, was largely instrumental in the successful passage of Proposition No. 4, the legislative act which created the commission. Stephens and Bishop Crawford, president of the Missouri Crow Hunters' Association of St. Louis, will address the Southeast Missouri Sportsman's Association at a banquet to be held here April 3.

Eight Fledged by Rolls Fraternity. ROLLA, Mo., April 2.—The national honorary engineering fraternity of Tau Beta Pi has announced eight pledges at the School of Mines and Metallurgy here. They are L. W. Gantzel, Princeton, Mo.; E. F. Hill, Phillipsburg; J. H. Murphy, Rolla; R. C. Tittel, Evansville, Ill.; R. G. Prough, Kirkwood, and H. W. Kishman, W. Rummel, and H. C. Seibel all of St. Louis.

SPECULATION ON TIME OF WAGE LAW DECISION

No Court Comment on Report Washington Case Was Decided Dec. 19.

201-205 Kellogg Building,
Post-Dispatch Bureau.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Attaches of the Supreme Court declined to comment today on a widely published statement that the court had decided the Washington minimum wage case in December, or six weeks before President Roosevelt started the country with his plan to appoint six new Justices to the court.

The court's liaison officer with the press pointed out what goes on at the conferences of the Justices each Saturday of the term is absolutely secret and that there was no way for official determination of the time the decision was reached.

The chronology of the now historic Washington case permits the assumption that the decision was reached on Dec. 19, but this cannot be proved. The appeal from the Washington Supreme Court was filed with the United States Supreme Court on Aug. 17. On Oct.
12, the court noted "probable jurisdiction," and the case came up for oral argument on Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 16 and 17.

The next conference of the Justices was held on Saturday, Dec.
19, and following procedure, the case might have been voted upon then. At this meeting, Justice Stone was not present as he had not returned from the South where he had been sent by his physicians.

He was entitled to participate in consideration of the case, however, because he had been "vouched in"
by the Chief Justice, that is, at the beginning of the oral argument, the Chief Justice had asked the opposing counsel if they had any objections to participation in the case by Justice Stone, who was not then present. This is a formal proceeding and in the memory of court clerks, no counsel has ever objected to the "vouching in" of an absent Justice.

The reason usually given for not objecting to the participation of an absent Justice is that all of the points at issue are stated in the briefs filed with the court and the absent Justice can follow the argument from the constitutional points raised. The oral arguments give the Justices an opportunity to ask counsel to elaborate points already raised in the briefs.

President Roosevelt announced his court plan on Feb. 5, and even if the court did not vote on Dec.
19, six other Saturday conferences intervened on which the court could have taken action before the announcement.

MOTHER FOR GIRL'S DECISION TO GIVE HER UP FOR $60,000

Says She Is Happy Daughter Will Get Money; "Now She Can Go to Boarding School."

TROY, N. Y., April 2.—The mother of Vera Jean Howard, 15 years old, approved last night the girl's decision to give up her parents and accept a $60,000 legacy. Mrs. Margaret Howard said the girl's inheritance of a trust fund would help her by her granduncle and foster father, Fred D. Nichols of Petersburg, N.
Y., was the "culmination of the hopes for which I made the sacrifice of giving her up years ago."

"I am happy that Vera Jean is to receive this money," said Mrs.
Howard, a clerk in the State Correction Department at Albany. "Now she can go to boarding school, to a good school where one can learn something worthwhile, as she often told me she wanted to do."

Mrs. Howard said she and the girl's father, Charles, had been estranged since Vera Jean Howard was a baby. The girl was born at the home of Nichols, Petersburg storekeeper. Nichols will, probated here, established the trust fund provided the girl did not live with her parents or any other kin except the executor, former Mayor James Johnstone of Rensselaer.

MONTREAL PROSECUTOR HITS AT 'AMERICAN LABOR TACTICS'

Says Neither J. L. Lewis Nor Followers Will Be Allowed to MONTREAL, April 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Crown Prosecutor Oscar Gagnon declared yesterday John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, will be arrested if he "brings his American labor tactics into Montreal." His declaration followed announcement that a Montreal unit of the C I O had been formed.

"Neither he nor his organizers will act in Montreal as they have elsewhere," Gagnon said. "If one move is made to break any Canadian law, especially with reference to intimidation or restraint of trade, Lewis or anyone else will be taken into custody."

L. Dufour, labor organizer, said a branch of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America, a C I O affiliate, had been organized here with a starting membership of 150.

REMMERS SAYS MAYOR OPPOSES REGISTRATION BILL

Republican Opponent Asserts Dickmann Secretly Fights It While Publicly Sponsoring It.

Mayor Dickmann is publicly sponsoring passage of a permanent registration bill for St. Louis, and secretly trying to bring about its defeat, Oliver T. Remmers, Republican nominee for Mayor, charged in campaign speeches at four ward meetings last night.

"The present Mayor made a great noise for permanent registration in order to divert the attention of the people from the election frauds," declared Remmers. "These frauds were exposed during the term of the recent discredited Election Board, which the present Mayor made every effort to save."

"One of the active workers for a permanent registration in St.
Louis is Maurice Schechter, a member of the Legislature, and one of the Mayor's so-called 'good government' candidates. Schechter also represents as attorney a majority of those who have been indicted for election frauds, which frauds are possible under the present system of registration."

"Emballing Measure."
"Citizens are wondering what became of the permanent registration bill. Sinister influences are at work. David A. Hess, Democratic member of the Legislature, a friend of the Mayor and the same Hess who two years ago led the fight for the race track bill for 'Bev' Brown and 'Gully' Owen, is carefully emballing the permanent registration bill at the private request of the Mayor."

"This Mayor hypocritically sends a vigorous letter to the members of the Legislature, and which he gives to the press, urging passage of the bill, and secretly, through his agent, Hess, gives orders that the bill is to be buried. This Mayor talks one way to the public and then, under cover, has his henchmen do the opposite."

"I pledge the citizens, as Mayor, to work energetically and honestly for a permanent registration bill and clean elections in St. Louis."

River-front Memorial.
Remmers also attacked the Mayor for his espousal of the Jefferson river-front memorial, declaring that "the public would like to know how many options have been taken on the property in the river-front section in the names of straw men."

"What profit is there to certain runners up and down Chestnut street who are impatiently waiting for condemnation proceedings on the memorial to begin?" asked Remmers. "Has as much as $500,000 been spent in options? Will some options expire unless work on the river front is soon started? Would it not be an obligation of the chief executive of the city, upon information being present to him of unusual option activity, to have vigorously stepped into the picture and kept civic enterprise from the spoils system and possible scandal?"

Remmers repeated his charge that Brown and Owen, operators of a racing news service and liquor dealers, are "behind the scenes, operating this marionette show in St.
Louis." He has previously charged that Brown and Owen boast of their power "to control the administration—and they do."

"Brown and Owen," said Remmers, "lost their race track bill in Jefferson City two years ago because Gov. Park vetoed it. Represents the Mayor's good government man, made strenuous efforts to have the bill passed. But Brown and Owen were not to be stopped, and so, operating the marionette show, they afford another example of sinister influences."

Matinee Horse Track.
"On March 14, last, the present Mayor announced that a driving and riding track for matinee horse exhibitions was planned by him to be laid out in Forest Park on the old aviation field opposite Forest Park Highlands. The present Mayor's plans call for a track approximately 30 feet wide on the straight away and wider on the turns. Then St. Louis would have a racetrack in a public park."

"Of course, it will be said that the horses will be run for exhibition purposes only, but where horses run there is gambling.
Where there is gambling, we find 'Bev' Brown and 'Gully' Owen."

Election of Aldermen.
When campaigning four years ago, the Mayor advocated election of Aldermen by wards, but now
"since he has a sufficient number of puppets in the board," is opposed to it, Remmers declared.

"The election of Aldermen by city-wide vote is inherently wrong," declared Remmers. "It gives minority groups no voice in city affairs. It is monopolistic."

"I said this when the Republicans had 28 members on the board. And I say it with equal force now. I believe that it is none of my business whom the people of the Fourth Ward, Tenth Ward or any other ward want to elect as their Aldermen. If the people of the Sixth, Nineteenth and Twenty-third wards, predominantly Negro wards, want a Negro Alderman, that is their business."

"By the same logic, I don't want people of the Second Ward, the Seventh Ward, or any other ward to tell the people of my ward who our Alderman should be."

SLOAN SAYS CIO MOVEMENT WOULD ENSLAVE WORKERS

General Motors Head Tells Stockholders Its Aim Is Economic-Political Dictatorship.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, declared in a letter to stockholders today that the CIO movement, if successful, will result in "economic and political slavery of the worker."

Sloan said in a review of the General Motors strike that the movement threatens "economic political dictatorship."

"The purpose (of the strike) was to obtain the maximum possible recognition, carrying with it the greatest degree of power with a view to controlling not only the workers within General Motors but of the entire automotive industry and ultimately, so far as possible, all workers employed in mass producing industries," he said.

"Briefly stated, the strike against General Motors Corporation was not actuated by any fundamental causes that affected, in an important degree, the welfare of its workers," Sloan said. "I am quite convinced that this is an unprejudiced statement of fact. It is demonstrated by the further fact that there was very little at issue in the whole argument that affected their direct interests. A preliminary understanding resulting in the return to work, related solely to the status of the CIO union as a bargaining agency. As a matter of fact, the circumstances could hardly have been otherwise, for the reason that as is very generally recognized, working conditions, including the wage scale, and the hours of work, in the automotive industry and in General Motors, are such that the automobile worker stands as the most favored of all workers in American industry. And this has always been so. Further, the industry is continually working aggressively to improve even still further, the status of its workers. Wages have been consistently increased and hours of employment reduced so far as economically practical. And improved operating technique has made possible greater continuity and security of employment."

CIO Statements.

"Such being the conditions under which the industry was operating, then what was the real objective? No assumptions are necessary. The answer can be found in the official statements made from time to time by the leaders of the CIO movement. The purpose was to obtain the maximum possible recognition, carrying with it the greatest degree of power with a view to controlling not only the workers within General Motors, but of the entire automotive industry and ultimately, so far as possible, all workers employed in mass producing industries. That movement is now in full swing. To the extent that it becomes successful, if the precedent already established in other industries now dominated by the same leadership is to be the guide, industry faces the closed shop with the check-off. "The implications to be drawn from the logical evolution of this movement, are of serious economic and political consequences and jeopardize the welfare and security of all."

Sloan said the technique employed by the CIO to gain its objective involved, first, a demonstration of the power to paralyze the productivity of industry. "Thus," he said, "it places in jeopardy, as in the case of General Motors, the economic position of many important communities and causes loss and suffering to millions of innocent bystanders. And this is being accomplished through coercion of the workers and the illegal seizure of property. The fact that the workers support in many cases, is a small minority, is immaterial."

In the case of General Motors, over 125,000 workers opposed to the movement suffered loss of income for many weeks, amounting in the aggregate to tens of millions of dollars.

Second Step.

The second step in the union technique, he continued, is "the capitalization of the power thus demonstrated by forcing additional workers to join the movement."

"Then," he said, "comes the demand to represent all workers exclusively. Next, the closed shop. Each worker must then not only pay for the privilege of working, but he must pay for the privilege of continuing to work. Finally, comes the check-off. Then each worker must not only pay for his job, but in addition, special assessments, whenever and for whatever purpose the organization demands. And the worker is in no position to resist. The tribute in taken out of his pay envelope by the employer on the demand of the union. That is the final step. It is the real objective."

Sloan said such procedure places the production of industry at the mercy of labor leadership, "responsible and accountable to neither the law nor the workers, and restricted solely by its own desires and ambitions."

"The dangers of such a centralized control to the American worker are obvious," he continued. "Its political implications challenge democracy as a fundamental principle of government. To the extent that it succeeds, it means the economic and political slavery of the worker, and an important step toward an economic political dictatorship."

After discussing the "sit-down technique," Sloan went on to assert that the corporation always has been ready to meet the representatives of any group of its workers, and that it had engaged in collective bargaining with affiliates of the American Federation of Labor.

He said the corporation believed "that every one of its workers should have the privilege of joining any organization of workers, or none at all, if that be to his best interest. And he should be the sole judge."

"It believes," he said, "that every group of workers so organized, or any individual workers, should have the right to be heard on any condition of employment concerning which discussion might be desirable. . . . On the other hand it does not believe in the right of any one group to represent exclusively and dominate all workers, irrespective of their desires. Industrial democracy demands that the rights of all should be respected—that the viewpoints of all should be considered."

Refusal to Leave Plants.

Turning to the General Motors strike and the breaking of an agreement by the union to evacuate the plants pending negotiations, Sloan charged that the real reason for refusing to evacuate "apparently was that it (the union) recognized it would be giving up an important advantage in agreeing to withdraw from its sit-down position in the face of the refusal of the corporation to grant the demand of the exclusive bargaining rights for all General Motors workers."

"There was no equitable justification for charging the corporation with bad faith or breach of the agreement," he said.

Reference to Injunction.

Referring to the injunction obtained Feb. 2 for the evacuation of the plants—which, he said, established the illegality of the sit-down—and the refusal of the union to obey the court's order, Sloan said: "No effort whatsoever was made by the local enforcement authorities to enforce the orders of the court, and the State itself took no action toward maintaining the authority of the law. Under such circumstances, the corporation stood powerless."

Sloan related that the corporation had been informed by Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan that he was authorized by President Roosevelt to make a request that General Motors enter into negotiations with the CIO. "Irrespective of the fact that the corporation's property was still occupied by sit-down strikers," Sloan said, "in view of the political intervention," he said, "a new question arose." This question was "the position of over 125,000 loyal workers who had individually petitioned for the right to return to work on the existing terms."

"Recognition had to be given to the fact that apparently nothing was to be done on the part of responsible governmental authority to support the legal and just rights of the corporation and effect the return of its properties," he said.

As a result, he continued, "the decision was reached that the request received had placed the corporation in an untenable situation, and therefore it decided to withdraw from the position of refusing to enter into negotiations with the CIO committee, notwithstanding that its plants were still illegally occupied by strikers—the request of the President of the United States left no alternative other than to meet Mr. Lewis with Gov. Murphy."

HOUSE PERFECTING
SCHOOL PENSION BILLMeasure Provides for Payments Based on 10-Year Average Salary.By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—
The House of Representatives took under consideration today perfection of the proposed teachers' pension bill, recently approved by the House Committee on Education.
Enactment of the measure, which is designed to provide retirement benefits to more than 25,000 public school teachers and officials, was made possible through the adoption last November of an amendment to the State Constitution.Under the proposal, teachers would be required to contribute 4 per cent of their annual salaries to establish a fund from which benefits would be paid. This fund is to be supplemented by contributions from the various school boards, amounting to 3 per cent of the annual teacher payroll.The bill provides the teachers may retire on reaching 62 years of age. Compulsory retirement is at 70, although teachers may continue in service two years longer on approval by the school board.Range of Payments.
The benefits would be paid on an actuarial basis, ranging from a minimum of $200 a year to a maximum of $1200, but not to exceed one-half of the teacher's average salary during the last 10 years. First pensions would be paid July 1, 1938.
All teachers on being engaged by any school board would become members of the pension system, but could drop out later if they so desire.Persons covered by the plan include teachers, librarians, superintendents, deans and heads of colleges and universities in the State educational system. An attempt to include janitors and other school assistants was voted down by the House committee.The measure calls for State appropriations for several years for administrative funds until the pension system is firmly established.
It was estimated the administration cost would be about $25,000 a year.Change in Financing Plan.
The original bill introduced in the House called for biennial appropriations from the State general revenue fund amounting to about $900-000 this year and increasing up to nearly $2,000,000 in 12 years.That provision was withdrawn after it was opposed in the Education Committee and by members of the House. The objection was based on the charge that the teachers while campaigning for the amendment permitting teacher pension legislation led the public to believe

Coronation Coiffure

OFFICIALLY prescribed by the Incorporated Guild of Hairdressers, Wigmakers and Perfumers of London for the coronation of King George VI.the system would be self-supporting. It was also opposed on the ground that State aid in creating a pension system for one occupation would establish a dangerous precedent.Faced with that objection, representatives of the Missouri State Teachers' Association, which sponsored the original bill, met with a subcommittee of the House and agreed to an amendment making the supplemental contributions an obligation of the school boards. The contributions would be taken from the school funds at the disposal of the boards.Featuring

CRUICKSHANK HAS A 69 FOR 2ND, 18 HOLES
TO LEAD FIELD

Ralph Guldahl Starts With a Bad Six, But Birdies
Second Hole — Byron
Nelson, First Round Leader.

By the Associated Press.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 2.—Bobby

Cruckshank, the veteran professional from Richmond, Va., cracked up by three strokes today for a 69 and a 36-hole total of 148 in the

1937 Augusta National Golf tournament, while Bob Jones of Atlanta,

the one-time fairway king, settled down to a 74 and a half way score of 153.

Finishing early, Cruckshank moved into the lead, but the low-scorer of the opening round, Byron

Nelson, of Reading, Pa., Ed Dudley, of Augusta, and Ralph Guldahl, of St. Louis, were still to be heard from.

A bright sun warmed up the hazardous course as the field set out for a second 18 holes in pursuit of young Nelson, who led the first round with a record-breaking 66.

Jones Jr., the Atlanta lawyer and amateur golfer, started little hope from the gallery

when he moved out to play with

Denny Shute, of Boston, the F. G. A.

champion. Jones practiced on the putting green, checking on the club that failed him miserably yesterday, to leave him in next to last place with a 73.

The 25-year-old Nelson, holding a three-stroke lead over Guldahl, was among the late starters.

After reaching the first green with an approach, Jones three-putted from 15 feet for a bogey 5. He ended the long second, coming out of a trap and dropping an 8-footer.

Shute started with pars, 4-5. The early field had trouble gauging approaches to the fast greens.

Jones, still a bit wild off the tees and with his approaches, was two strokes over par through seven holes.

Cruckshank, who had a disastrous 7 yesterday, got hot on the first nine for an outgoing 38, three under standard. He scored birdies on the long second and eighth holes and knocked in a long putt for another on the ninth. At Watrous of Detroit, playing with the Vir-

Flyers to Start Strongest Lineup in Third Contest of Title Series With Millers

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 2.—Only one game stood between

St. Louis, defending American Hockey Association champion, and first-place finisher for the 1937 season, and elimination in the final playoffs today.

The Flyers with two strikes on them, face Minneapolis tonight in the third game of the series. A fourth game, if necessary, is scheduled for Sunday night.

The Millers, heavy favorites in the Twin Cities to romp through

St. Louis in the same fashion they handled the Saints in the semi-finals, were confident of victory.

Bullet Joe Simpson, Miller coach,

this morning expressed the Minneapolis attitude when he said "The boys played their finest hockey of the season in St. Louis and if they play nearly as well tonight we should close the series with the Flyers and stow away the American Hockey Association championship.

"It's quite a feat to whip the more experienced, and classier Flyers any time and any place," he emphasized,

"to beat them on their own ice and in games that carried so much weight is a real accomplishment."

The Millers worked out on the Arena ice yesterday afternoon, while the Flyers, beaten 2 to 1 and 4 to 3, rested in their hotel rooms.

Minneapolis has scored 18 goals in the playoffs, an average of 3.6 a game. Together with a string of 11 previous victories, the Northern crew holds an edge over the Flyers in their performance for the

the world, 10 rounds. Heavyweight division.

boy Jones, Pittsburgh (181), 10 rounds.

vs. Jimmy Garrison, Kansas City (158 1/2),

Place—The Auditorium, Fourteenth and Market streets. Start time—8:30 o'clock.

By W. J. McGoogan

John Henry Lewis, light-heavyweight champion of the world, is not shivering in his boots this morning as he contemplates his 10-round engagement with Donald "Reds"

Barry of Washington, D. C., at the Auditorium tonight.

Donald "Reds" fought a draw with John Henry one time and for that reason was hailed into the picture when Fred Lenhart, who was originally to have fought Lewis

here, injured his shoulder in training.

Aside from the even break with the champion, which was gained some years ago, Barry has done nothing of note. He was knocked out by Joe Louis and flattened also by Leroy Haynes, Hank Hankin-son and Al Gahner.

Barry reached here the other day to finish his training and impressed onlookers as being of the fatfist type of boxer. A good portion of his 195 pounds are carried from his waist down where they won't do any particular good so the 10 or 15 pound weight advantage which he will have over the champion won't mean much.

The bout is the main event of a four contest program of which Larry Atkins is the matchmaker, operating under the auspices of the

Fred W. Stockham Post of the American Legion.

Larry was associated with Lew

Raymond in boxing here for the last year and a half. When Raymond and his partners gave up some months ago for reasons which have never been made public, At-Yale Beats Navy.

THE life of Wilson Schwenk of Beaumont High

is like unto a thrilling Alger tale;

He left the U. S. Navy high and dry,

Deciding he would rather go to Yale.

As many college gates were open wide

To Wilson and his educated toes

He found it was a tough one to decide

Which was the better place for him to go.

Wilson Schwenk is probably the greatest college football prospect turned out by a St. Louis high school since Soldan gave Dave Cook to Illinois. Looks like a break for the Yale.

See where Milwaukee sent Luke

Hamlin, a 21-year-old rookie to the Dodgers for further seasoning.

"Braddock Is On Way to Chicago."

HE HAS a rendezvous with Joe

on which there is a string;

For many a stormy wind shall blow

Ere they get in the ring.

That Braddock boy sure gets around. In two years he probably has rolled up more miles to the fight than any champion before or since his time. Don't know what his total mileage is but his fights add up to the startling figure of naught.

The Cleveland Indians are in-involved in another "cover-up" case.

They have been asked to explain to the "Judge" why Tommy Henrich was side tracked at Milwaukee on his way from New Orleans to the major. Tommy read in the papers where Billy Evans said he was worth $15,000 and he wants to know, you know.

Finding himself in need of an outfielder, Clark Griffith decided that Joe Vosmik of the Browns was about what he wanted. Griff has grown so accustomed to drawing on the Browns for what he wants that it has become a custom, a habit, or a tradition.

BERLIN PROMOTERS RENEW EFFORTS TO GET TITLE BATTLE

$350,000 OFFER TO BRADDOCK TO BOX SCHMELING STILL STANDS

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, April 2.—Champion James J. Braddock and party moved into Chicago today, heartening the town's fight fans by their apparent determination to go through with a world title bout against Challenger Joe Louis in Comiskey Park, June 22.

Braddock and Joe Gould, the champion's manager, arranged an audience with Mayor Edward J. Kelly for later in the day. A telephone call was placed to Gov. Henry Horner, to ask his assurance that there would be no Illinois objections to the scheduled battle.

A bill to limit ringside tickets to a $10 top was knocked out in one parliamentary round in the State General Assembly.

Accompanying the champion and Gould on the trip from New York were Braddock's trainer and two sparring mates, Jack McCarthy and Charley Massera. Braddock expected to depart Sunday night for Stone Lake, Wis., there to hike, chop wood and generally toughen up for a few weeks against his meeting with the Brown Bomber.

Meanwhile, Madison Square Garden's case, another jarring note in the Braddock-Louis duel, is scheduled to come up April 12 at Newark, N. J. Counsel for Braddock then will be asked to show cause why the champ should not fight Schmeling June 3 in New York.

DOWNTOWN Y TO DEFEND HONORS IN WATER POLO TOURNAMENT HERE

Four teams, two from out of town, have entered the junior national water polo championships to be held at Washington University's pool tomorrow afternoon and night. First round games will begin at 1:30 o'clock and the finals at 8 p. m. University of Illinois, one of the strongest teams in the Big Ten conference, and the Hoosier A. C. of Indianapolis, an outstanding contender for the junior title last year, are the out-of-town entries.

With the Downtown Y. M. C. A.'s new team, which will be defending the 1936 championship another "Y" team won, the other St. Louis entry is the St. Louis Juniors. The South Side Y. M. C. A. decided not to enter. The St. Louis Juniors is a team formed by swimmers who have been practicing at the Missouri Athletic Association.

First round pairings will be made tonight. Ernie Vornbrock, chairman of the A. A. U. water polo committee, said today. Two games are scheduled for tomorrow night, championship and consolation. Vornbrock said there is no entry heavily favored to win the title. All the teams are capable of making a good fight.

Illinois will have three St. Louis boys on its team. Johnny Brouk, recently elected captain; Ralph Brouk, his brother, and George Jennings, freshman captain, are the three St. Louisans.

Some of the best players on the St. Louis Juniors, Vornbrock said, are Werner Bauer, son of Earl Bauer, M. A. A. swimming coach; Jack Flachmann, younger brother of Charlie, Illinois swimming star, and Fred and Bill Armstrong, two Soldan High School splashers.

On the Hoosier club's team is one of its outstanding swimming competitors, Mahern, who also is a good water polo player.

The St. Louis Y. M. H. A. will not enter the meet, Vornbrock said, and Chicago and Kansas City teams which had indicated they might, have not been heard from. Vornbrock said late entries would be allowed.

DETROIT BEATS CANADIENS FOR LEAGUE TITLE

NEW YORK, April 2.—Meet Detroit's high-flying Red Wings, who beat Old Man Jinx and came back to win their second straight National Hockey League championship.

All but floored by a succession of injuries, the Wings kept punching at Montreal's Canadiens to remain on top of the loop and stay in the running in defense of the classic Stanley Cup.

Goalie Normie Smith, defensively the league's best this year, came back to action just in time last night to provide the backbone that gave the Wings a 3-1 victory over the Canadiens in three "sudden death" overtime periods in the decisive game of the championship and cup semifinal series.

Now Detroit can rest until the New York Rangers and Montreal Maroons decide the other finalist in the cup competition. The Rangers got off to a flying start in the two-out-of-three game playoff by whipping the Maroons, 1-0, in Madison Square Garden last night. The series shifts to Montreal for the second game tomorrow.

Joiled by the loss earlier in the season of high-scoring Larry Aurie with a broken ankle, and then by the injury of Smith last Saturday night, the Wings went into last night's final handicapped from the opening bell. Facing them was a Canadian club fast reviving from the two terrific beatings administered by the Wings in the opening tilts of the five-game series.

After taking the opening two games on home ice, the Wings had found the injury jinx too tough and dropped the next two at Montreal. It seemed likely Smith would still be on the sidelines last night, but he went in at the start, and, in Hec Kilrea, Detroit found a puck chaser who evened up for the loss of Aurie.

Kilrea scored the winning goal on a triple pass from Marty Barry and Earl Lewis at 11:49 of the third period, to clinch a skating performance that left little to be desired. Eddie Goddell sent Detroit off in front in the second period, only to have Bill McKenzie tie it up for the Canadiens in the third regulation session and force the game into 61 minutes of overtime.

HERMANN TO MEET WITEKS IN SPECIAL MATCH AT WOOD RIVER

The Hermanns, holder of the national team three-game record of 3797, and the Witeks, another member of the Classic Bowling League, will hold their final workout for the American Bowling Congress tournament, now in progress in New York, tomorrow night at the opening of the new Twentieth Century bowling alleys, Wood River, Ill.

The bowlers should profit by the match as they will bowl on new alleys and against A. B. C. tenpins. The teams are scheduled to compete in the A. B. C. five-man event next Thursday and minor events the following day.

In addition to the regular teams, the Hermanns will show St. Louis singles champion, Lowell Jackson, who may break into the team's lineup as a replacement for Ray Holmes who may not be able to make the trip.

The Witek team is composed of Lou Haar, Bud Rice, Ted Gillett, Bill Linck and Joe Pallardy.

GARDNER RESIGNS FROM MINOR LEAGUE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

DURHAM, N. C., April 2.—J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, has resigned from membership on the Executive Committee of the National Association of Professional Baseball League, W. G. Bramham, president of the association, said yesterday.

The resignation is to take effect immediately after the meeting of the committee which is now in session at New Orleans.

Gardner is the last of the original members of the committee which was created in December, 1932. He served as representative of the Class A-1 and A leagues. Press of business in connection with oil drilling, he said, prevented him from giving further time to the committee. He will continue at the head of the Texas League, over which he has presided since late in 1929.

ROTHENHEBER WINS THIRD TITLE IN LAST FENCING TOURNAMENT

Norman Rothenheber set a new record for winning city fencing championships last night when he won his third title in four tournaments by defeating three other finalists for the three-weapon championship at Webster Groves High School. Rothenheber had previously won the foil and epee titles and was runner-up to Len O. Hooker Jr., for the saber title.

Alex Solomon, Fencers' Club, George Curtis, St. Louis Fencing team, Rothenheber's club, and Lawrence Gregory, Fencers' Club, were the other finalists and finished in that order.

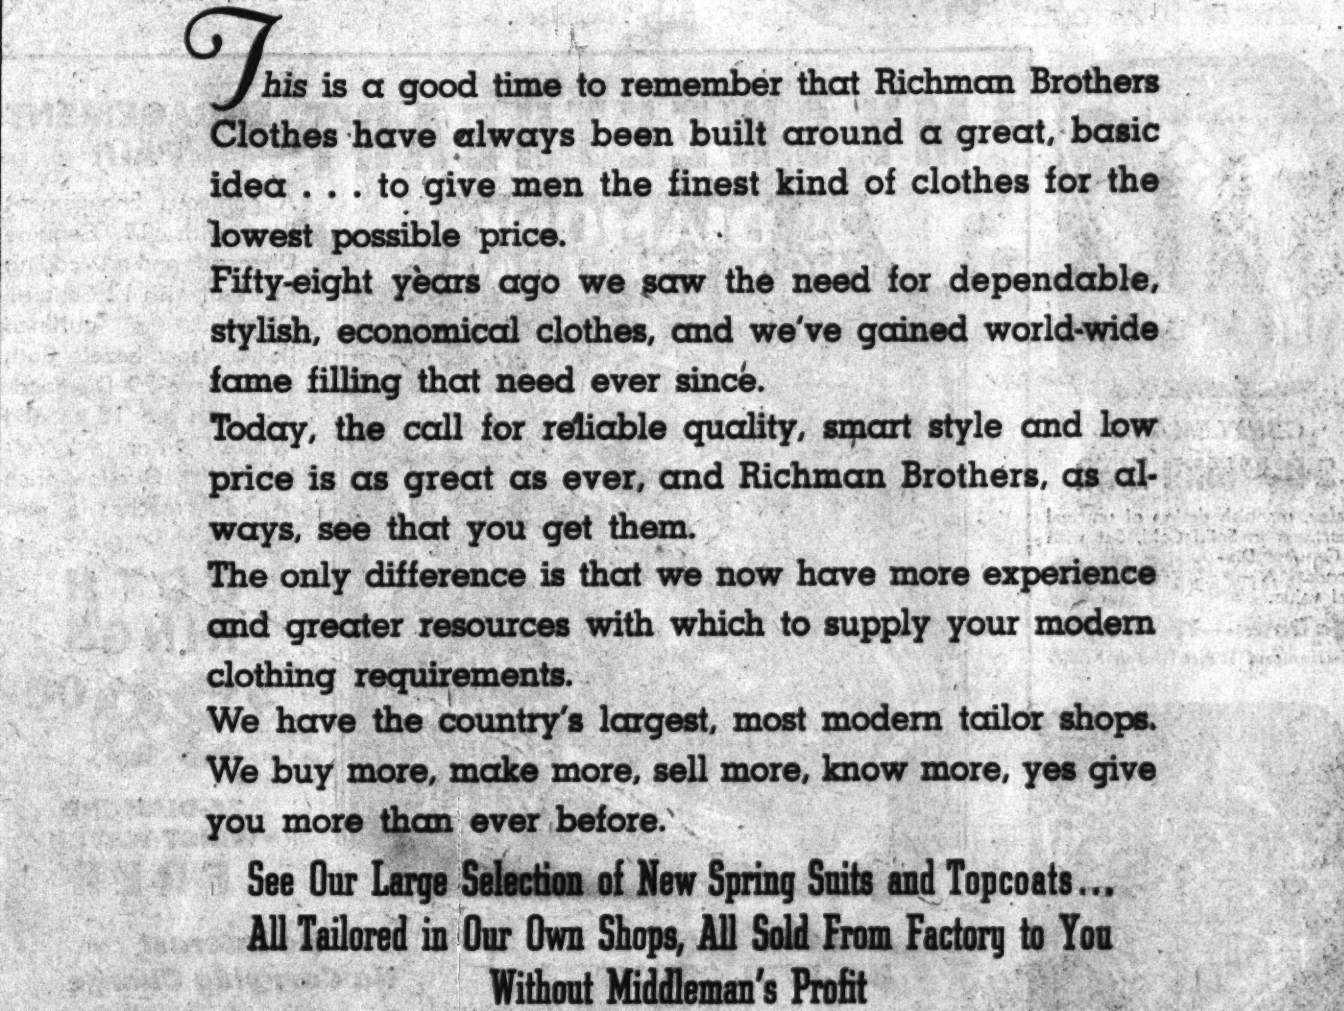

The meet last night completed the local season for fencers. Some of the local stars will go to Chicago April 11 for the Midwest championships.

High School Coach Resigns

AURORA, Ill., April 2.—Marmion High School looked for a new football coach today following the resignation of Ralph E. Dunley, grid iron mentor for seven years. He gave the press of his insurance business as the reason for his retirement.

Dunley, former coach of a Rock Island independent team, compiled a record of 31 victories and 28 defeats here.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 2.—More than 40 persons were killed today in a head-on collision between two electric trains, crowded with passengers, crashed at high speed in the rush hour. One coach was engulfed in flames. It was reported that the crash occurred in an area in recent years has been the scene of numerous accidents. Some of the victims of a car crash seriously on the viaduct along a narrow railway. Others refused to get out until ladders were thrown from the bridge over the main line.

One passenger struggled to escape and ran, away from the tracks to flag down a train speeding from Victoria. It pulled to a stop at the crash.

Four men were killed in the accident and three members of the last car of the train, which had stopped at about 150 yards of the crash. One of the victims was a woman.

Arthur Atchley, motorist, was killed when he was struck by the rear of a passenger train, escaped by a narrow escape.

Rescue crews, reaching the scene with long ladders, were working long to pull the wreckage from the tracks. It took several hours to get all the victims from the twisted mass of wreckage.

The accident tied up the Victoria Station, making it impossible for commuters late for work. A preliminary investigation is being conducted to determine the cause of the crash.

Twelve persons were killed in the collision of two trains in London yesterday.

Wreck Ties Up Traffic Into Victoria Station—Thous-

for Work.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 2.—Eight persons were killed today and more than 40 injured when two suburban electric trains, crowded with city workers, crashed on a 60-foot high viaduct in the morning rush hour. One coach was telescoped across a live rail and burst into flames. It was one of the worst train accidents in the London area in recent years.

Scores of passengers had narrow escapes. Some of the dazed occupants of a car swinging precariously on the viaduct crawled along a narrow footpath to safety. Others refused to leave the car until ladders were run up to the bridge from the main line below.

One passenger struggled from the wreckage and ran, swaying along the tracks to flag down a third train speeding from Victoria station. It pulled to a stop a few yards from the wreck.

Four men were killed in one compartment and three women in another of the last car of the first train, which had stopped on the tracks about 150 yards outside Victoria Park. One of the injured died tonight.

Arthur Anthony, motorman of the electric train from Coulsdon to Victoria, which hit the rear of the stationary train, escaped with minor injuries.

Rescue crews, reaching the viaduct with long ladders, worked in the soaking rain to pull the dead and injured from the wreckage. It took three hours to get all the injured from the twisted mass of steel and wood.

The accident tied up traffic into Victoria station, making thousands of commuters late for work. A preliminary investigation was unable to determine the cause of the wreck.

Sixteen persons were injured in collision of two trains north of London yesterday.

NO PLAN FOR WORLD PEACE CONFERENCE, SAYS ROOSEVELT

That Time Is Not Right for Meeting on Arms.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Roosevelt told newspapermen today that foreign newspaper reports that the United States was planning an international conference on peace and other subjects were press inspired.

He recalled Secretary Hull's press conference yesterday and said Hull answered the question categorically and correctly when he said there were no plans afoot for proposing a conference of any kind.

There was widespread speculation at the Capitol today as to the motive that prompted Byrnes, regarded in the Senate as a loyal spokesman for the President on almost every issue, to introduce the highly controversial amendment just as the Senate was about to pass the Guffey bill. One explanation today was that he had been prompted by Garner.

The Vice-President has scarcely made a secret of his intense resentment of the sit-down technique. While he has not spoken openly, he has told his friends in the Senate that some action would have to be taken. It is even reported that he warned President Roosevelt this week of the necessity for some recognition of the sit-down phenomenon, particularly in the Detroit area.

No Authority, Says Borah.

While Robinson and Byrnes discussed the technicalities of Senate procedure should the resolution be referred to committee, Borah was demanding recognition. He said he wanted an opportunity to speak on the motion.

The Federal Government has no authority whatsoever to proceed in this matter," Borah said, when he

Robinson Agrees to Vote on Move To Outlaw Sit-Down Strikes After Vainly Trying to Block It

Senate, in Hottest Debate of Session Over Attempt to Amend Guffey Coal
Bill.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.

201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—After three hours of fiery debate on sit-down strikes, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, majority floor leader, late today consented to a Senate vote on an amendment to the Guffey coal control bill, barring sit-down strikes in the coal industry.

Earlier Robinson had threatened indefinite debate unless his motion to refer the whole sit-down issue to a committee was brought to a vote.

The amendment to the Guffey bill was introduced by Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina.

Debate Waxed Furious.

The most heated session thus far in this Congress followed as administration leaders and proponents of the bill sought manfully to put the issue aside, temporarily at least.

Crowded galleries and standers all around the floor listened as the debate raged, stirring sectional feeling. Northern Senators, strongly pro-labor, charged Southern Senators with seeking to prevent the spread of unionization to Southern cotton mills.

"Unless this motion can be brought to a vote," Robinson said of his own move to prevent a vote at the present time on the Byrnes amendment, "debate will continue indefinitely. I state that, not because I want to stop the debate, but merely as a tactic."

Hoping to compromise the quarrel, Senator Pittman (Dem.) of Nevada, suggested that inasmuch as it was clear that Robinson's motion was technically out of order, he proposed that the Byrnes amendment be laid aside a minute.

But Robinson at first rejected this suggestion and Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, who had taken an active part in the debate insisted that a vote be taken on the Guffey bill amendment.

Robinson finally agreed to Pittman's assertion that his motion was out of order and consented to a vote on Byrnes' amendment.

Seeking a way out of the serious dilemma created by introduction of the Byrnes amendment, which would, in effect, put the administration on record as opposed to sit-down strikes, Robinson proposed a 30-day postponement so that a committee of the Senate might have time to study the issue.

Robinson's motion, made before a Senate in which virtually every seat was filled in expectation of a fierce debate, would get the troublesome question out of the way, at least temporarily, if passed.

Under Robinson's proposal, the whole sit-down issue would be referred to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, of which Senator Burton K. Wheeler, bitter foe of the administration on the court issue, is chairman. A resolution declaring a national policy on sit-down strikes would then be reported out by this committee not later than 30 days. Byrnes immediately demanded an assurance that it would be taken up by the Senate at the end of the proposed time limit and not buried in committee.

Byrnes Reassured.

Seeking to reassure Byrnes, Robinson cited the rules of the Senate under which the resolution, he declared, would come up in the routine course of business. Vice-President Garner, in the chair, confirmed this.

Sensor George of Georgia, bitter opponent of the President's plan to remake the Supreme Court, accused "persons in high places" of undermining respect for all courts.

George insisted the Senate had an unquestioned right to adopt Byrnes' large, said last night he would discuss world economic and peace cooperation with British statesmen, but that the time was not ripe for an international disarmament conference.

Tension created by the Spanish civil war and suspicion in Europe made disarmament impracticable, he asserted.

ROME, April 2.—Ten thousand Italian Air Force—thronged here today in preparation for the ceremony tomorrow before the Unknown Soldier's Tomb. King Vittorio Emanuele will present banners to various air squadrons. Premier Mussolini will attend.

The ceremony has a special significance in view of the new Italian Air Force personnel killed last month.

By Jan. 1, 1941, Italy will have 93 squadrons, with total personnel up to 7670 pilot-officers and 107 non-commissioned pilots.

Five air regiments will be created to co-operate with the army and navy. Special units will be established for colonial service.

ROOSEVELT'S WORK RELIEF MESSAGE IS DUE APRIL 14

Uncertain of Amount; Must Keep Within $1,500,000,000 to Balance Budget, He Has Said.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Roosevelt said today he would send a message to Congress about April 14 recommending an appropriation for work relief for the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

He said that along with the message would go a statement recasting estimates of Federal receipts and expenditures this year and next based on new information since last December's estimates. He said he would not have the figures until the end of next week and did not know at this time how much of an appropriation he would ask.

The National Mayors' Conference has recommended $2,000,000,000. The President in his budget message said if the 1937-38 relief cost were kept down to $1,500,000,000, next year's budget would balance except for debt retirement.

The President said he planned to talk by telephone today with Gov. Lehman of New York who, with five other Eastern and Middle Western Governors, protested recently against any cuts in Works Progress rolls.

Asked about taxes, the President reiterated the hope he expressed in Warm Springs, Ga., that there would be no new taxes enacted this session. He emphasized "this session" because he said he did not want anyone—if new taxes should be enacted next session—to say that he made a statement to the contrary on such and such a date.

ROOSEVELT SENDS MESSAGE TO TEXTILE CONFERENCE

Expresses Confidence That Discussion Will Aid in Ultimate Prosperity of the Industry.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Roosevelt expressed confidence to the world textile conference today that its discussion of the industry's problems would have "a far reaching effect on the ultimate prosperity of the industry and the well being of the millions whose livelihood depends on it."

The President's message, a letter to Harold B. Butler, conference secretary general, was read at the opening session.

"For the first time, the representatives of employers and of workers meet in an international conference, with equal powers, with the representatives of governments to seek a greater measure of social justice in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," the letter said.

"We have much to do. The conference... will discuss vital problems as they affect one of the world's oldest and most highly competitive industries, and one on which the welfare of more than 12,000,000 people depends."

"The task is not easy. I wish you all success."

NEW YORK GROUP PLANS NEW STATE MINIMUM WAGE LAW

Gov. Lehman and Legislators Would Follow Recent Supreme Court Decision.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, members of the Legislature and a group representing varied interests met today to plan a State minimum wage law.

At executive sessions began, the opinion generally among the men and women was that such an act should fix the minimum wage on the "cost of living," as set out in a United States Supreme Court decision upholding constitutionality of such a law in the State of Washington.

The New York minimum wage bill was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court several months ago.

Some members of the group favored re-enactment of the original bill, with amendments to conform to the high court's opinion in the Washington case. The old New York measure based minimum wage on "reasonable returns for service."

Passes Bill to Revise Recall Law.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—The House of Representatives voted 82 to 6 last night to pass a bill by E. C. Hamlin, Greene County, to change the city recall law for Springfield and Joplin. Under the measure, which now goes to the Senate, signatures of 40 per cent of the voters, instead of 20 per cent, would be required on petitions to demand the removal of city officials in those second class cities. The city clerk also would be allowed 15 days, instead of 10, to check the names on the petitions.

Lake Champlain Cut-Off Unaniat Joint Hearing.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 2.—Unanimous opposition to a proposed inland waterway from Montreal to New York went into the record at a two-day hearing, concluded today, before an international joint commission representing the United States and Canada.

After Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, had reviewed testimony of "overwhelming sentiment against the project in New England," the commission adjourned hearings to April 6 and 7 in Washington.

None of the many witnesses, including representatives of shipping interests, railroads, labor and business organizations, favored the proposed inland route, known as the Lake Champlain cut-off.

PRESIDENT OF PEASANTS' PARTY IN RUMANIA QUILTS

Urges That Leadership Be Restored to Manin, Opponent of Magda Lupescu.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 2.—Ion Mihalache, despairing of becoming Premier, resigned today as president of the National Peasant party.

Mihalache's party has been the chief opposition to the Liberal party government headed by Premier George Tataraciu. His resignation surprised the general committee of the Peasant party meeting here and injected new uncertainties into the internal political situation, which lately has been disturbed by activities of the "Iron Guard," a militant Nazi organization, and of Nationalists. Mihalache urged that party leadership be restored to former Premier Iuliu Maniu, a bitter opponent of Magda Lupescu, friend of King Carol.

POLITICAL SOCIETIES BARRED IN POLISH UNIVERSITIES

Order of Dissolution Issued on Ground That Clubs Created Anti-Jewish Agitation.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Poland, April 2.—Wojciech Swistoslowski, Minister of Education, ordered dissolution of university student societies of a political nature last night.

The order, affecting the groups regardless of political tendencies, was on the ground that they were centers of unrest, often creating anti-Jewish agitation.

As a result, Polish universities now closed are expected to reopen at the end of this month.

Warsaw University, scene of anti-Jewish riots last May, was closed then for an indefinite period. About the same time Jewish students were injured in a clash at Lwow University.

NO EFFORT MADE TO PUSH ST. LOUIS REGISTRATION BILL

House Passes St. Joseph Measure Without Dissenting Vote—Its Authors Are on the Job.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—The sincerity of the major part of the St. Louis delegation in the House in their professed support of a permanent registration bill for St. Louis was brought into sharp relief last night by the passage of an almost identical bill applicable solely to Buchanan County (St. Joseph).

The St. Joseph bill was passed without a dissenting vote, but the St. Louis bill has not even been brought out of the Elections Committee by the St. Louis members.

The St. Louis bill, having the public support of Mayor Diekmann and the city administration, was introduced Feb. 11 and bore the signatures of 14 of the 19 St. Louis House members. Representatives Maurice Schochter, Edward F. Byrnes, Edward M. Brady, Edwin G. Foster, Will L. Lindhorst, Don S. Gregson, Frank X. Dorsey, Harold V. Healy, David A. Hess, Jules Brinkman, Oliver E. J. Schick, Michael R. Kennedy, Maurice J. Cleary and Fred M. Joseph.

It was referred to the Committee on Elections Feb. 12 and it is resting there without an apparent effort on the part of any St. Louis Representative to have it reported to the House.

The St. Joseph bill was introduced Feb. 24, or 13 days later than the St. Louis bill, by Representative Francis Smith of St. Joseph. It was referred to the same Elections Committee Feb. 26. Although Smith is not popular with the House machine because of his advocacy of criminal code reform bills, his efforts have been successful.

NEW ATTACK ON FILM WRITING BY A DIRECTOR

Edward N. Griffith Says Screen Play Authors Need "Bringing Contacts."

By the Associated Press.
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 2.—Movie writers need more contact with the audience, says Film Director Edward N. Griffith.

And as a cure for this deficiency, the noted director prescribed today a good old medieval custom—subsidization by a patron—permitting authors to roam the world, searching for nature in the raw and absorbing "bringing contacts" with life.

"Writers don't live," Griffith argued. "And no story of any substance has ever been written by a person without some valid, burning contacts with life."

"It's an impossible situation. We get a writer and we plunk him down inside a studio office, day in and day out. He lives in a constricted Hollywood sphere, where everything is the film industry. Most of his acquaintances are in the studios. He lives, eats and sleeps movies."

"His only channels of communication with the real world outside are vicarious ones, through books or occasionally other people."

"Now, therefore, can he write worthwhile material for pictures? The answer is: He can't."

Griffith's idea is that each studio should maintain only a small crew of skilled play-doctors. All other writers, he said, should be put on subsidy and required to knock around the world most of the time, accumulating real material.

"In short," he said, "the studio should take the place of the medieval patron. There's no other way that I can see whereby good story material can be brought to us."

Griffith is considered one of the four or five foremost directors in Hollywood. In the long list of his films, "The Animal Kingdom," "Rebound," and "Holiday" stand out. He recently completed 20th Century's "Safe Menopausal."

Most of the films that make history, he said, were products of great novels or plays, by non-Hollywood writers.

"The reason is obvious—you've got to live to be a writer, and you can't do that kind of living in Hollywood."

Allan Jones' Horse Gets Role. Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 2.—Allan Jones, M-G-M singer-actor, has a liking for Arabian horses, and he bought a white one recently, although his budget was badly cramped by the purchase. He told Director Robert Z. Leonard about it, and Leonard replied that was just the type of horse he wanted Jones to use in "The Firefly." So the horse has been hired for the picture, and Jones says the equine's pay will not only settle his feed bill, but will permit his owner to buy a couple more horses.

TELEVISION TOO FAR OFF TO WORRY STUDIOS, LASKY SAYS

Producer Thinks Audiences Will Prefer Picture Houses for Long Time, Anyway.

By the Associated Press.
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 2.—Television, says Film Producer Jesse Lasky, may be just around the corner, but there's a long road to be traveled before anyone gets to it.

The pioneer movie-maker listed three major difficulties: 1. The gregarious instinct that sends people to theaters; 2. The unsuitability of radio stars for filming; 3. The nerve-strain that would be necessitated by heavy concentration on a comparatively small screen.

"Understand, I'm convinced television is coming," the producer said, "but it won't come soon enough for any of us to worry about."

He said he believed the technical facilities that now best television will be corrected.

"But I don't believe people will choose to stay home, by themselves, for a television broadcast, rather than go to a theater to see a movie. To many, the sensation of being in a crowd, with lights and life around, is very important."

"As for talent, we're having trouble finding, in radio, people who are suitable for pictures. Radio and the movies are two totally different fields. Generally, their stars are not interchangeable."

Lasky said television in its present form would be too much of a strain on the tired business man at night.

"After all, you can read or walk around or relax while merely listening. But it would require a genuine effort for a man to sit with his eyes glued on a screen hardly bigger than the average window."

M'CREA QUILTS "HURRICANE"

Actor Turns Down Star Part, Says He Is Unsuitable to It.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 2.—Joel McCrea today proved that there is such a thing in Hollywood as an honest actor. For he telephoned Samuel Goldwyn long distance at Tucson, Ariz., where the producer is vacationing, and begged to be relieved of the starring role of the native, "Terang," in "The Hurricane."

"I'd rather play that part than anything I've ever done," said Joel. "But I am convinced that I cannot honestly portray a Polynesian native with the sincerity that is needed for such a big picture. As a reward for Joel's frankness, Goldwyn announced that McCrea will get the romantic lead in "Dead End," which William Wyler will direct."

Facts About Careers of 12 Candidates for 5 Places On the Board of Education

Four Members to Be Chosen in Tuesday's Election for Full Six-Year Terms, One for Four-Year Unexpired Period.

In addition to filling municipal offices in next Tuesday's election, the voters will elect five members of the Board of Education. For the information of voters the Post-Dispatch presents herewith facts about the careers of the candidates for the five places, who are 12 in number.

Four members are to be chosen from among nine candidates for full six-year terms. One is to be selected from among three candidates for a four-year unexpired term, created by the resignation of Joseph J. Ward, who became a Circuit Judge the first of the year. Five incumbents are among the candidates. Terms of four other members of the board of 12 will expire in 1938 and of three members in 1941.

Under a law enacted in 1933, which was to have been effective this year for the first time, membership of the board was actually divided between the two major parties. This would have required the election next week of two Democrats and two Republicans to full terms and a Democrat for the unexpired term. However, Dr. Paul W. Freisler, elected to the post of the bipartisan law, and on Wednesday obtained an order from the Supreme Court of Missouri requiring that his name be placed on the ballot as a nonpartisan candidate for a full term. The Court has not yet handed down an opinion in the case, so it has not been determined whether the bipartisan law was fully knocked out.

Listing of Candidates. However, the Election Board will list on the separate Board of Education ballot, under their respective political designations, Dr. Freisler, the three Democrats who filed for full terms and the five Republicans, with instructions to the voters to vote for any four of these nine persons. A new question may arise after the election as to which of the candidates shall be certified as elected. In addition, the ballot will list separately the three Democrats running for the short term.

School board members, who, of course, are not required to give full time to their positions, are not salaried. Before passage of the bipartisan law the board elections were on a nonpartisan basis, which meant in recent years that the party in power controlled the outcome. Inasmuch as all voters, regardless of their own political affiliations, may vote for all five places to be filled this time, doubtless the party winning the municipal election again will control the school board selections.

Order of the names on the ballot, under the various designations, was determined by lot. Nominations were by petition.

Full Terms—Democratic

Mrs. Sara Wiener Lowenhaupt, 54 years old, Park Plaza Hotel, widow of Haymer Lowenhaupt, president of the Moss & Lowenhaupt Cigar Co., who died last July 11, leaving her the bulk of a $285,433 estate. Born in St. Louis; educated at public grammar schools, Central High School and Washington University, specializing in political science. She is the only woman now on the board, the only woman candidate, and the fourth member of her sex to serve on the board since the adoption of woman suffrage. Mayor Dickmann appointed her last Oct. 15 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Elias Michael.

She advocates for the schools "management that is sensible, fair, far-sighted, completely honest and not wasteful." A large committee of well-known men and women has been working actively for her election, one of the most recent additions to her supporters being Mrs. Louis F. Aloe, a Republican. Other Republican women, too, have been aiding her. For three years Mrs. Lowenhaupt has been chairman of a League of Women Voters international group, taking an active part in the peace movement. She is a director of the International Institute and a founder of the College Club. Dr. Meyer Wiener, noted eye specialist, is her brother.

Richard Murphy, 60, 3725 Utah place, vice-president of Festus J. Wade Jr. & Co., brokers, with offices at 318 North Eighth street. Born in St. Louis; married; educated in public and parochial schools and Christian Brothers' College. The oldest member of the board in point of service, he is completing his fourth term, covering a span of 24 years. He advocates the cause of playgrounds and "watching the judicious expenditure of the public money."

Regularly he has voted against all proposals under the board's $2,878,000 bond and P. W. A. building program of 1934, explaining recently that he considered payment for structures out of current revenue more desirable, and objected to payment of interest on bonds before the bond proceeds could be put to work. He proposed a reduction of last year's general school tax rate from 85 to 83 cents on the $100 valuation but other members did not agree with him that the schools could stand the decrease in revenue, inasmuch as elimination of a salary reduction was about to be started.

In 1935 it was learned that the Real Estate Equity Co., of which Murphy was president, had offered its stock to school employees and the public. Murphy said at the time that not more than a dozen school employees had bought shares. The concern was established for speculative investment. Murphy filed suit, which was successful in 1930, in knocking out a board rule to permit retirement of teachers reaching the age of 65 to clerical or other special work at reduced salaries. He alleged that this amounted to an unauthorized pension system. Formerly Murphy was a salesman in a downtown clothing store. He was a member of the Mullany Board, handling a fund for "emigrant relief," before going on the school board.

Thomas F. Quinn, 45, 5206 Thrush avenue, president of Building Trades Council and secretary of Steam and Gas Fitters' and Helpers' Local Union No. 562, with offices at 2309 Olive street. Born in St. Louis; married; four children, none of school age; educated at St. Bridget's School and Christian Brothers' College. He was appointed to the school board by Mayor Dickmann last December to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Ward's resignation. But chose to seek election to a full term rather than Judge Ward's unexpired term. He is chairman of a civic committee named to "supervise" expenditures of the city's $16,100,000 bond issue of 1934, a member of the international executive board of the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters and a member of the Legislative Committee of Central Trades and Labor Union. He has headed the Building Trades Council since July, 1934. In President Roosevelt's campaign last year he was president of the Missouri Committee of Labor's Nonpartisan League and now is president of the Union Labor Dickmann-McJannet Club. In 1935 he came close to election to the school board.

Full Terms—Republicans

Emil J. Barth, 49, 3542 Bamber street, assistant superintendent in St. Louis for Prudential Insurance Co., with offices at 3138 South Grand boulevard. Born in St. Louis; married; one child; educated in public grade and high schools. He has been a member of the board for two terms, or 12 years, and has been particularly interested in Galudet School, for the deaf, and Hadley Vocational School. He was made president of the board in 1930 after refusing to run first because he would not dicker with colleagues on appointment of committees. He feels that handling of the board's finances, amounting to more than $10,000,000 a year, is a task requiring special fitness of members, because of many questions involved. He favors long-range planning of school construction, partial Federal support of education and increased vocational instruction.

Dr. Solon Cameron, 55, 4910 Marquette place, physician, with offices in the Metropolitan Building. Born in St. Louis; married; has twin daughters attending Beaumont High School; educated at Ashland School, Central High School and Barnes Medical College, being graduated from the latter in 1906. He has been a member of the board for one six-year term. He advocates continued cooperation with school department heads and an evaluation of the aptitudes of pupils to direct the individual's education toward channels best fitting him for life's demands. He was a police department surgeon in 1921-25 and a Major in the Army Medical Corps during the World War in charge of a hospital section at Camp Dix, N. J. He is executive committee chairman and past commander of Boutwell Post of the American Legion, composed of physicians and dentists, and a director of the Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Mark D. Eagleton, 45, 4608 Tower Grove place, lawyer in the firm of Eagleton, Waechter, Yost, Eilam & Clark, with offices in the Telephone Building. Born in St. Louis; married; has two sons, 10 and 7; educated at Divoll School, Central High School and St. Louis University. He withdrew as a candidate for a Republican nomination as Congressman in 1920 in favor of the late Otto F. Stifel. He advocates provision of scholarships for poor pupils who might otherwise be deprived of higher education and reconsideration of the proposal to erect a Negro grade school on the Vashon High School grounds.

One of Eagleton's law partners is James A. Waechter, a Democratic political lieutenant of Mayor Dickmann and head of the Election Board removed by Gov. Park last September "for the betterment of the public service." Formerly Eagleton was a law partner of the late Edward W. Forstet.

It was disclosed in April, 1934, that Eagleton had settled with the Federal Government for $20,017 of income tax claim of $88,850. This was on returns for 1927-30. The Government alleged that Eagleton understated some income and failed to report some, and that his income for this four-year period was $317,800 instead of the $171,264 he reported. Subsequently a deficiency tax assessment of $9940 was made against him for 1932; that case is pending.

Eagleton has had a large practice in damage suits. He was one of the attorneys representing some making claims against certain lead companies on the ground they contracted silicosis in their employment.

In June, 1934, Eagleton and Waechter, who represented Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench in arranging bond after she was charged with complicity in the kidnapping for ransom of Dr. I. D. Kelley, withdrew from her case. Eagleton said at the time that they entered at the request of Mrs. Muench's brother, Judge Ernest M. Tipton of the Supreme Court of Missouri, but felt she should be served by counsel with wider knowledge of criminal law. Mrs. Muench was acquitted of the kidnapping charge but convicted recently of mail frauds in the famous baby hoax.

Eagleton was in the Marine Corps during the World War. John W. Hays, Negro, 52, 4324 West Belle place, real estate dealer. Born in Chaplin, Ky.; married; educated in Kentucky rural schools. Kentucky State Industrial School, Indiana State College and a Chicago University extension course. He made an unsuccessful race for Twenty-third Ward Republican committeeman in 1932. For 11 years he was a teacher and high school principal at Henderson, Ky., and during the World War was Y. M. C. A. educational director for Negroes at Camp Grant. He has resided in St. Louis since 1919 and was president of the St. Louis Business League six years, initiating a national Negro trade week idea. He advocates equal school facilities for all pupils, encouragement of children to study at least through the eighth grade and special attention to truancy.

Charles H. Hillmer, 47, 6236 Walsh street, president and principal owner of the Hillmer Chevrolet Co., 2344 South Kingshighway. Born in St. Louis; married; has one child, not of school age; educated at Pennington School and Bryant & Stratton Business College. During the World War he was a First Lieutenant serving as instructor in the bayonet and boxing at Camp McClellan, Ala.

Full Term—Nonpartisan

Dr. Paul W. Freisler, 34, 4374 Shenandoah avenue, instructor in biochemistry at Washington University medical school. Born in St. Louis; married; educated at Sherman School, McKinley High School and Washington University, with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in biochemistry. He is chairman of the Socialist City Committee and president of the local union of the American Federation of Teachers, which for more than a year has been making an effort to have the school board rescind a dead-letter rule forbidding teachers to belong to unions.

In 1935 he made an unsuccessful attempt to run for the board as a nonpartisan and recently filed the suit to test the bipartisan board law, thereby gaining a place on the ballot for himself. He was a Socialist nominee for Congressman in 1934 and 1936. He advocates repeal of the board's union rule, full support of union labor, reduction of the teachers' class load, universal free four-year college instruction, and equal educational opportunities for Negroes and whites. He is a delegate to Central Trades and Labor Unions, a member of various scientific societies and past holder of research fellowships.

Unexpired Term; Democrats

Dr. Rudolph Hofmeister, 49, 6101 South Grand boulevard, physician, with offices at 3953 South Grand. Born in St. Louis; married; has one child, of school age; educated at Meramec and Monroe Schools, Central High School, Normal College of the American Gymnasium Union and St. Louis University Medical School. He was high among losing candidates in the nonpartisan contest for the School Board in 1933. Particularly interested in physical education, he advocates maintenance of the high standards of the school system. Formerly he taught physical education in the public schools and city playgrounds here. He is president of the Concordia Turners, a trustee of the gymnastic union's college and a member of the St. Louis University surgical faculty.

Raymond W. Karst, 34, 3809 Lafayette avenue, a representative of the American Investment Co., with offices in the Ambassador Building. Born in St. Louis; married; educated at Wyman School, McKinley and St. Louis University High Schools and St. Louis University Law School, playing football on the college team. He was a State Representative in 1935-36 and has served as Provisional Police Judge from time to time by appointment of Mayor Dickmann. Karst is a member of the Missouri Bar Association and the Lawyers' Association of the Eighth Judicial Circuit.

In an inquiry last year into charges of fraud and irregularity in circulation and attesting of petitions for the abortive insurance code initiative measure, Karst testified that he had taken several circulars before a notary public of his acquaintance but that he had no part in circulating the petitions. Andrew Blong, another State Representative, asked him, he said, to obtain a notary.

Abraham M. Soema, 45, 5577 Cabanne avenue, sales manager of the Panikoff Manufacturing Co., trouser maker, 1531 W. 13th avenue. Born in Russia; married; five children, two of whom are of school age; educated in Russian elementary and high schools and the Rock Island (Ill.) High School.

Cotton Belt Clears Way for a Sale

Trustee Berryman Hanwood of the Cotton Belt Railroad obtained authority today from Federal Judge Charles B. Davis to ask the Arkansas Corporation Commission for permission to abandon the line of the Central Arkansas & Eastern Railway, a Cotton Belt subsidiary, for intra-state commerce. The commission recently granted permission to abandon the line as to interstate commerce, and the application today was a formality to clear the way to sell the property, it was said.

WILLIAM L. IGGE INDORSES DICKMANN FOR RE-ELECTION

William L. Igge, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, and leader of the opposition to Mayor Dickmann in the factional fight within the Democratic party which has now subsided, announced his intention to vote for Dickmann's re-election in a formal statement last night.

Igge said his personal relations with the Mayor had always been friendly, and their differences concerned matters of party organization and policy which "were generally discussed and disposed of in the primary last August."

Dickmann's administration, so far as the conduct of city affairs was concerned, Igge's statement added, had been efficient and economical, and merited endorsement of the people of St. Louis. New problems such as relief and related questions, had made the last four years difficult for city government, he said.

"I think Mayor Dickmann has met the new problems, as well as the old ones, boldly and vigorously and, on the whole, successfully," Igge concluded.

MISS ELLA MUELLER FUNERAL

Services for Teacher to Be Early Tomorrow Afternoon. The funeral of Miss Ella Romaine Mueller, a teacher in the public schools for 43 years, who died Tuesday at her home, 2839 St. Vincent avenue, will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Ziegenhain mortuary, 2623 Cherokee street. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery. She was 84 years old and had been on leave of absence during the last year. For two years she taught at Woerner School, and previously had been at Humboldt, Carroll, Pestalozzi, Hodgen and Clinton schools. A brother, August C. Mueller, of Bradenton, Fla., survives.

Steel Men Too Busy to Meet. NEW YORK, April 2.—The American Institute of Steel Construction announced today that "owing to the extreme pressure of business, combined with the emergency work which is being undertaken in Europe," the sixth international Congress for Steel Development, which was to have met here in June, had been canceled. The American Institute was to have been host.

To Address Normal Graduates. Special to the Post-Dispatch. CARBONDALE, Ill., April 2.—Federal District Judge Fred C. Wham, Centralia, of the Western Illinois District Court, has accepted the invitation of Southern Illinois Normal University here to deliver the address at the sixty-second annual commencement exercises of the college here June 4. Judge Wham is a former student at S. I. N. U., and is a brother of the present dean of the faculty, George D. Wham.

German Beer Popular in U. S. By the Associated Press. BERLIN, April 2.—American beer drinkers in 1936 drank ten times more German beer than in 1934. From a low export figure of 54,124 gallons in 1934, German exports rose to 597,069 gallons two years later. The 1936 figure was approximately double that for the preceding year. During the first two months of 1937, Germany shipped 175,500 gallons of beer to the United States.

U. S. Senator Hitchcock says: "Luckies please both my taste and my throat"

"For close to fifty years I have been a regular smoker, so I think I know what constitutes a good cigarette. Luckies please me on two scores. I like their fine flavor. But even more important is the fact that they are a light smoke, easy on my throat. At any rate, it's results that count, and a light smoke pleases both my taste and my throat."

Herbert E. Hitchcock
HON. HERBERT E. HITCHCOCK
U. S. SENATOR FROM SOUTH DAKOTA

THE FINEST TOBACCOS—
"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

In a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke. Senator Hitchcock's statement verifies the wisdom of this preference and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies, a light smoke. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on your throat.

BOY, 5, HIT IN EYE BY ARROW WHILE WATCHING INDIAN GAME

Robert Eckenrodt, 5887 Washington Ave., May Lose Sight Because of Accident.

Robert, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eckenrodt, 5887 Washington avenue, was struck in the right eye by an arrow yesterday afternoon as he stood watching a group of older children playing Indian behind his home. Dr. John Flury said the eyeball was injured and that the child might lose his sight in that eye.

The arrow was discharged accidentally by George Duckworth, 12 years old, 806 Hamilton avenue, as he was drawing the bow-string back, about 15 feet from Robert. The younger boy's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Fitzsimmons, watching the play from a window, had just called to the children to be careful and asked Robert to go in the house. The boy is in the kindergarten at Hamilton School.

Rich Missouri Floodway Area Back Under Plow, With People Living in Tents, Barns, Shacks

'Land Too Good to Leave,' Say Southeast Missourians; Tractors Displacing Mules; Federal Aid Given.

By JOSEPH HANLON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHARLESTON, Mo., April 2.—Floodwaters once more are turning over the rich black earth of Southeast Missouri's 120,000-acre floodway which was deliberately sacrificed during the Ohio River flood to lower the stage at Cairo, Ill., and save that city from inundation. Nearly all the 5000 persons who fled the district late in January, as the devastating flood engulfed their farm homes, have been lured back by the fertile soil.

Homes have been swept away with the water, and hardly a sharecropper plodding behind his patient mules but can look to the edge of his field and see trees festooned with cornstalks in their upper branches—a reminder of where the water was, and where, some day, it will be again.

But in tents and barns, and in battered shacks reclaimed from the flood, the farm families are making the best of the situation, for many of them, victims of previous floods, a familiar situation. "The land's too good to leave," they tell the visitor, who wonders why these people, after losing all their possessions in the winter's flood, returned despite the certainty that another flood, next June, or maybe 10 years from now, will wipe them out again.

cause many mules were drowned, and feed is scarce for those which remain. Bright with fresh paint, new tractors pass along the roads of the floodway daily, and a tractor dealer at Charleston told of being unable to meet the demand even though he had brought tractors from St. Louis, Jefferson City, and Highland, Ill., to supplement his own stock.

One sharecropper who finds himself without a place to farm now, because a tractor has taken his place, is Fred Wood, who had 21 acres last year on the farm of S. M. Yates in the upper part of the floodway.

New Looking for a Job.

Wood was Yates' "first man" last year, and besides tending to his own 21 acres, looked after the Yates farm in general. He has been sharecropping in the floodway for eight years, and now is looking for a job, or a place to work on shares.

"Yates bought a tractor four weeks ago," Wood told the writer gloomily. "He can do a good bit for himself now." All that Wood had—a sow, some chickens, some stored feed and his household effects—were washed away in the flood.

Tractors get along without the feed that was destroyed in the flood, they may be purchased on credit, and they do the work quickly now, when speed is at a premium because the flood delayed farm work.

"Yes, sir, there's been a world of tractors go by here lately," said Emmett Richardson, once a carpenter in St. Louis, but now a sharecropper on the Reeves farm near Deventer. He interrupted his work rebuilding a one-room frame house in which he, his wife and their child will live while he works his

30 acres, to tell the writer about it. "They've got three more over at the Marshall place, that makes five," Richardson said, "and over at Odey Reaves they have an extra one, that's two; and Johnson, he bought another one, that gives him two; and the Widow Rafferty, she's been running one, and she has three this year."

Despite the influx of tractors, it appeared that all were busily engaged in farm work, and Wood was the only one encountered by the correspondent in a trip through the floodway who was without work because of a tractor. Richardson was asked about that.

ROBINSON CONSENTS TO SENATE VOTE ON SIT-DOWN STRIKERS

failed, because of a ruling by the chair that it was not in order, then to vote against the amendment.

Remarks by Norris.
"This is a slap at sit-down strikers, disguise it as you may," Senator Norris, Nebraska Progressive, declared after he had reviewed the struggle of labor in the coal industry to outlaw the yellow-dog contract.

"Technically it may have nothing to do with Michigan, but it would never have arisen if it had not been for the situation existing in Michigan."

Norris said that miners had never, or rarely, engaged in sit-down strikes and that the amendment was a slap at workers, who had struggled more bitterly than those in any other industry for the right to organize.

Borah on Legal Rights.
In the course of his discussion of the sit-down strikes, Borah gave a very clear and forceful exposition of the way in which the legal rights of labor have been extended. He said:
"It was 126 years ago that a case was argued before the Supreme Court of the State of New York. There had been an indictment of three cordwinders because they agreed to quit work and because they agreed together to ask an increase of wages. They were indicted for conspiracy, tried in the court and convicted."
"We have traveled far since that time. It is now established in our law and in our courts that labor has a right to organize, to bring together men in this form of unions; that it is not only right to do so, but it is their duty to do so; that they have a right to quit work; that they have a right to demand an increase of wages; that they have a right to strike; that they have a right to picket. And in my opinion before we shall have established tranquility in the industrial world we will arrive at the point where we will determine that labor has the right to a job.

Byrnes' Amendment.
Byrnes' amendment would insert the following statement in the coal bill:
"It is declared to be the public policy of the United States that no employment has been terminated, or who for any reason has ceased to work for such producers, shall remain upon the property upon which he was employed after he has received written notice from such producer to leave such property. Property occupied as a dwelling would be excepted."

Rules Committee Votes for Sit-Down Inquiry.
The House rules committee voted today for an investigation of sit-down strikes. The action came after Chairman O'Connor (Dem.) New York, had conferred with President Roosevelt. O'Connor said that while he had mentioned the proposed inquiry, he did not go to the White House primarily to do so.

The House may have a chance to vote on the resolution next week.

Introduced by Representative Dies (Dem.) Texas, a leading critic of sit-downs, the House resolution would create a special committee of seven Congressmen to inquire into all phases of sit-down strikes and the industries they affect.

RICH FLOODWAY COUNTRY IS BACK UNDER THE FLOW

the correspondent stopped. She was a veteran of the floodway and got out ahead of the water in 1912, 1913 and 1916. In 1927 she stayed because "it was only six feet deep then."

Not at all discouraged, Mrs. Toombs said she was glad to leave the Red Cross shelter at Charleston and get back to work. "We didn't have any thought at all of getting out," she said. "The ground's too good to leave and I see nearly all my neighbors are back. There are some folks here, too, that weren't here before."

Over near Holloway, young Mrs. Everett Collins, standing in the midst of her five children, who gathered about her in front of their tent, said she would not have come back "if there was any place else to go."

Fences Gone From Fields.
Throughout the floodway, as the motorist drives along gravel roads, he may observe on both sides that fences are gone from many fields; a pump sticking up in a worn space just off the road will remain the only mark of where a habitation once stood; scattered through the fields there may be sacks of cottonseed, once worth $2 each; now not worth picking up, or great blocks of concrete which were carried away with the barns they supported.

Off against the low-lying timbered ridges, usually some distance from the road, the remains of wrecked houses, which may have floated for miles, are to be seen. Others which did not drift so far and were not so badly damaged, are being brought back to their proper places. A team of mules, four men, some smooth logs and an old winch, which may remain from the days when many stumps were pulled from fields now level and cleared, are all that is needed to pull back into position barns and houses which are intact and not too far from their original locations.

Repairing the Levee Breaks.
While this work is going on in the floodway, army engineers are hastening to repair breaks on the levees along the Mississippi for 55 miles from Bird's Point, opposite Cairo, to New Madrid. The work must be hurried, because the river probably will rise again in June, and water would again enter the floodway if the levees were left as they were.

Opposite one of these breaks, which is among the most accessible by road, the break at Wolf Island, automobiles pass on a gravel highway between banks of sand, scraped from the road, higher than the tops of the cotton. The motorist who stops out of his car may make his way into the fields on either side, and land for as far as his eyes can see will be covered with sand as soft and yielding and infertile as the sand of any ocean beach.

It lies over a soil as rich as any in Mississippi County which in some years has produced as much wheat per acre as any other county in the country, and as much cotton per acre as any other county, although the county is the northernmost in which cotton is a major crop, and the southernmost in which wheat is a major crop.

441,000 OUTLAY IN YEAR FOR EAST ST. LOUIS RELIEF

Received From State Commission and $38,000 From Township Tax.

Cost of relief in East St. Louis from State and local funds during the last year is placed at $441,747 in an annual report submitted by John J. Rogers, township relief administrator, to the Town Board of Auditors. Of this amount $331,400 was received from the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, allocated out of revenues from the State 2-cent sales tax, and $88,000 was raised by a special township relief tax of 30 cents on the $100 assessed valuation.

A total of $409,882 was spent for direct relief. Major expenditures were: For food, $299,618; fuel, $25,589; rentals, $18,123; clothing, $13,054. Salaries paid to relief workers totaled $20,610 and office expenses were $6,960.

An average of 2000 families, or about 6000 persons, was cared for each month during the year. The average family, consisting of three persons, received from $15 to $30 for food each month, a ton of coal, emergency medical aid and rent payments where eviction was threatened.

NO EFFORT MADE TO PUSH ST. LOUIS REGISTRATION BILL

Efforts to obtain a thorough investigation of the insurance scandal and his general opposition to questionable legislation, were also to get a favorable report on his bill from the committee March 16.

Smith kept right on the job, and his bill was perfected March 23 and was passed by the House last night.

Little Difference in Bills.

Virtually the only difference between the two bills is that the administration of registration is placed by the St. Louis bill in the Board of Election Commissioners, while in St. Joseph it is placed in the County Court, St. Joseph having no election board.

Aside from having the ostensible support of the 14 St. Louis Representatives who introduced it, the St. Louis bill is publicly supported by Mayor Dickmann, the League of Women Voters and many civic organizations. The Mayor only a few weeks ago addressed a letter to the city's Representatives urging immediate action on the bill.

Notwithstanding this, it has been known that the organization politicians generally were opposed to the measure, and there has been no active support for it since it was introduced.

Of the 18 members of the Elections Committee six are St. Louis members, four of them being co-authors of the bill. These six are Cleary, Hess, Schechter, Kennedy, William Warren Burke and Robert C. Taylor.

Question of Sincerity.

The success of Smith of St. Joseph in getting his bill out of this committee may be taken as assurance that if there had been any sincere activity on the part of the St. Louis members of the committee, or if there had been pressure from the other St. Louis members, the St. Louis bill long ago would have been out on the floor, perfected and passed.

It has had only one preliminary hearing. On March 8 representatives of Mayor Dickmann's Advisory Committee on Permanent Registration, representatives of the League of Women Voters and of the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, City Councilor Wayman and others were present. The committee heard them for not more than 30 minutes.

The bill was laid over two weeks, and at that meeting a committee of five members of the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and Miss Jeanne Rhythe, representing the League of Women Voters, were present, announcing that they were prepared to answer any questions the committee might desire to ask. Chairman Thomas J. Gill of Kansas City, a member of the Pendergast organization, told them the committee had no questions. Since then the bill has been laid over each meeting.

Mentioned on One Occasion.

On only one other occasion has the bill been mentioned at any public meeting of the committee. Last Monday at the conclusion of a hearing on a similar bill for Kansas City, which is meeting a like fate, Associate City Councilor Burkhardt urged that action be taken on it.

Without active support from the St. Louis Representatives there is no possibility of favorable committee action. Representatives from other parts of the State take the position that St. Louis has elected its members of the House, that presumably they represent St. Louis opinion and that if they do not want permanent registration for St. Louis it is of no concern to the remainder of the State.

BILL WOULD PUT ST. LOUIS COUNTY OFFICERS ON SALARY

Measure Introduced in Missouri House Would Be Effective After Present Terms Expire.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2.—A bill to place St. Louis County officers on salaries, instead of compensating them by fees collected, was introduced today by Senator McCormick. He said passage of the bill would result in annual savings of $40,000 to the county. If passed, it would not be effective until the present terms of the officers expire.

The salaries fixed in the bill are: County Clerk, $8000; Circuit Clerk, $5000; Assessor, $7500; Collector, $7500; Treasurer, $5000; Prosecuting Attorney, $8500; Sheriff, $7500; Coroner, $4000; Recorder, $4000; Superintendent of Schools, $6000.

The salaries of employees in the office would be fixed by the County Court under the provisions of the bill.

SILENT ON DISAPPEARANCE

Former Californian Won't Talk Till He Gets Home.

NEW YORK, April 2.—David H. Clark, former chief deputy district attorney of Los Angeles, said today he would not discuss his disappearance nearly three months ago until he returned to California.

Clark, who arrived from Europe yesterday on the American Export liner Excambion, said he had reached this decision after consulting his wife, the former Nancy Malone of New York. He and Mrs. Clark, he said, would leave for the West in two or three days.

11 Arrested in New York on Tax Charge by U. S. Agents.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The Government expected $800,000 in the theater ticket taxes last year and got only $100,000. Yesterday Federal Agent Hugh McQuillan announced 11 ticket-brokers had been arrested and warrants were out for 30 others.

Suspects are charged with failure to stamp their names and addresses on ticket stubs and to write in the prices at which they sold the tickets.

NEW LINER TO BE BIGGEST IN U. S. ATLANTIC SERVICE

This Country Not to Engage in Competition of European Nations.

NEW YORK, April 2.—United States Line executives said today a new American trans-Atlantic liner, for which bids were published in Washington yesterday, would be 8000 tons larger than any now representing this country in the service.

The Newport News Shipbuilding Co. was low bidder for the new vessel of more than 22,000 tons, as compared with the tonnage of 24,000 for the Manhattan and Washington, now the biggest American trans-Atlantic liners.

Line officers pointed out the United States was steering clear of the race in which Britain, France, Germany, and Italy were competing with ships ranging from 20,000 to 30,000 tons.

Construction of the new ship is part of the agreement under which the Government is permitting the line to withdraw the Leviathan, once queen of the seas, permanently from service.

Trustees for Insull Fund.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Circuit Judge Cornelius J. Harrington appointed two successor trustees yesterday for a $2,000,000 trust fund established June 14, 1932, by Samuel Insull, former utilities magnate, for the benefit of his creditors, whose claims aggregated $18,000,000.

The trustees chosen were William C. Freeman, vice-president of the Middle West Corporation and former vice-president of the National Bank of the Republic, and Peter B. Carey, former president of the Board of Trade and now chairman of the Illinois Racing Commission.

THE LARGE "CHARIOT" WAS UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT A PASADENA COACH WORKS, APPARENTLY FOR THE JOINT USE OF HUNT, ALIAS "ST. JOHN, THE REVEALATOR, AND FATHER DIVINE, THE HARLEM NEGRO KNOWN TO HIS FOLLOWERS AS "GOD."

Officers said they learned Hunt ordered construction of the automobile two months ago and had been at the coach works Saturday. Christian Bohman, co-proprietor of the works, said the 10-passenger car is being financed from New York.

Fine fittings are planned for the machine, supplied with a 285-horsepower engine of expensive make.

An elevated throne is in the center of the back seat, flanked on either side by star-shaped windows. A canopy of white plush, dotted with golden stars, has been designed.

A dais before the throne is wide enough for four secretaries, or "recording angels," as Hunt termed them. On the radiator he ordered placed an elaborate "dove of peace."

A push button, it was planned, would slide down the top of the tonneau, revealing the occupant of the throne "to the multitude."

Federal officers were informed.

THE ST. LOUIS BRANCH OF THE INTERNATIONAL GENEVA ASSOCIATION, organization of hotel and restaurant employees, will give its thirty-first annual charity ball Monday night at Hotel Jefferson. Proceeds will go to the home for the aged and sick maintained by the association in Littleton, Colo.

A hobby show sponsored by the boys' department of North Side Y. M. C. A. opened yesterday at the building, 3100 North Grand boulevard, and will close tomorrow night with an amateur show. Ribbons will be awarded winners in the various divisions of the show.

Ruth Riefling, history of art teacher at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., will speak on "Interior Decorating" at a meeting of the College Club of St. Louis tonight at 8 o'clock at 5428 Delmar boulevard. She is a former St. Louisan.

$25,000 'Throne' Car Found In Search for Cult Leader

Federal Agents Learn John Hunt, Wanted on Mann Act Charges, Ordered 10-Passenger Auto at Pasadena.

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—Federal officers ran across a $25,000 "throne car" yesterday in their search for John Hunt, 33-year-old West Coast leader of the Father Divine cult, on Mann act charges.

The large "chariot" was under construction at a Pasadena coach works, apparently for the joint use of Hunt, alias "St. John, the Revealator, and Father Divine, the Harlem Negro known to his followers as "God."

Officers said they learned Hunt ordered construction of the automobile two months ago and had been at the coach works Saturday. Christian Bohman, co-proprietor of the works, said the 10-passenger car is being financed from New York.

Fine fittings are planned for the machine, supplied with a 285-horsepower engine of expensive make.

THE ST. LOUIS BRANCH OF THE INTERNATIONAL GENEVA ASSOCIATION, organization of hotel and restaurant employees, will give its thirty-first annual charity ball Monday night at Hotel Jefferson. Proceeds will go to the home for the aged and sick maintained by the association in Littleton, Colo.

A hobby show sponsored by the boys' department of North Side Y. M. C. A. opened yesterday at the building, 3100 North Grand boulevard, and will close tomorrow night with an amateur show. Ribbons will be awarded winners in the various divisions of the show.

Ruth Riefling, history of art teacher at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., will speak on "Interior Decorating" at a meeting of the College Club of St. Louis tonight at 8 o'clock at 5428 Delmar boulevard. She is a former St. Louisan.

MAN KILLED IN EXPLOSION THAT WRECKS OIL TANKER

Another Injured at Gulf Oil Co. Dock at Norfolk, Va.; Fire Follows Blast.

By The Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., April 2.—One man was killed and another was injured early today by an explosion which wrecked the tanker Gulf Lass at the plant of the Gulf Oil Co. here.

Fire followed the explosion and the tanker burned until it settled on the river bottom, leaving only the superstructure above water.

The name of the dead man was not immediately learned. Gideon Sawyer was badly burned on the face,

TWO EAST SIDE BOMBINGS, TWO PLACES SELL ICE CREAM

Explosive of Black Powder Thrown in Stand; Stench Device Breaks Grocery Window.

A black powder bomb was thrown through a window of an ice cream stand in an old filling station at North street and Baugh avenue, West St. Louis, early today and exploded inside. Damage to the building and contents was estimated at $30.

The proprietor, Mrs. Hazel Ward, 182 Belmont avenue, in a statement, blamed business difficulties resulting from the brand of ice cream she purchased. There were no witnesses to the explosion. Other windows in the neighborhood were not damaged.

About five minutes later, the window of a grocery owned by John Niemann at 722 Ohio avenue, East St. Louis, was broken, a stench bomb was thrown in, and oil was thrown on a sign painted on the outside of the store. Damage was estimated to be $20.

Niemann said he sold ice cream which he made himself. He furnished police with the license number of an automobile which he said he saw drive past the store several times with seven men in it.

Tavern Proprietor Misses Money on Returning from Movie.

Mrs. Lula A. Miller reported to police last night that $340 disappeared from a coffee urn in which it was concealed in the kitchen of her home and tavern, 4149 Easton avenue, while she was at a motion picture theater.

Her father who was in charge of the tavern in her absence, said he was unable to account for the missing money.

Francis Reviews Moroccan Parade.

By the Associated Press.

SEVILLE, Spain, April 2.—Francisco Franco, the insurgent generalissimo, and his staff gathered today at Seville's Alcazar to review a parade of 400 burnoosed Moroccans who have just returned from Mecca. The pilgrims had asked permission to thank Franco for placing a ship at their disposal. Franco flew here from his Salamanca headquarters.

MARCH INCOME TAX TOTAL $700,272,831

69 Pct. More Than Last Year, But $140,000,000 Below Treasury Estimates.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Treasury's March income tax receipts totaled $700,272,831, an increase of 69 per cent over those of the corresponding month last year. It was about $140,000,000 short of informal estimates, however.

The Treasury statement for March 31 showed today that all receipts for the first nine months of this fiscal year aggregated $3,728,449,453, an increase of $628,469,615 over those of the comparative period a year ago.

Gross expenditures also climbed, reaching $5,520,982,140, or $183,871,791 more than in the corresponding period a year ago.

The higher total spending represented an increase in general Government outlays, which were offset, in part, by a reduction in emergency expenditures.

General expenditures for the period this year totaled $3,386,007,908, compared with $2,906,809,460 a year ago, the increase resulting from greater outlays under the Social Security Act, river and harbor programs, national defense activities and inclusion of emergency conservation work in the "regular" budget.

Spending for "recovery and relief" totaled $2,134,974,584 for the first nine months of this year, compared with $2,450,800,889 last year. The deficit for the respective periods was $1,792,532,687 and $2,237,130,510.

DETROIT HOTEL STAFF VOTES TO END STRIKE

Driven Out by Police When They Attempt Sit-Down at Book Cadillac.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., April 2.—Some 350 employees of the Book Cadillac Hotel, whose strike yesterday suspended service to hundreds of guests, voted this afternoon to return to work pending settlement of differences. Their action was taken on recommendation of Frank G. Marrel, president of the Detroit and Wayne County Federation of Labor, and other union leaders.

The sit-down feature of the strike lasted for two and one-half hours. The strikers, clustered in the casino dining room, had just voted unanimously to occupy the hotel until the management agreed to their demands when Police Superintendent Fred Frahm delivered an ultimatum.

"The order is that you cannot occupy other people's property," he said. "That is over. You can strike in the ordinary way, but you must get out. If you don't, there are 200 policemen outside who can come in and throw you out."

The strikers voted unanimously to leave and picket the hotel.

Several hundred policemen patrolled Detroit's four largest downtown hotels for the second time in three weeks while the dispute arose over delay in arbitration of the former labor dispute.

Police took a freight elevator to the top floor where employees had left the regular elevators, and began to operate them for the 800 guests in the hotel.

Many strikers gathered in the casino dining room from a meeting with officers of the Waiters and Waitresses' Association. All employees except office workers joined the demonstration, some leaving the building. The Statler Hotel later closed its dining room voluntarily.

Police Commissioner Heinrich A. Pickett ordered 400 policemen to guard the Book and three other hotels, the Statler, Fort Shelby and Detroit-Leland.

One strike "victim" was Gov. Frank Murphy, who was in another dining room when it started. With no prospect of service, he went away in an automobile. Murphy appointed the arbitration board after a truce March 17 in strikes at the Statler and Book-Cadillac. The arbitration board was continuing negotiations in the Statler toward a final settlement of issues which caused all four hotels to close March 16. Mayor Fred Cox, former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck, representing the hotels; and Edward Fiore, vice-president of the National Hotel Workers' Association, comprise the arbitration committee.

In the previous disputes, the union demanded wage adjustments and recognition as the executive bargaining agency for all employees.

The Book-Cadillac management announced last night that 300 guests had checked out but that 622 remained in addition to 125 permanent guests. Elevator operators left their cages at the twenty-fifth floor. Room and desk clerks guarded by policemen took over operation of the elevators. Pickets were established and remained until midnight.

Police detained Floyd Low, organizer for the Waiters' and Waitresses' Association.

4 SLUGGED IN UNION FIGHT AT CLEVELAND

Dispute Arises at Meeting of Group That Pulled Away From Federation.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., April 2.—Four men were slugged last night when they attempted to force their way into a closed meeting of the Independent Building Trades Union.

Louis Schwartz, president of the union, said the four were among 700 members of the union who dropped out of the Cleveland Federation of Labor when they were unable to pay their dues.

"Our members constantly are being intimidated on and off their jobs," Schwartz said. Police said no arrests would be made because the men "cannot or will not" identify their attackers.

At Cincinnati, union meat cutters threatened to strike at stores failing to comply with a shorter hour schedule. President Michael Schulz of the union said 95 per cent of Cincinnati stores had agreed but that one firm was disregarding prevailing wage and hour schedules.

Negotiations in the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. dispute at Akron, now in its fifth week with 11,500 employees idle, were recessed until this afternoon.

At East Liverpool, the Patterson Foundry & Machine Co. applied for a court injunction to prevent interference with executives at the strike-closed plant. One hundred and twenty-five members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, a CIO affiliate, went on strike March 26 for a closed shop, wage increases and a 40-hour week.

Work will be resumed Monday at the Springfield estate Casket Co., it was announced by President Charles M. Hiser, under an agreement which included a 10 per cent wage increase, and for employees of two years service or more, a week's vacation with pay. Three hundred employees began a sit-down strike yesterday.

COURT REJECTS PLEA OF BOY WHO WOULDN'T SALUTE FLAG

Massachusetts Tribunal Dismisses Appeal for Reinstatement in Public Schools.

BOSTON, April 2.—The Massachusetts Supreme Court dismissed yesterday the petition of Carlston B. Nichols Jr., who sought reinstatement in the Lynn public school from which he was expelled in 1935 for refusing to salute the American flag.

The case started on Sept. 30, 1935, when the boy, then 8 years old, remained in his seat while his classmates stood up for their daily flag ceremony.

His father said that saluting a flag conflicted with the family's religious principles. On further refusal to give the salute the boy was expelled.

In its opinion today, the Court said: "It is within the competency of the General Court (Legislature) to enact a statute requiring the flag salute and the pledge of allegiance. That is a ceremony clearly designed to inculcate patriotism and to instill a recognition of the blessings conferred by orderly government."

"The salute and pledge do not go beyond that which is due the Government."

LABOR ORGANIZER BEATEN

Peter Hansen Accosted on Street by Two Men.

Peter Hansen, 4110 1/2 North Florissant avenue, was beaten last night by two men who accosted him in the 4300 block of Obeare avenue. One of the men held an object against him and said, "This is a stickup," Hansen related, but they made no effort to rob him. Instead they began to strike him with their fists.

Hansen told police he was a labor organizer. He was treated at American Hospital for bruises and lacerations and returned home.

Minnesota Employees on 5-Day Week
ST. PAUL, Minn., April 2.—Approximately 1800 State employees went on a five-day work week yesterday under orders of Gov. Elmer Benson. This increased to 3600 the number of State workers on the short week. The Governor said he believed the State should set an example for private employers.

SEVERAL ALIEN NEWS WRITERS ORDERED TO LEAVE RUMANIA

Expulsion Demanded by Nationalists and Nazis Who Had Conducted Anti-Jewish Campaigns.
By the Associated Press.
BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 2.—Several non-Russian correspondents of American, German and other foreign newspapers have been ordered expelled from Rumania, it was disclosed last night, under a general accusation of sending dispatches injurious to the state. The expulsions were demanded by Nationalist and Nazi groups which have made campaigns against Jews and foreigners and have insisted their jobs be given to Rumanians. Among those receiving orders of expulsion were Julius Koeber, correspondent of the United Press; Dr. Eugen Kovacs, correspondent of the New York Times and three correspondents representing Austrian, Hungarian and German official news agencies. All but Kovacs asked for extensions of the time limit, which were granted. Kovacs made a court appeal in an effort to prove he was a naturalized Rumanian. The police served the expulsion orders at various times during the last few days and it is understood the extensions will begin to expire tomorrow.

Presiding San Francisco Jurist Steps Aside Because of Turmoil to Let Another Call New Jury.

DISCHARGED PANEL OVER AFFILIATIONS

Colleagues Give Judge Vote of Confidence After His Name Is Brought in Over Raid on His Hotel.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Presiding Superior Judge George J. Steiger, who summarily dismissed a grand jury investigating police graft charges, last night voluntarily withdrew from administration of jury affairs "so that the utmost confidence of the public will be maintained."
One of the ousted jurors, Joseph Gaddini, who said he acted as their spokesman, declared they had decided to fight their withdrawal. "The jurors want a clean bill of health," he said. "The judge himself, should be disqualified. His action is unjustified."
Judge Steiger's surprise action occurred a few hours after he discharged the grand jury on the ground some of its members had voted of confidence by 12 of the 15 other Superior Court judges after announcing his decision to withdraw. The jurors named Superior Judge James G. Conlan to impanel a new grand jury. Steiger will remain as presiding judge.
Three judges issued a statement declaring they had participated in no action other than "retention of the names remaining in the grand jury box." They did not explain their stand further.
Lays Turmoil to Those Caught.
"There has been so much turmoil created by political opponents and persons caught in the jam of this investigation that I decided to step aside and permit another jurist to handle the grand jury," said Judge Steiger.
While Steiger and District Attorney Matthew A. Brady moved to continue the inquiry with a "clean slate," the ousted jurors called a meeting.
The accusations and denials stirred up by the inquiry previously had involved Brady as well as a long list of police officials and Maurice Raphael, secretary to Mayor Angelo J. Rossi.
Steiger sought to dismiss the grand jury Wednesday night, but the jurors went on what he called a sit-down strike and refused to budge from their Chambers when he summoned them.
Steiger contended the jurors were "bewildered" and unable to command public confidence in view of "confusion" over the alleged reversal of their request that Brady be superseded in leadership of the inquiry.
Brady's name was drawn into the picture when Steiger questioned him about an asserted financial obligation to Peter McDonough, long established bond broker. Undercover investigator Edwin N. Atherton had formally described McDonough's firm as "a fountainhead of corruption" in the vice situation, which he said yielded $1,000,000 a year in payoffs to police and certain "insiders."
Jurors Under Scrutiny.
In his dismissal order Judge Steiger said several grand jurors were "under public scrutiny . . . because of business contacts, relationship and friendship toward certain people named in the Atherton report."
"One grand juror was removed because of transactions had, and active co-operation by him with people named in the Atherton report and now charged with felony."
"One or more members of the grand jury have failed to keep their oaths of secrecy."
Steiger's name was drawn into the inquiry when police disclosed they had raided a hotel property in which he had been interested, and had made an arrest. The judge said he asked police to investigate the place prior to the raid, and thanked them for the action.
Grand jurors subsequently said both Brady and Steiger had been vindicated.
Atherton meanwhile has been predicting his sensational report would be "whitewashed."
Ranch Hand Kills Girl and Self.
By the Associated Press.
GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., April 2.—Ferdinand Ruggers, 23-year-old ranch hand, crept into the home of his sweetheart, Dorothy Pretti, 16, killed her as she slept and then killed himself last night because her parents had refused to permit their marriage.

JUDGE JAMES G. CONLAN (right) ASSIGNED to take charge of the grand jury for its vice and graft investigations yesterday after JUDGE GEORGE STEIGER (left), who was in charge, clashed with the grand jury over its course of action. The change was made by the city's 16 Superior Court Judges in general term.

Three Killed at Crossing.
By the Associated Press.
RUSSELLVILLE, Ky., April 2.—Three persons were killed when the automobile in which they were riding collided with the Pan-American, Louisville & Nashville passenger train, at a crossing two miles north of Russellville, yesterday. One was injured seriously. The dead: Louis Williams, 26 years old, teacher in the Russellville schools; Betty Joe Cates, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cates; and Mary Frances Duncan, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Duncan.

29 Hurt in Chicago "L" Crash.
CHICAGO, April 2.—Nineteen passengers were cut and bruised, none seriously, last night in an elevated train crash at the Eighteenth street station south of the Loop. A northbound express crashed into a local train, also northbound.

STOCKS FALL COMMODITY PRICES HIGH

President Roosevelt Indicates Excessive Production of Durable Goods and Rising Prices Are Unjustified—Shares Down 1 to 5 Points.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Stocks suffered a wide open break of one to five or more points in today's market on the heels of sharp presidential criticism regarding soaring prices and production of durable goods.

Steel and copper led the downslide as Mr. Roosevelt, at his press conference, pointed especially to these industries as examples of what he indicated was unjustified price-holding.

For half an hour the ticker tape was held as much as four minutes. Speculative forces, caught off guard, dumped holdings promiscuously. The volume dwindled later, however, and extreme losses were reduced in many instances before the close. Transfers were around 170,000 shares.

While rubber, copper and cotton futures tumbled with stocks, corn at Chicago leaped to the best levels in the past 12 years with May contracts quoted at over $1.25 a bushel. Wheat was up 1/4 to 1/2 cent, corn was ahead 1/4 to 1/2 cent. The price of lead was lowered $1 a ton.

In addition to his warning signal on mounting prices in heavy industries, the chief executive apparently chilled some of the buying ardor by announcing the Government would attempt to shift recovery and relief expenditures for durable materials to consumers' products in order to spread the national income more evenly.

Depressing to the financial sector also was an early drop in U. S. Government securities, although these came back in the afternoon. Continued upsets in the automotive field and the walkout of 400,000 soft coal miners pending adjustment of wage and hour questions also tended to accentuate market uneasiness.

Rails found little comfort in official figures on last week's freight loadings disclosing a contra-seasonal increase to a new high total since Nov. 21, 1936.

At mid-afternoon sterling was unchanged at $4.80 and the French franc was up .004 of a cent at $4.60 cents.

Cotton was down 95 cents to $15 a bale.

News of the Day.

In addition to other influences, possibility of a Wagner Act decision by the Supreme Court next Monday, brokers said, kept many investors on the sidelines.

Advices to financial quarters of a reduction of 50 cents a ton in the price of heavy melting steel scrap at Pittsburgh put a bit of a damper on sentiment. This is the first decline in the recent upward movement of this commodity in which quotations reached the highest point in 12 years.

An aid to the oils was seen in estimates earnings of the principal companies in this line for the first quarter exceeded those of the same period last year by 35 to 50 per cent. Because of the boost in crude rates at the end of January, it was believed profits for February and March approached a record for these months.

Analytical explanations for the erratic tendencies of stocks lately varied. One commentator advanced the thought that the outlook for industrial profits was decidedly mixed. "Certainly profit margins in many leading industries will be curtailed," he said. "It is doubtful if volume gains in many cases will compensate fully for increased costs. And if, perchance, the volume proves disappointing in later months, a serious contraction in per share earnings is not far off."

In the commodity markets reaction to the statement was less marked. Copper futures fell off by more than a third of a cent in some instances. Cotton futures dipped by more than 10 cents to $14 a bale, and rubber futures slipped lower.

ROBERT MINOR TALKS ABOUT WAR IN SPAIN
Communist Leader, Back From Madrid, Addresses St. Louis Audience.

Robert Minor, Communist leader, recently returned from Madrid, spoke to an audience of 700 in Municipal Auditorium Hall No. 1 last night, describing scenes of aerial and ground warfare in Spain, and picturing a world-wide movement of Fascism against popular government and the working classes.

Minor, a former St. Louis cartoonist, gave in robust oratorical fashion his view of the preparations of Germany, Italy and Japan for the "second world war," and said the first outbreak had come in Spain merely because the leaders of Fascism had made better progress there than elsewhere with their plans.

"Suppose," he said, "that after our last election William Randolph Hearst, Father Coughlin and other leaders of the Fascist movement in the United States had started a revolt of army officers, to overthrow the results of the election, and that the du Ponts had financed it. That would be a parallel to what happened in Spain about a year ago, except that in Spain most of the financing came from Berlin. That was arranged on the late Gen. Jose Sanjurjo's air visit to Germany, before the revolt in Morocco started.

"Germany's objective in the Spanish War is to get a foothold on the Southern border of France, and to nullify Gibraltar and shut Great Britain out of the Mediterranean. Italy is planning, for a similar purpose, to take the Balearic Islands, and the only value of its Ethiopian conquest is a foothold from which it can keep Great Britain out of the Red Sea."

Minor went on to develop the German spy theory of the Mrs. Simpson case in England, and declared that the intrigues of Ambassador von Ribbentrop in London created a situation where the English had to "get rid of a King" in order to escape having a Queen who would be in the active service of Nazi Germany.

Minor charged that German reservists were receiving military training in the National Guard of New York and followed the trail of Fascist plotting to the retreat of Leon Trotsky in Mexico, and to scenes of intrigue against the Soviet Government in Russia itself.

Few Spaniards in Rebel Army. Telling of the large German and Italian forces, Minor said that the Spanish rebels, Minor said that, though near enough to the insurgent lines at two places to see the men, he had seen no Spaniards there.

"That doesn't mean that there are no Spaniards among the rebels," he said, "but they are in the minority. On the other hand, while there is an international Legion of anti-Fascist Italians, Germans, Frenchmen and Portuguese, which has been of great help to the Spanish Government, and while there is a Lincoln Brigade of Americans, the foreign element on the government side is but a drop in the bucket—95, if not 98 per cent, of the loyalist fighters are Spaniards."

He told dramatically how, at a time when the Government's fighting planes had been destroyed and Madrid was without protection against Italian aircraft, a fleet of queer-looking, short, stubby planes appeared over the city and shot down several Italian planes.

"Nobody knows where those strange planes came from," Minor said, "but the people on the streets believed they were Russians." He said that the same planes had contended successfully with the German air force. However, his speech began with a description of the bombing of Madrid civilians by German planes, which, he said, was being carried on every fair day at the time of his visit.

Italian Rout in Guadalajara. Minor undertook to explain the rout of Italian troops on the Guadalajara front, which has occurred since his return to this country, by telling of the Government's preparations as he had seen them on a visit to that front. "It was not a surprise victory for the Government, as some reports have had it," he said, "but was very carefully planned."

An essential part of the plan, he said, was the placing of the anti-Fascist Italian troops on the Guadalajara line, from which they might have directed radio broadcasts against the countrymen in the insurgent ranks. These broadcasts in the Italian language, Minor believed, did much to impair the morale of that particular part of the insurgent forces.

After the address, which lasted an hour and 40 minutes, a collection was taken by Joe Jones, artist, for the sending of technical helpers to the Madrid Government. A moving picture, "Sons of Spain," was shown. Layton Weston, Negro secretary of the Dining Car Employees' local union, presided.

Georgia Town for Court Proposal. By the Associated Press. BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 2.—President Roosevelt's court reorganization program was given approval of voters here yesterday along with a proposal for ratification of the Child Labor amendment. The referenda were held in connection with a special election for Judge of City Court. The vote on the court proposal was 749 for and 229 against; for ratification of the child labor law, 857 for and 147 against.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

I THINK everybody should keep some kind of a pet. Not only for the pleasure you get out of 'em, but there's somethin' about the influence of the little dumb animals that seems to soften the hardest heart and tends to make a person more considerate. I used to visit a friend's house pretty often, but I quit goin' there because it used to embarrass me to hear his wife holler at him every time he turned around. Finally the other night, I dropped in on him again—and everything was quiet and peaceful around the house. My curiosity got the best of me and I took him over to one side and I says, "How come your wife don't holler at you any more?" and he said, "Well, she finally found out it was makin' her little dog, Fifi, nervous."

PERSONAGES OF THE WEEK'S PICTURES

AS I SEE IT

By Damon Runyon

(Copyright, 1937.)
NEW YORK, April 1.
WILFRED J. FUNK, editor of the Literary Digest, has compiled a list of what he considers the 10 most overworked words of the day.

These words, and the persons he deems "their most flagrant abusers," are:

Okay—Children and shopgirls. Terrific—All persons "exposed" to Hollywood for 24 hours or more. Lousy—Ditto. Contact (both verbs and nouns)—Advertising workers. Gals—Broadwayites. Racket—Tradesmen. Definitely—Society. Swell—Interior decorators. Impact—Columnists and commentators. Honey—Stock brokers.

Mr. Funk puts himself away as something of a word sharp, we believe. He once gave out a list of what he considers the 10 most beautiful words. We have forgotten what they were. We remember, however, that at the time we thought Mr. Funk had over-stated the number of beautiful words by nine.

WE ARE INCLINED to agree with him that some of the words he mentioned are overworked, so are all words, for that matter. Often just as words commence thinking they are about to enjoy a hard-earned vacation, along comes a Mr. Funk to give them another shove around.

We fear that in this instance Mr. Funk made up his list of words rather hurriedly. Out of the 10, he got in about four that may be deemed truly overworked. Then he dropped in six others that he just does not like. Mr. Funk probably considers the use of any one of these words twice as overworking. We feel the same way about some words.

We suspect that Mr. Funk took an offhand guess at the "flagrant abusers" of some of his words. For instance, in many years of wandering along Broadway, we never have heard what you could call a Broadwayite use the word "gal," meaning girl, of course. Mr. Funk must be thinking of the mountain-eaters, who have hairy ears, or of the inmates of the cow camps of the boundless West. The Broadwayite may say "oil," "dame," "pancake," "tomato," and "bag," when he means girl, but never "gal." Mr. Funk, and never, by any chance, girl, Mr. Funk.

NOR DO WE RECALL columnists or commentators using the word "impact" to a degree that a jury would consider "flagrant abuse." We are a fairly ardent reader of columns, and so spare is our memory of columnar encounters with that word, we stand prepared to offer Mr. Wilfred Funk a reward of one throat lozenge for every time he can prove the use of "impact" in the writings of any columnist or commentator in the past year.

And we will give him the dramatic critics, and the sports columnists, too.

As a matter of fact, columnists and commentators abuse a word less than anyone else. The greatest word-maker in the world, in our opinion, is Mr. Walter Winchell, the Tyro Power of the newspaper columnists. No one is quicker to abandon a word that he may have created himself than this Mr. Winchell.

It is colder with him than a banker's heart. Still, he is not hot among the boys around the barbeque stands. By the time most persons have learned to use one of his new words with nonchalance, Mr. Winchell has a newer word. We will give Mr. Wilfred Funk four lozenges for every time he proves that Mr. Winchell has used "impact."

"Honey" may be overworked by a stock broker as Mr. Funk says. We would not know about that. Stock brokers do not associate with us. We presume Mr. Funk means they use the word as a superlative in describing a stock, or a deal.

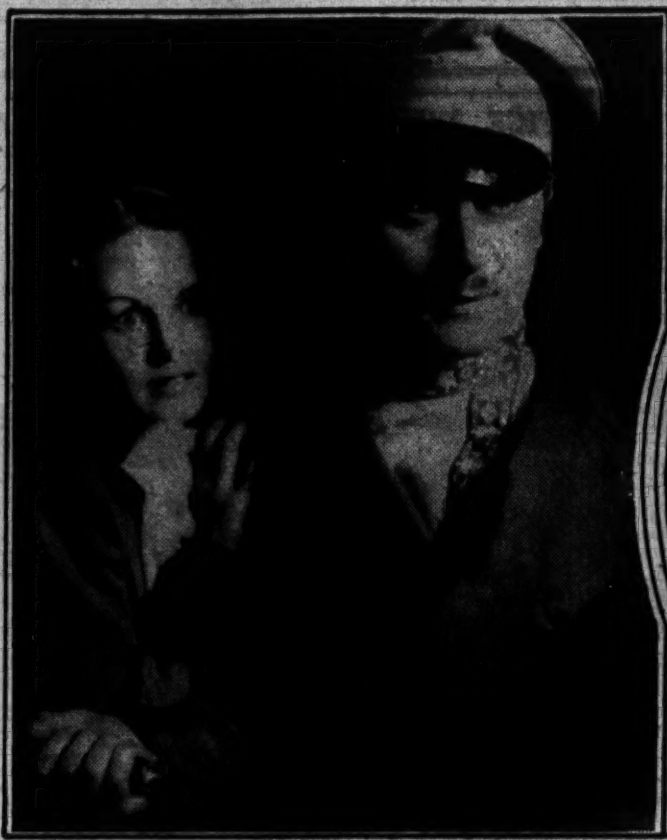

But we know Mr. Funk is wrong when he says tradesmen are the ones who overwork "racket." That distinction positively belongs to the newspaper headline writers.

WE DO NOT WISH to appear in the light of attempting to steal any of Mr. Funk's thunder, but we have compiled our own list of what are at once the most overworked, and the unloveliest words. We will not attempt to list the "flagrant abusers" of these words. The name is legion. Perhaps you have a legion in your own home. Here is our list:

1—Meal. (Big, Little). 2—Stinks. (Stinker, Stinkeroo). 3—Bum. (Big, Little). 4—Nuts. (Nort). 5—Scram. (Bker-Aou). 6—Rat. (Dirty). 7—Broad. (Big, Little). 8—Joint. (Jernt). 9—Sucker.

And for our No. 10, we suppose we will have to borrow the third word on Mr. Wilfred Funk's list, though we are wondering if this word does not deserve more consideration for its convenience and expressiveness. It is overworked, and unlovely, to be sure, but contemplating some of the didoes of the human race, we are often at a loss for a better word to describe them.

Eggs and Cheese in Ramekins
Place two strips of thin lean bacon in each ramekin to form a case for the egg. Drop in egg, dust with salt, pepper and buttered breadcrumbs. Sprinkle with grated sharp cheese and cook in the oven until the egg is set. Turn out on slices of hot buttered toast.

NEW YORK GOURMETS CONTINUE TO FEAST

By Alice Hughes

(Copyright, 1937.)
NEW YORK, April 1.
NEVER has New York been as grub-conscious as it is today! The joys of perfect tummy-stuffing are loudly hymned by wine experts in the local press, and the influence of all this intense and loving concentration on good food and drink is even spreading to our apartment house kitchens, where comolent colored girls from Harlem dose over the gas ranges.

The title of True Gourmet bids fair to outrank most of the titles in Burke's Peasage in Gotham, and several star-eyed societies spend their happiest hours worshipping almost blasphemously at the shrine of fodder and wine! The most exclusive and sanctimonious is the one called Les Amis de Escoffier, whose idol is the late great Escoffier, king of chefs. It is limited to 100 members, and no women are admitted to their sacred dinner-meetings.

The other big one is the Gourmet Society, of which I have already written here. Not quite so exclusive and (to me) idiotically pious, ladies can sit down at the groaning board, and even address the gobblers of this group. Each month they attack a different national brand of viands, and during March they squatted at Mr. George Lee's eatery on Chinatown's Pell street and forked away at Celestial dainties. The noted Pearl Buck, of "Good Earth" glory, made a speech. We started with Choy Tong, or Chinese vegetable soup, and then were faced with no less than five main courses, all of which Oriental etiquette demanded that we eat! I quit cold after Wor Teat Ha, or shrimp, ham and bacon, thus automatically becoming No. 1 Boor, and a thoroughly fine Gourmet.

I like good eating, but I also think all this mumbo-jumbo is both pretentious and very silly. And Ella, out in the kitchen, still burns the roast!

EVERY town has its Big Problem, and do you know what ours is? Not Crime Waves and such, but Gasoline Fumes from Busses! This fume business has always been horrible here, with our narrow mid-town streets jammed with snorting cars, but now that our rattling trolley cars have been replaced by motorbus lines, it's really a menace. Scientists are telling frantically at methods of controlling them, and seem to be perfecting one. You just take a ride on a bus here next summer, and learn how it feels to be asphyxiated without being relieved by a happy death!

Our younger girls got a good look at a dream man of yesterday when the veteran baritone, Reinald Werrenrath, sang handsomely at our Carnegie Hall a few evenings ago. He's been out of the picture lately, but remember what a rage he was soon after the war? My favorite record in those times was his warbling of "Duna!"

Few realize that John Beautiful-Nose Barrymore has a grownup daughter in the person of Diana, daughter of his second wife who likes to be known as Michael Strange. She lives near here on Murray Hill and is a tall rangy kid who likes horseback riding best of anything. Her ma calls her Diana Blythe the latter being the real family name of the Clan Barrymore.

Everything's all right now for the big Normandie came sailing into port the other day on her first trip after a winter reconditioning. I went down to the pier to say howdy to the big French girl. She brought in a very nifty load too—Lady Castlerose wife of the Irish peer who 'luminates in a London paper and had me to dinner at the Savoy there last September; George Cukor director of "Camille" and Germaine Aussey a tasty French item Hollywood bound.

DOLORES DEL RIO IN "DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND," ST. LOUIS.

Lace Much Used For Evening Wear

NEW YORK—Some of the smartest things in town are lace evening wraps launched in Paris and copied in New York for American women. They come in long capes with hoods to protect evening coiffures, hip-length capes and three-quarter length coats—most of them designed in sheer black weaves, which make a charming contrast to a colored evening frock.

Besides these there are scores of little jackets—boleros, box and peplum designs—intended for wear with a dark frock. Some are white, others made of rows of narrow black Valenciennes lace. They cost little and offer an inexpensive way to brighten last season's black dress.

Lacy evening gowns are as gay as a garden. They are designed of sheer Chantilly laces, nets and marquisettes in such colors as mimosa yellow, forget-me-not blue, tea rose, heliotrope mauve, carnation pink, mist gray, black and white, or of the new printed laces and nets having bright blooms on dark backgrounds. Their bodices are generally snug, their skirts as full as a Civil War belle's.

Lace goes to town in street clothes, too, this spring. There are a number of smart little suits linking a jacket to a skirt or frock and many simple street dresses made of black, navy blue, green or gray lace. These often are accented with white or a color. One of the smartest, created by a London designer, sets a navy blue lace suit over a slip of tile red taffeta, while another combines a long-sleeved green lace dress with a crepe foundation of the same shade. Most of these street clothes come in fairly heavy weaves of wool, cotton and linen.

COFFEE
- Sago Soup With Alligator Pears
Two pounds of lean beef.
Two carrots.
Two onions.
One stalk celery.
One clove garlic.
Salt and pepper.
Four quarts of water.
Cut the meat in pieces and brown in a skillet. Place in kettle and cover with the four quarts of cold water. Bring to a boil and let cook slowly for about 35 minutes. Skim off any grease and add vegetables and seasonings to taste. Turn down the heat, cover and let simmer from three to four hours. Cool and strain. Return to the fire, add more seasoning if necessary and one-half cup of sago which has been previously soaked in a little cold water and let cook slowly for an hour longer. Peel and halve desired number of alligator pears, allowing one-half pear for each serving. Marinate in French dressing. These are then passed and each person places a pear in the bowl of soup.
- Chicken With Pineapple Sauce
Two young frying chickens.
Two tablespoons of lard.
One onion, chopped fine.
Two ripe, peeled and mashed tomatoes.
Two tablespoons of small seedless raisins.
One ripe pineapple ground or chopped finely.
Salt, pepper and a little sugar.
Cut the chicken in pieces and rub with salt and pepper. Melt the lard and fry the chicken in a covered pan, removing the lid at intervals to stir so pieces will brown evenly. As the chicken begins to color add the tomatoes and onions and continue cooking until nearly done, then add the pineapple, raisins and a little sugar to taste.
- Cauliflower Croquettes
One medium-size cauliflower.
Three beaten eggs.
One cup of grated Parmesan cheese.
One onion.
- One clove of garlic.
One-fourth green sweet pepper.
Salt and pepper.
Grind the onion, garlic and pepper very fine and then mix with the eggs and cheese and season with salt and pepper. Add the cauliflower which has been previously boiled, drained well and broken into bits. Shape into flat croquettes and drop on a hot greased skillet and fry to a delicate brown.
- Saffron Rice
Wash thoroughly one cup of rice, drain and add to three pints of rapidly boiling, salted water with one-half teaspoon of saffron, for 20 minutes. Drain in colander and let run under hot water faucet. Drain and place in a slightly warm oven to puff and dry. While drying fry a finely minced onion in butter until soft and stir throughout the rice with one-half cup of cooked peas and one-half cup of finely cut up cooked carrots.
- Mexican Orange Candy
One-half cup sugar.
One and one-half cups milk.
Two cups of sugar.
Salt.
Grated rind of two oranges.
One-half cup butter.
One cup of nut meats.
Melt one-half cup of sugar in an iron skillet while the milk is heating in the double boiler. When the sugar is melted and a rich yellow color add to the hot milk and stir. Add two cups of sugar to the mixture, stirring until dissolved and let cook until it forms an almost hard ball when dropped into cold water. Add the grated orange rind, salt, butter and nuts and beat until creamy.
- Mexican Coffee Extract
Make your coffee three or four times as strong as the usual coffee and place in a bottle. When needed pour a little in bottom of cups and fill with boiling milk or water as desired.

FIRST of three days with pressure on matters of occupation and relations with superiors; not the type of vibration when permanent solutions are found. Today: fairly good for contemplating new problems; but hold final say-so.

Why Suffer?
If we were living properly, we would each do the thing we like best in the way of service to our brothers, everyone employed for about three hours a day. We would be making roads, parks, beauty spots—not munitions. The balance of our time would be used in receiving nourishment and giving use to our intellectual and psychic faculties—developing along lines of happiness.

Problems of Invitations In Social Life

A Modern Method of Sending Requests—Correct Form for Acceptances.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:
WHAT do you consider the most time-saving and yet socially correct way for a man to give invitations today? My parties are in no sense called formal, though I do invite many people at one time. Heretofore I have had my invitations telephoned, but contrary to what most people think about this method, I have found it a sure way of getting quick answers.

Answer: For quick response many of the New York hostesses and more especially hosts, are sending their invitations by telegraph simply giving a list of names and the message itself to the telegraph operator.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I received a printed invitation worded to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. John Blank will be at home to 6 o'clock. How should this invitation be answered, and when is one supposed to go and how long would we be expected to stay?

Answer: This invitation simply means that the Blanks will be at home on those Sundays between the hours mentioned and that you are invited to come in on any one or all of them. Such an invitation requires no answer. You would go any time after 4 o'clock and either stay only the convention of 15 minutes or as long as you are having a good time. People are all expected to leave of course by 6 o'clock.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just received an invitation engraved in the third person, which was addressed to me alone but which invited me and the members of my family to an afternoon reception at a club. Our family is large and there are only two others besides myself who care to go. How is it worded my acceptance since the invitation includes R. a. v. p.

Answer: Write on note paper which is marked either with your monogram or house address:

Mrs. John Jones
accepts with pleasure for herself and two other members of her family

the kind invitation of the X Club at half after four in the afternoon.

Or, if you prefer, you can of course say Mrs. John Jones, Miss Mary Jones and Mr. William Jones accept with pleasure, etc., as you would do were the invitations sent you by an individual hostess. But since all the organization cards know is how many are coming, the shorter form would be simpler.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr: I cannot help but write to you again. Sometimes I feel dizzy trying to decide what to do for a girl 17. This girl's mother died several years ago and, until that time, the girl had never been away from home, or done anything for herself. I befriended the girl and tried to tell her to dress and act—with little success, though she joined my church, got into a nice group of young people.

But Mrs. Carr, she lies and steals (to put it plainly) and she comes to my home and stays hours at a time. She just sits and gossips, and reads my little girl's fairy books. She colors the pictures of every book she gets her hands on. The family she has left is irresponsible.

Mrs. Carr, I think the girl's mind is that of a child 5 or 6 years old. Sometimes I could go completely mad when I see her coming. Please tell me what to do? MRS. W. L.

Sometimes when the girl comes over, take her to a physician or a clinic and have her examined. Doubtless her family would refuse to agree to this, but you need not speak of it to them or to her. Even if you have to pay a fee of some kind, it would pay you to feel that you would be rid of the responsibility and worry; and, more especially, to have done the girl a kindness in having her case investigated, and perhaps being instrumental in having her put where she would be safe.

Dear Mrs. Carr: WILL you please print in your column which is the right color for a baby girl—blue or pink. MRS. M.

The custom about this has changed in the last year or two; the colors used now are pink for the girl and blue for the boy.

Dear Mrs. Carr: YOU seem to be able to help people out of all kinds of difficulties. I live in a flat and would like to know who is supposed to take care of yards and porches. I would be glad to help if the children downstairs would not throw much on the porch, dig holes in the front and back yards so that the place is not presentable.

Should we divide the yard and take care of our own? The trouble is that the parents do not seem to be able to make these children mind. DISCOURAGED.

Ask the owner of the property to try and work out some system by which you could take turns about the care of the place, or divide the yard in such a way that these children could not encroach and destroy and mess up the place. It would seem to be the owner's place, if he has pride, to secure renters who might have consideration for other tenants.

Dear Mrs. Carr: MY wife and I are separated. But the company went into the hands of a receiver. However, the company decided to refund the money to holders of policies, and I hope my wife will, through your column, get in touch with me. W. B. W.

Dear Mrs. Carr: MY wife and I have been married 18 years and I am almost 40 years of age. We have a home, a car and most everything a common people can hope for; and they are all paid for through hard labor both of my wife and myself.

Now there is a lady staying in our home paying board, which also is a help to us. She is the type who meets everybody with a smile and looks straight at them when she speaks to them. My wife has become very jealous of her, thinking she is trying to flirt with me; and she brings this question up so often that it torments me and I feel like taking the shortest way out; as I cannot understand why she would accuse me after all these years. Of course, I talk to this lady, as I cannot turn a cold shoulder; it is just my way. As she and my family have been so very nice to us in the past, I would hate to see this misunderstanding come up.

WHO'S WHO.

If you cannot reassure your wife by your manner and an agreeable, but watchful, courtesy to this friend, the best course would be to let the lady find another place to live. Keeping her there in the circumstances, even if it does help financially, is not worth the apprehension on your part and the

An Inquirer Is Disgruntled With Analysis

Woman Player's Bidding Was All Right, but Her Play Lost Contract.

By Ely Culbertson.

(Copyright, 1937.)

THE hands presented in this column are acquired in many ways, some of them rather strangely. Today's hand is the result of a telephone call. A woman wanted to know how a certain hand should be bid, and her late voice was testimony to the fact that she had floundered to the phone from a hectic argument. (Since she couldn't even wait to write, the fur must have been flying.)

Apparently the bidding I suggested did not meet with her entire approval. "Well," she said, "you've put me in the same contract I was in, and I went down one." She had given me only the North-South hands, and now I asked her for the complete deal. This was it:

South dealer.		Both sides vulnerable.
♠ 7	♠ K3	♠ 96	♠ A Q 4
♥ K3	♥ K J 7 5	♥ J 9 8 6	♥ Q 7 2
♦ K J 10 8 6 4	♦ A 5	♦ 10 8 4	♦ Q 9 8 2
♣ A Q 7 2	♣ K J 10 8 5 3 2	♣ 10 8 4	♣ 9 8 3
	♣ A 5
	♣ None

The bidding suggested had been:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	3NT	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

I made a quick analysis of the hand and said: "It looks like a pretty good contract to me. How did you happen to go down? What was the opening lead?" She answered that a trump had been opened, that East had won with the ace and returned a club. Very gently I asked what the declarer had played on the club return and was told somewhat tartly that, of course, she had ruffed.

I wanted to point out that it is in pinochle, not in bridge, that a player must trump a trick to which he cannot follow, but something in the woman's voice suggested that this point would go unappreciated. Therefore I merely murmured that if declarer had discarded a heart on the club return, thus establishing dummy's club king for the later discard of a second losing heart, the contract would be cold. Silence on the other end of the wire for a moment and then a low (but not a meek) voice said: "Well, I guess it was played wrong. Thank you very much."

HER abruptness left me in no doubt that she still thought the contract was too high, even though she possibly had made a teeny-weeny error in the play. I had not been given the opportunity to point out that, after the opening trump lead and club return, it was a great deal harder to lose the contract than to fulfill it. Of course, a discard on the club return is the easiest plan, but even if declarer ruffs, 10 tricks still are there for the taking. After ruffing, the spade queen is driven out. Now if East returns another club and declarer, instead of properly discarding a heart, ruffs again and leads two more rounds of trumps, West is hopelessly embarrassed for discards. With declarer down to one trump, four hearts, and two diamonds, West must hold on to four hearts (otherwise declarer merely will concede one heart trick and establish his own heart trick) and cannot discard his ace of clubs else declarer will enter dummy with a red king and ruff another club, dropping West's ace. West's cards, therefore, must be four hearts, one diamond, and the ace-queen of clubs. The ace and another diamond now squeeze West thoroughly. He must let go either a heart or a club.

I have no doubt but there still are other methods of making a hand, but since the woman was interested in nothing except the bidding, why should I rack my brains?

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: The contract was three no trump. No suit had been bid by partner. What was the correct opening lead from ♠ Q 8 6 ♥ 9 5 ♦ A 8 5 2 ♣ Q 7 6 3?

Answer: The nine of hearts.

unhappy feeling of your wife. There is really no need for an open break. You and your wife might find a number of very good reasons for wanting to live to yourselves. Even if you are obliged to take a smaller place (for a while) and rent yours out "to retrench" or to live in a different neighborhood, so that your wife may have lighter work; this would serve as reason to part with the lady in a friendly manner, giving her a cordial invitation to come and see you and making a special effort to remain in a kindly mood toward her family.

I believe if you weigh the matter impartially, while you regret your wife's attitude, you will realize that no outside element is worth the breaking up of your family.

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.

I can't often that a stage actress who is not a star and who is no longer quite young enough to play juvenile roles—must be content, as a matter of fact, with more or less "character" parts—can jump into the movies and score a genuine hit, not only with the studio executive but with the fans the world over. But Cora Witherspoon did it. Coming out here practically unheralded and unused—for Hollywood knows little and cares less about dramatic reputations—Miss Witherspoon has jumped, in the short space of less than a year, to be in greater demand by directors than any other player in the films. MGM, her home studio, where she is under contract keeps her pretty busy but, at odd moments, she is loaned to other picture factories and, as a result, she is kept working before the cameras, day and night practically all of the time.

Don't get the impression from what we have said that Cora Witherspoon is an "old" woman. She is still on the sunny side of 45 and looks a whole lot younger. And she is versatile, too, being equally at plained in her biographical notes.

"But," he all dog. Anybody with the money can get a pedigree. I just wanted dog."

Lucky is still with her in Hollywood. In dog language he boasts the friendship of George M. Cohan, George Cukor, who was instrumental in winning Miss Witherspoon from the stage, and a great many other notables of the American screen and theater. He knew Henry Miller and Charles Froham, John Emerson and William Hurlbut, Ruth Chatterton, Ina Claire, Laura Hope Crews, June Walker, and many, many more.

CORA WITHERSPOON was born in New Orleans on a certain Jan. 5. Her father was H. E. Witherspoon, a well-known lawyer, and her mother, Cora Slocum Bell, was one of the social leaders of the picturesque Louisiana city. The child was educated by private tutors at home and went to finishing school in Paris when she was 14. That soon she determined on a stage career.

To this day, her most treasured memory is a mental canvas of the old French Market in New Orleans on Sunday morning. "The aroma of coffee and spices always takes me back to Royal street and Jackson Square. It was a scene from the Old World, old crumbling houses with iron grilles galleries and shaded Spanish courts. Everything was old, and yet, every Sunday morning it was new again."

In Paris the young school girl studied diligently, but always with her heart on the stage. When she was 18 and back in New York, she met David Belasco and he was impressed. She was willowy and blonde and music of the South lingered caressingly in her voice. Belasco gave her a role in "The Concert," with Leo Dietrichstein. That was in 1910. She also appeared with Dietrichstein the following year in "The Great Lover" and after that in "The King."

There was never any question after that as to the ability of the girl from New Orleans. One after another, the Broadway producers sought her and the playwrights wrote her into their scripts. She did not star, but she was invariably cast in an acceptable role to lead, year after year.

Her record includes: "Daddy Long-legs," with Ruth Chatterton, produced by Henry Miller; "Lilies of the Field," with Mary Dow, a William Hurlbut play; "The Awful Truth," with Ina Claire, produced by Charles Froham; "Grounds for Divorce," again with Ina Claire, with Gilbert Miller producing; "Fall of Eve," with Ruth Gordon, the Anita Loos play staged by her husband, John Emerson; "Olympia," with Laura Hope Crews, produced by Gilbert Miller; "Waterloo Bridge," in which she was featured with June Walker, with Charles Dillingham as producer; "Phillip Goes South," with George Kelly, a Roland Stebbins piece; "Say home playing a smart society woman, as she did so splendidly in "Piccadilly Jim" and, more lately, "Personal Property," for example, or doing a slavery role, equally well, in "Quality Street."

When," the Harry Richman musical comedy produced by Jack McGowan; "Touch of Brimstone," with Roland Young, produced by John Goldwyn; "Three Faces East," the George M. Cohan success, and "The Constant Wife," with Ethel Barrymore. There were many others.

She can be an English dowager or a young English matron of Mayfair with the same ease that she plays a Frenchwoman, a Spaniard or an American. Give her the part and she'll play it to everyone's satisfaction.

Our first recollection of her goes back to the days in New York when she was in the Henry Miller-Ruth Chatterton company playing "Daddy Long-Legs." The piece established Miss Chatterton as a star. It also established Cora Witherspoon. Made her in demand with New York managers and she hasn't been idle since.

Although she has been on the stage since she was 18, when she made her debut with Leo Dietrichstein in "The Concert," Miss Witherspoon has played in but few pictures, a fact which is rapidly being altered. "Her first was in a minor role in 'Peachtree' with Wheeler and Woolsey. She was loaned to RKO to appear in 'Quality Street' with Katharine Hepburn and Franchot Tone and to Twentieth Century-Fox for 'On the Avenue,' then she returned to M-G-M for 'Daddy Long-Legs' and 'Personal Property.'

That early association with David Belasco and Dietrichstein in "The Concert," was the first of a series that brought the New Orleans girl into prominence on the stage. When a player signs a contract in the studios, it is the custom to record the biographical facts of their lives on a printed form. The whole picture of their characters is thus accumulated in a composite of vignettes, sought hurriedly in the process of an interview.

The anecdote of Miss Witherspoon's dog casts light on the character of the actress herself.

ON New York's lower West Side, where tenement children threaten truck drivers and fruit peddlers, there is the Bide-a-Wee Home for Dogs and Cats. Stray animals that have lost their owners go there to lose their pedigrees, if they have them, and to get a new lease on life if they are lucky.

Animal lovers go to the Bide-a-Wee, where for a $2 fee and assurance of a good home, they may take away their choice of the strays. Animals that remain too long are manfully destroyed.

Miss Witherspoon, then, prominent on the stage, went to the red brick structure on Houston street and came away with a dog which she instantly named Lucky.

"He's a cross between Shetland pony and a doormat," she ex-

CORA WITHERSPOON, AT LEFT, WITH LUCKY, WHO HAS NO PEDIGREE.

CORA WITHERSPOON IN A FILM WITH ROBERT TAYLOR.

Aside from a very genuine devotion to the art of acting, Miss Witherspoon takes a practical working interest in designing. She created the costumes for Ruth Chatterton in James M. Barrie's "Mary Rose," and for a period designed all costumes for Henry Miller productions. She usually designs her own clothes.

Miss Witherspoon is cosmopolitan almost to the point of crispness. Her travel abroad and her experiences in the theater have effectively removed any traces of the languid Louisiana personality that was her in girlhood. Even so, she is deliberate, unburied, and a creature of charming poise.

"I like simple, direct people who think clearly and are unaffected," she said. "I've been accused of affection myself, but not by anyone who knew me. What appears to be an affectation may be natural. Only the people who think clearly are capable of the insight that reveals the difference."

She has one fear. "It seems to me that of all fates, none is quite so bad as to be dependent on others in old age. I'm deathly afraid of insecurity."

Miss Witherspoon clings to her heritage in her tastes for food and her love of flowers. Her choice of all meats is New Orleans fried chicken and she has a weakness for watermelon and fried bananas. Her favorite flower is the yellow rose, but honeysuckle is her favorite scent. The vines climbed up beside her windows down home in New Orleans.

"They talk about players becoming typed in pictures, but they're often typed on the stage," she told us the other day. "Since I've come to pictures I played a society dowager in 'Piccadilly Jim,' a cook in 'Quality Street,' a smart woman in 'Liberal Lady,' and a trapeze performer in 'On the Avenue.'"

"On the stage players are generally classified as leads, subleads, juveniles, second men and women, and so on. When aptitude is shown in a certain characterization, it is difficult to get into any other. While on the stage, I always supposed that this existed to an even greater degree on the screen; but since coming to Hollywood I find that players really have a greater diversity of roles."

"Out here I've found almost all the former stock and vaudeville people I knew working in pictures, or following some allied calling here. For instance, I played for months in a stock company in the Shubert Theater in Milwaukee. The leading woman was Pauline Lord, the leading man Lowell Sherman, then 24 years old, the ingenue was Ruth Chatterton, I was second woman and Lenore Ulric was a super, which is the stage name for players termed extras in pictures."

Cora Witherspoon, starting fairly late, is going far in the films. She's gone pretty far already in less than a year.

The Confusing Theories About Balanced Diets

A Surgeon Admits He Is Mixed Up by Doctrines and Discoveries.

By Dr. M. G. Seelig

IT is good and cleansing and wholesome for the immortal soul of the columnist to admit, occasionally, his own lack of understanding in the very field in which he is disseminating information pro bono publico. I am, therefore, going to make a clean breast of it and say that for several months I have been in a state of mental confusion regarding the subject of the so-called balanced diet. It would seem, at first thought, that the subject of diet does not touch the surgeon very closely; but as a matter of fact anything that concerns the general health of the human family is of major importance to surgery. Surgery is not concerned chiefly with the art of operating, but rather with the science of keeping people well or restoring them to health on the quickest time schedule. If any other factor is more important in preserving general health, than is proper feeding, I do not know what it is.

But, to get back to the subject of a balanced diet, up to a few years ago, it was common knowledge that there were four basic elements that entered into the problem of nutrition. These were, the fats, the carbohydrates (the starches and sugars), the proteins (meats or similar substances in vegetables), and salts (such as compounds of iron, phosphorus, sodium, etc.). If one consumed enough of these four elements in proper proportions, he was supposed to be living on a balanced diet. If, on the other hand, he was not taking enough, he suffered the results of a so-called deficiency. Such was the prevailing theory up to about 15 years ago. Then, inquiring minds began to dig deeper into the diet problem, with the result that the discovery was made that something else was necessary to health and life in addition to the fats, carbohydrates, proteins and salts. This something else was necessary in only the minute quantity, but it was proved to be absolutely necessary, not only for health, but even for life. Intricate experimental studies showed that this new something was in all probability a chemical being in the group of amino acids; and since it was a vital element in life, it was named vitamin.

Thus the matter stood, as far as I was concerned, up to the middle of last winter. I was happily content if my patients were stoking their boilers with a proper fuel mixture of all the elements that we now know to constitute a scientifically balanced diet. Freely, I swung my shillash, cracking down particularly on the heads of the too exclusive gourmandizing of meats. Then, to my confusion, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, contributed two essays to the Atlantic Monthly, to show that up in the north country an exclusive fresh meat and fish diet is adequate and strikingly healthful. More than that, he detailed the results of experiments, performed on himself, under skilled supervision, in a New York City hospital laboratory, that seemed to prove that meat alone is adequate to maintain an individual in an ideal state of health, provided the meat contained enough fat.

I am not trained in the field of nutrition or dietetics; I cannot practice scientific critique on Stefansson's doctrines; but I am frankly mixed up, and I am passing my own confusion on to my readers, merely to add a small sample to the present day gaiety of the nation.

THE spirit of adventure and the keen-set for all of life's beauties, are dependent on health. Take yourself in hand! Get fit! As your sluggish liver improves your glow will fly out of the window.

And try this exercise today: Here comes a breathing exercise that will make the world look just right and relieve you of nervous strain. Stand erect with the hands on the hips. Relax the spine completely, letting the head, elbows and shoulders drop forward. Inhale deeply as you raise the head and trunk. Lift the chest high, pulling the elbows back toward the body. Exhale as you relax and drop forward. Inhale as you straighten up. Continue.

Flag Suit PARIS—Flags wig-wag their signals to a new cornflower blue wool suit designed by Schiaparelli. Its silk blouse is printed with the flags of all nations. The sailor hat worn with it has a trio of flags stuck through a blue ribbon band. Spread marshmallows over the top of creamed ples in the place of meringues. Put the marshmallows two-thirds of an inch apart on the top of the pie filling and bake for 10 minutes in a moderately slow oven. They will puff up, become a delicate brown color and form a delicious topping that is especially appealing to children.

HELPS AVOID MANY COLDS Especially designed aid for nose and upper throat, where most colds start. Used in time, helps prevent many colds.

Feathered Frock PARIS—Feathery touches highlight an afternoon frock of black chiffon. A large gold feather fastens to the belt which is reflected in the gold feather motif done in an all-over pattern of open-work embroidery.

Bolled potatoes are often watery because they are allowed to stand in water after they are cooked. As soon as they are tender when tested with a fork, drain and shake them for a minute over a low fire.

MAKE-BELIEVE LOVE

A Serial About Values

By EVELYN SHULER

Roger Discovers Inez' Duplicity, but Is Cheered by Patsy and Her Father—
He Arranges to Circumvent the Plot.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN.

IT WAS on one of the loveliest days of Spring that the doctors and nurses who had fought for Roger Stafford's life saw thankfully that he had passed the danger point. His sturdy constitution and clean, athletic life could be relied upon now to hasten his convalescence. But they continued to keep Roger secluded from visitors. Inez, maintaining her daily vigil, encountered cool hostility when she made her repeated pleas to see him.

The day nurse had particular cause to dislike Inez, and on a morning when she saw that her patient was in good spirits, she took occasion to warn him.

"You'll be allowed a few visitors now, Mr. Stafford," the nurse began. "Miss Valdes probably will be one of the first. She's here day and night, you know. She's awfully anxious to talk to you."

She saw him shut his eyes as if to blot out an unwelcome vision. "I suppose I must see Miss Valdes," Roger said without enthusiasm. "She's been kind sending all these flowers."

"She'll probably bring that paper with her again that you were too sick to sign," the nurse suggested. "What paper?" Roger roused himself.

"I haven't mentioned this before, Mr. Stafford. The nurse avoided looking at him directly. "One night when you were still quite sick, Miss Valdes came in here, after telling me she was going home. I found her with a paper of some sort and a fountain pen, trying to get your signature. You were too foggy to know what it was all about, and I ordered her out. Miss Valdes will complain probably, but I want you to know the circumstances."

"If she's here now I'll see her," Roger decided, and added, "You won't mention the paper to her, of course. But do this for me, nurse. Tell her I'm still in a daze—still irritable—and then send her in."

As Inez entered, Roger, watching through half-closed eyes, was astonished at her ravaged face. Even the most artful make-up could no longer hide tell-tale lines that wrote their own message of age. She paused, hesitant, but he did not speak. Drawing a chair to the bedside, she took his hand in hers.

"Roger dear, these hateful hospital people have done everything to keep us apart. My place is here at your side looking after you, and here I stayed."

Roger mumbled and Inez bent to catch his words. So far as she could make out, he was still reliving the moment of the accident. "It must be delicious again," Inez thought, wondering if the situation could be shaped to her own purpose. She sat watching him intently. Then she reached in her handbag for the note and fountain pen.

"Don't you know me, Roger? It's Inez," she said looking at him closely. "Look out for that polo mallet—lights out!" Roger pulled himself higher on his pillow. "Whoa!" he called loudly. Inez glanced apprehensively toward the door, fearing

WHEN spring rolls 'round, charming afternoon frocks put on their gayest airs and most colorful accents. This clever Anne Adams frock, Pattern 4356, plus the prettiest cotton or silk fabric you can find, will prove just right for dawn-to-dusk hours! Just give yourself airs in this effective style, for what could be newer (or smarter) than its well-fitting princess lines, brief little sleeves, and jaunty revers? For a bright splash of color, twist a printed sash 'round your waist and tie it into a dashing bow. You can have a plain belt, too, if you prefer—one that will match or contrast with your frock. Such fun to make, is this simple style, that you'll be turning out several versions in your favorite colors.

Pattern 4356 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes four yards of 36 inch fabric and one-half yard of contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

per aside, muttering, "Too tired, nurse... head hurts... must sleep." His voice trailed away into meaningless babble. He pressed the bell for the nurse. Inez had barely time to drop paper and pen into her bag before the white-starched figure entered.

"Poor Mr. Stafford, he's still rambling," Inez said, preparing to leave. Behind her back the nurse cast a knowing look at Roger and winked solemnly, then ushered Inez out.

That afternoon the unhappy turmoil of Roger's thoughts was broken pleasantly by a visit from Jay Cornwall.

"I'm glad to see you're coming around, Roger," his visitor said cordially. "I was here when you were quite ill. You didn't know me. In your delirium you talked constantly about Patsy and Taranoff, and it worried me. It made me wonder if you had heard the same ugly gossip that I had."

Roger, surprised, asked: "What did I say?"

"You seemed to feel that Patsy was in danger. You said something about her visiting Taranoff's rooms alone. I want you to know, Roger, she was never there alone. I was always with her."

The sick man propped himself higher. It was a relief to talk to someone he could trust.

"I never would have said anything about that if I'd been in my right mind," he said shamefacedly. "I'm relieved to hear from you, sir, that everything's all right. I hope you'll forgive me for meddling even in my thoughts—and I hope Patsy will."

"Patsy knows nothing of all this," Cornwall assured him, "and she never will. She's working hard and Taranoff is helping her. Since the first evening she went to his apartment, I have watched them rehearse, night after night. Our little hearse is becoming a talented actress." Cornwall smiled proudly. "I know you're concerned for her because you're fond of her, but you have nothing to worry about. The incident ends here, between us, my boy."

"You've helped me more than any doctor could by this talk," Roger said gratefully.

"And you, Roger, helped me at a time when no doctor could," Cornwall reminded him. "I can never forget the debt I owe you. Except for your generosity, I would have been a broken wreck. Now there's daylight ahead. I can see a time when I can repay what I owe you. Some day when you will allow me, I want to tell Patsy all you've done for us."

"Forget money, Mr. Cornwall," Roger turned restlessly in the bed. "Persuade Patsy, if you can, not to think unkindly of me. Ask her to let me see her again."

"That's easily done," Cornwall answered. "She's waiting for me downstairs. I'll bring her up."

A FEW minutes later the watchful Inez was dumfounded to see father and daughter enter Roger's room together.

As she came in, Patsy seemed like Spring incarnate to the sick man. Looking at the candid sweetness of her lovely face, he wondered in what mad moment he had allowed his suspicion to mar his faith in her. The girl's presence was a poignant reminder of how hungry he had been for her companionship—how much he had really missed her—all these lonely months. He realized anew that for

When Man's Life
Becomes Stale
And Pointless

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

NEW English story tells of a rich man and his wife sitting alone in the house at night, and the man is wondering if he has really achieved success. His wife tries to reassure him:

"You have so much money to spare," said Mary, hopelessly; "why can't you realize those dreams that people who haven't money live on—travel, buy beautiful things, find strange experiences?"

"Just because I have the money," he said gravely, "I haven't the dreams."

"Mary, what I have discovered about life is that by honestly accepting and living up to the best one has been taught, by keeping one's self above mean acts and cheap dissatisfactions, one may, in the end, only narrow one's heart and put a roof on one's mind, and wake up in middle life to find that one has gone straight up a blind alley."

For a moment he paused, and then added: "With nothing in front but just a blank wall."

It is amazing the number of letters that reach me from people for whom life is deflated, flat, stale, the glamor gone, the romance rubbed off. They are just marking time, and a bit tired of it all.

They have run into a blind alley, against a blank wall. They have, many of them, the goods of life—health, wealth and love—but no striving toward the unrealized, no vision and no dream.

Love, truth, the pursuit of beauty, a sense of achievement, the triumph of creative effort—these they have missed.

Symphony in Gray

PARIS—A new tailored outfit launched for the post-Easter season is a symphony in gray. Its jacket is in checked gray wool. The skirt is of plain gray wool in a darker shade. The lighter gray is repeated in a felt sports hat cut on the swank lines and a crepe blouse with long bishop sleeves.

Obstinate Windows
If you find the weatherstripping causes your windows to stick and prove difficult to open and close, dip a cloth in hot paraffin and rub along the stripping. It will make nice, smooth tracks for the window sash.

That even the hovering Inez did not escape them.

On the day following she came to the hospital as usual. The day nurse stopped her in the hall.

"Mr. Stafford has left the hospital," the nurse said with a touch of quiet malice. "Didn't you know?"

"Gone? Where?" Inez demanded. Fear and disbelief raged in her heart.

"We don't know where." The nurse was curt. "The doctor ordered a cruise. One of Mr. Stafford's friends has taken him and his medical attendants aboard his yacht."

"Did he leave any word for me?" "None." The nurse passed on.

Inez walked slowly down the street from the hospital. Her long vigil had come to nothing. Her trail of schemes had led her to a blank wall. Her confidence in her own cleverness was rudely shaken.

She felt uneasy premonitions—unsure of herself for the first time in her life. But if Roger Stafford thought he could run away from her, he would find himself badly mistaken! For reassurance, she felt the ring on her finger.

"He'll never get this ring back," she told herself grimly, "until he puts a wedding ring in its place."

ON BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell

Memos of a Columnist's Girl Friday

Dear Mr. W.: You certainly ought to love me for this one. Maxwell Anderson, my idea of a playwright and a nice person, last year told radio listeners what he thought of the Pulitzer Prize. He ridiculed it plenty! Well, it looks very much like Mr. Anderson's show, "High Tor," will win it! Russ Morgan ran into a Yacht Club bore the other night. "How are you?" asked the bore. "Fine," said Russ, "but don't tell me how you are—just lemme wish!" The new Ubangi show opening Sunday has a song called "Back in Circulation Now"—but they are a little late. There was such a song title, I think. Not sure, though. I didn't hear Bernice's show, either. So what? A recent study of public libraries in 31 major cities reveals there are more non-fiction readers than ever. What a blow to Hollywood autobiographers!

I hear Jock Whitney put up most of the coin backing "Yes, My Darling Daughter." You should see that show—very good...

Have an unusual request for you. Find out if it is true that newspapermen are no longer immune from jury duty in N. Y. ... Friend of mine was just served...

I was told that Ted Harris recently told an interviewer that he went to the same school where he now lives in New York. How ridiculous! You never even went to school!

Incidentally, Ted gave about Shakespeare to local critics... Did you know that Judge, the mag, has lost several of its stars? Ted Shane, the book man, has resigned... Tressler, the puzzle expert of cross-words, etc., and Kyle Crichton left weeks ago because of the board's attitude toward the cartoonist's Guild. Judge, however, and that group, have reconciled since... Just heard that a London newspaper has a Sunday col'm called: "Our Girl Friday"... Doesn't make sense!

Fred Lamb, owner of Club 18, is very sick... Wanna hear the sweetest combination in town? Then catch Warren and Bode's rhythmmmm's at Mario's MI-radio... Oofly swell—and grand too. Billy Glasco's Fun Fest at WMCA on Sunday afternoon—good air stuff. Rates network attention.

Silly thing happened at the Capitol. In "Maytime," during song by Nelson Eddy, Herman Bing yells "Higher, higher!" Several in the audience thought someone was yelling: "Fire, fire!" and there was panic for several minutes... Anton Wolbrook, the lead in "The Soldier and the Lady," is really named Adolf. Get it? ... At a Wainbow Women luncheon Dorothy Kilgallen told group of women that Leonard Young is Hollywood's smartest dressed femme... From the way you speak of Miss Young she must also be dewonderful... The Palace, Hollywood and France Casino all use the phrase: "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World" in the lights... For commercial candor you can't beat the sign outside the Harlem Yacht Club, to-wit: "The Girl Who Works Here Are the Most Beautiful Working Here!"

Jack Diamond, former UP reporter, who just returned from world tour, was in. Told me about "Tofee"—which is a gentleman's cocker-spaniel. Margaret Keyes how, now he wants to go to Morocco! ... In Clara Booth Luce's book version of her play "The Women," her preface twit the drama critics, who thought the show too cynical of women, etc. She isn't naming any names, tho... Big fraud call!
